WHAT WELL DRESSED WOMEN WILL WEAR

BY Anna Kellenhause

Fashion World Looks for Invasion of America by Paris Designers; Who Are Expected to Open Branch Houses During European War

THE man who originated the new "elegant, made in America" has hit upon a clever and popular phrase. It may be that this continent soon will live up to the suggestion. Possibly the users of things American-made may look for that label with as much enthusiasm as they now do for the foreign labels that so far have been to the average mind a hallmark of worth.

As far as this movement relates to dress, the world of women is quite familiar with the battle for and against the idea. There has never been any strong or genuine impulse toward American fashions; they have been sporadic, "Hamlet" with Hamlet left out. To be more explicit, the reformers reckoned without the women. The quiet sex did not want to experiment with the products of amateurs; nor did they want to wear something that the rest of the world knew nothing about; so they clung close to Paris ideas although it was not possible for any but the few to wear Paris made clothes.

No one has doubted the excellence of the workmanship in America, or any lack of variety, or timeliness. What women have objected to is that people have tried to persuade them into a national dress, as it were; some form of raiment that was not adopted by the fashionable women of the leading cities in the rest of the world. The theorists could not quite understand why women resented it, and yet any business man would laugh at the idea of trying to produce a form of currency in the financial world that was unknown beyond our oceans and not marketable in any of the bourses of other continents.

As long as Paris gave the ideas to the whole world, the American women had no intention of being left out, which is an entirely laudable and ambitious viewpoint. They did not ask their men to institute a form of dress that was not accepted by the other men of the world; they did not insist that they should formulate a code of apparel that was not in keeping with the universal code. So, they took little notice of the requests made by men for different clothes, and the American women have gone on steadily wearing the newest thing in fashion as suggested by Paris, modified here and there by herself or her dressmaker to suit her comfort or her social opportunities. It is probably treasonous to discuss a subject that has been so constantly threshed out among those who were interested in the reforms; but it has its bearing on a vital question of today, which is the threatened invasion of New York by the French dressmakers.

FRENCH INVASION OF AMERICA.

This is a logical movement and was to be expected. America is the tailoring "white hope" of the world. Its women are the only ones who have the money, or desire, to buy clothes. If Paris has not the industrial activity necessary to produce clothes because all he working models. The cost of rental and labor in America is a staggering fact for the French business woman to meet. The cost of a winter in New York in a fashionable quarter is no easy matter to adjust by a foreigner whose capital is probably tied up during the war.

That any one of these designers could come to America and receive an enormous sum of money by co-operation with a native house, is a fact of which we are sure; but would a great designer who has held supreme power in Paris care to be in partnership with an American firm?

She or he might get sufficient advertising by it to make it worth while, but it is not very probable that the arrangement would flow smoothly for any length of time.

So after all, America, during the war, may have its fashions created by Paris. The move must be made soon for the early autumn ideas in apparel are well thrashed out and settled, and whether or not the majority of women want new clothes, exclusive shops and large wholesale houses begin to import models for later trade around Thanksgiving.

AMERICA TO DO DESIGNING.

Realizing that the question is vital and that if American dressmakers do not try their hand at some strong work along this line, there will be danger of trade falling off, the New York firms who feel confidence in their designing, will give a series of original costumes at the Ritz-Carlton in New York during the first week in November. Such fashion leaders as Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Vincent Astor and Mrs. Bertram Hartman will be the patronesses of the show and the jury will be made up of those who are able to detect a French gown from an original American one.

In order to lure great numbers of women to see these gowns, there will be dancing and tea and brilliant dinners and luncheons. The opening night will see the entire restaurant of the Ritz-Carlton taken by fashionable women at dinner preceding the show, and it is rumored that some of the loveliest

FULL SKIRTED EVENING FROCKS, WHIMS OF FASHION

Here are two new evening frocks with really full skirts. The one on the right is by Drecoll, and it is made of black satin and lace, with a ruffle hem edged with monkey fur. A cord made of huge jet beads hangs in long ends from the waist. On the left is a frock by Callot, of pale green silk brocaded with silver flowers, with ruffles in the front of silver lace.

She alone can be the judge of what style of suit is the best to buy, but she must beware of the overlong coat and the overlong skirt. If the skirt were narrow, the silhouette would be exactly the same as it has been for five months with the long pleated tunic over a narrow underskirt; but the arbiters of fashion have widened the hem and taken the width from the hips, and eliminated drapery and given us a straight line from the nape of our neck to the turn of our heel, broken only below the knees.

The dictum that calls for a very short walking skirt is being widely followed and it is a convenient and comfortable fashion, but it can be overdone in a conspicuous way. A woman with gray hair and large hips looks at her worst in a skirt cut off at her shoe tops, no matter whether her ankles are well covered with smart shoes or not. The thin, angular woman should be careful about the length of her skirt and, in fact any woman who has her dignity to preserve should watch carefully every eighth of an inch that a dressmaker is taking off the hem.

After the length of the skirt is decided pay attention to the length of the coat, also to its flare. While the long coat with its circular plenum is assuredly the most fashionable, there are many types of short skirts that are in style. There is a revival of the old-fashioned covert cloth coat with many seams at the back, cut away in the front, with a high turnover collar; it is worn with a plaid skirt of brown and yellow or a skirt of its own fabric. There is a Callot model made of this ribbed cloth which is having a good deal of success.

The best reason against giving a high price for a coat suit this winter is that a one-piece gown is the desired garment for all indoor occasions. Time was when the jacket and skirt with different blouses served for all the day hours, no matter whether or not the occasion was social; but this winter the elaborate one-piece frock is decidedly the choice for any indoor occasion that begins after twelve o'clock.

The skirts of these frocks are not so short as the skirts for street wear. Some of the smartest houses advocate a skirt that just clears the floor, while, of course, there are others that cut the skirts off at the shoe tops. We seem to have a mania for short skirts which has probably been brought about through dancing, but I noticed with interest that certain famous houses are cutting the other kind of skirts.

One can choose any color for a one-piece frock to-day. Dressing for the house is not governed by any of the rules that once controlled it. Frocks are worn that sometimes seem more suitable for a dinner party than a luncheon, or for a dance than an afternoon game of bridge, but the tendency this winter to bring the material high on the shoulders somewhat offsets the other fashion.

Black is again a favorite color, but deep blue has invaded even this field.

Best root red is a fashionable tone and Saxe blue touched with black or with silver is worn. All the brilliant shades of red came in with the war, and there is no diminution of their popularity.

THAT CLEVER "TOUCH OF COLOR"

Do you remember, years ago, what a "touch of color" meant? Of course it did not mean anything very definite. But it seemed to be an easier thing then to give a touch of color to a too somber frock than it is today. A bow of cherry ribbon in the hair—lots of heroines of novels wore one. A red, red rose at the belt—a real one, of course—was another method of giving color to one's dress. Then there were velvet bows that were plumed or sown rather prominently about the frock—bows of wine red, burnt orange, emerald green and other uncomprising colors.

That old method was attractive, doubtless, but it was far, far different from the method of today.

A bow of bright color or a flower in the hair is no longer in place—although of course, it may be again next year. And artificial flowers at the belt, when there is a belt, have taken the place of natural ones. But nevertheless the touch of bright color can be accomplished to day as well as it was yesterday, albeit in a different way.

WITH ROMAN STRIPES.

One way to give color to a dark and somber frock is with Roman stripes. This is not new. We did it last year.

But we do it differently this year.

In the first place, the Roman stripes of this season are different. They are often of dark, deep shades. When they are amount at a time is used. A collar, cuffs and collar, a girdle, a waistcoat, piping for buttonholes, facings etc., these appear in Roman stripes. Sometimes, of course, the foundation of a serge frock, which has a long serge tunic, will be of Roman stripes. Sometimes, too, there will be a Roman striped bodice. There are some very good ones in chiffon of dark stripes mounted over blue net to wear with dark serge or gabardine suits. But usually the stripes are used in small amounts.

THE ARTIFICIAL FLOWER.

Probably never before have artificial flowers had such a vogue as they have just now. And small corsage flower is one of the best means of giving color to a dark street frock or suit.

There are bunches of tiny flowers in brilliant red that are very good. There are bouquets consisting of a rose bud, a few forget-me-nots and a sprig or two of green that are good. Then there are mimosa, nasturtiums, poppies and many other flowers in their own natural rich coloring.

The placing of the flower is rather important. It can be placed on the left shoulder with good effect. It looks well at the closing of a ruff or a close collar of velvet and fur.

Of course the flower on an evening frock is usually part of the frock. That is to say, it is placed in position when the frock is made. However, a frock that needs a little refreshing can be brightened up with a new flower. And one of the newest places to put it is about half way down the back.

There are some especially striking silk that have been used to line some of the new evening coats. They are figured in various unusual ways. One is called the Nubian design, and it shows the figures of Nubian carmen bending to their ears small figures, five or six inches high, symmetrically placed. Another design that have been used to line some of the new evening coats. They are figured in various unusual ways. One is called the Nubian design, and it shows the figures of Nubian carmen bending to their ears actresses in New York will display the us to get to facts. What are you buying in the way of new autumn clothes. and what need are you struggling to supply?

Is it a street suit, or an evening gown, or an afternoon frock for which you have the strongest desire? Are you trying to decide between velvet and cloth, between net and chiffon? If so, perhaps a story of what is worn will help you to a decision.

The one-piece frock is a trifle more important than the coat suit. This is of bright shades, they have much harking back to other times. Both styles of carmen are in the market, and the designers have evolved novel and interesting ideas in both. If a woman can afford frocks and suits in her winter wardrobe, she is lucky indeed, and she need not fret her mind as to which will give the best service.

If a woman cannot afford a well-filled purse or an elastic change account, she might have the one-piece frocks made at home, or by the little dressmakers who are becoming scarce since the large shops throw out such a skirt of green cloth with gray for collar and cuffs. The skirt is moderately full about the ankles, and the jacket flares widely over the hips.

There are many reasons for and against this movement of virtual transportation from the rue de la Paix, the rue Auber and other well known sources of French

SUFFRAGISTS NOW WAR NURSES

Militant Societies Turn Resources to Aiding Victims of Crisis.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The women suffragists are doing fine work in relieving distress caused by the war. The votes-for-women propaganda has been abandoned completely for the present and many of the organizations are placing all of their resources at the service of needy women. In London alone there are some 60,000 women who were earning their own living before the war, but who have since become destitute, many facing starvation.

The active service league of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, which includes in its ranks over 600 societies which have been working for suffrage by constitutional means, has an organized relief bureau in its offices in a shop on Parliament street, and the branch offices throughout the country are also filled with suffragists working for their country. The workers distinguish themselves by wearing a uniform consisting of a dark green coat and skirt, green felt hats, with badges and ties of red and green—the union's colors.

The assistance of German women and girls stranded in London is included in the relief program.

The union has had many offers of hospitality for stranded people, and many private school mistresses have offered free education for daughters of officers killed in action. Several workrooms have been started where out-of-work women are paid 10 shillings a week of forty hours—the trade union rate—for making garments which are given to destitute people.

CASES ARE PATHETIC. Many pathetic cases have been aided. A British girl, a children's nurse in Paris, arrived there after a four years' engagement in Chile. She left Paris when a siege was threatened, leaving her luggage behind, and before the union found her she had been living for three days in London on bread and butter and tea.

One woman offered hospitality to a Belgian refugee, one month's captain, ex-Belgian, that her small income had dropped one-third, and she did not know whether at the end of one month it would drop altogether or not. She was anxious while she could afford it to have so great a privilege as that of giving shelter to a Belgian.

Another woman who was at a small inn, received two Belgian children, who were taken to her by a suffragist in a motor car. Suddenly the children began to shout for joy, for they recognized in the hostess of the inn their mother, from whom they had been separated during the war.

An English woman doctor, married to a German doctor, has suddenly had the whole of her income cut off, as her husband, having to live under the restrictions for aliens, has lost all his practice.

A journalist, who had been earning $300 a year and was discharged by his paper, enlisted, as he was penniless. If the wife gets all his pay and her War Office allowance she will only have about $5 a week.

At Manchester work is being found in a warehouse for 500 women and penny dinners are provided. At Southampton the art gallery has been turned into a women's workroom. In Dublin the suffragists, by getting an army contract for a jam factory, where a lot of girls are employed, saved it from closing down.

TITLED WOMAN HELPS.

Lady Beatrice Barclay, the wife of Sir George Barclay, British Minister at Bucharest, is one of the principal workers in the ambulance department of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, which is the senior Red Cross organization in England. Lady Barclay is an American, the daughter of the late Henry G. Chapman of New York and great-granddaughter of John Jay, the first American Minister to England.

Five thousand men belonging to the St. John ambulance brigade have been mobilized and are serving with the British army and navy as hospital orderlies, and several thousand more have volunteered for the work. The society has sent out 138 highly trained nurses to tend the wounded on the field and many more are in waiting. Much of the work of the ambulance bearers and even the nurses is performed under fire.

The Duchess of Bedford and the Earl of Plymouth are two of the most active workers in the organization. Its activities are not limited to British soldiers and sailors, but its workers are instructed to tend the wounded of all nationalities without discrimination.

AMERICANS WARNED TO TRAVEL WITH PASSPORTS

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Americans without passports have suffered so many hardships and delays in Europe since the opening of the war that there is talk of their advocating a sweeping order in the United States requiring all Americans to provide themselves with passports before going abroad.

American diplomats and consuls say they would not be surprised if steamship lines operating between the United States and Europe were to refuse very shortly to accept passengers destined for Europe if not provided with passports or other authentic credentials. By accepting passengers who have no passports the American is at great risk under the rigid immigration regulations recently promulgated by England. Such passengers are even likely to be sent back to America at the expense of the steamship companies. This is especially true of naturalized American citizens who have names distinctly foreign.

Proceedings of prize courts also disclose many complications in which seamen as well as passengers have frequently found themselves in need if papers to prove their nationality. In the man who traded Kaiser for King.

FIELD HOWITZERS DECIMATE ALLIES

Effect of German Fire Upon Troops in Close Formation Proves Terrible.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—What the effect of German field howitzers fire can be when directed upon troops in close formation, is described in the letter of a German officer, which, published in the Corporal, of September 20, reads as follows:

"On August 22, at 8 o'clock in the evening just as we were about to go into quarters a fight developed suddenly. Before we knew what had happened we were in the ditch of it. It was quite dark. The French were badly thumped.

"That night we slept in a ditch along the highway with the starry sky for blanket. The cold was mean."

MACDONOUGH

C. Goodwin, is announced by the local management to appear at the Macdonough Theater on Monday evening, for three nights only.

This is easily one of the most important engagements on the list of this season's theatricals, and we believe the boy who plays the parts will be able to "what's doing" and not miss this, possibly their last opportunity to see America's greatest actor; for, be it known, Goodwin has contemplated abandoning the long, arduous road tours more than once.

On the occasion of this visit Goodwin will be seen in his three new success-

FOR East is West and West is East when it is a matter of society. Very much the same conditions prevail in the smart sets of Chicago, New York, St. Louis and San Francisco. So the dictum of the leaders of the fashionable set of New York may be said to outline the social policy of the winter. One of the leaders writes in timely fashion:

"While there will be no change in the methods of entertaining, and the season promises to be a very busy one and a fairly long one, as Ash Wednesday falls on February 17, all social activities will be enveloped in the shadows of war. This is inevitable but it does not mean that society is going about with long faces. What does signify is that the majority of large functions to be given in the year future at least will bear a direct or indirect relation to matters brought up by the war abroad. Of course the abutant affairs, the opera, the dinners and dances, will serve to keep alive the social fires while the season is assuming shape, but it is evident from the many announcements sent within the last fortnight that the men and women of society are planning to work together for peace and prosperity and personal service."

"It was to be expected that the war would cause little or no variation in the plans and preparations for entertainments for the debutantes. The presentation of daughters to society is a fixture which not even the rumble of conflict can shake. Plans were practically completed for the debutantes long before the war broke. Some of the buds were abroad with their parents at the time and were among the refugees. The debutantes this season who can entertain with war talk from personal experiences is sure to receive widespread attention."

Fond parents are announcing no modification of plans for the present. Parents naturally feel inspired to do the handsome thing for their daughters. It is a momentous occasion for the girls. Youth must be served. It looks now as if the younger generation would dominate the early entertainments of the winter."

Over fifty debutantes are on the list in New York City and they will probably be brought out at dances or very formal receptions. There are not so many debutantes this year in the cities around the bay, but they are all delightful and interesting girls. It is a matter of regret that there are not to be the Friday Night dances this season, for many of the girls in the past have made their debuts at these dances. But the patronesses of the Friday Night think they have done their full duty and so they were reluctant to go on this season.

CARD CLUBS RESUME AUTUMNAL ACTIVITY.

The many card clubs held interesting meetings last week, among them the Cosmos, Monday and Wheelock clubs.

Next Thursday afternoon Mrs. William H. Creed will entertain the members of the Wheelock Club at her handsome home on Vernon Heights. The club was organized several years ago, and its membership enlists a number of the most prominent society matrons on this side of the bay. The afternoon will be passed at bridge, after which Mrs. Creed will entertain the club members at tea. The members of the club are Mrs. Andrew Simpson, Mrs. A. C. Posey, Mrs. Guy C. Earl, Mrs. J. J. Valentine, Mrs. William Locke, Mrs. Samuel J. Taylor, Mrs. Edward C. Prather, Mrs. Henry C. Morris, Mrs. J. P. Kenna, Mrs. Landers Redman, Mrs. Lowndes Scott, Mrs. Janet Height.

Mrs. Murray Orrick has sent out cards for one of the important bridge afternoons of the month, and her guest of honor will be Mrs. William Orrick, who recently returned from an extended European wedding trip.

Mrs. Orrick will be assisted in receiving her friends by her sisters, Mrs. George Hammer and Mrs. Irving Burrell and by Miss Elizabeth Grinnick.

CALIFORNIA GIRL JUDGE AT "PEKINSE" SHOW.

Californians come to the foreground on so many sides that it is interesting to know that a California girl, Miss Lydia Hopkins, is to be the judge at the "Pekinese" Show in New York. It is immensely interesting to read about it. The annual show is to be a very fashionable event at the Hotel Plaza. Miss Lydia Hopkins is the only daughter of Timothy Hopkins of Sherwood Hall, Menlo Park.

Miss Hopkins is president of the Pacific Toy Dog Association and owns about 200 Pekinese, Pomeranians and Brussels griffins.

This year the ballroom at the Plaza is to be specially decorated for the Pekinese Show. The key of all the adornments will be Chinese in character. There will be a display of the gay colors favored in the Orient, and flowers will be everywhere. These arrangements will be in the capable hands of Mrs. Morris Mandy. Last year several of the dogs were exhibited in tiny pagodas, and one of those owned by Miss Elsie de Wolfe was much admired. There were costly embroideries and the dogs lay on fabrics of antiquity and great value. Green and gold were the predominant colors and gilt figures of dragons were much in evidence.

It would appear, however, that the Chinese decorations at the California shows have far surpassed those in New York, but it is likely that the tables will be turned next month. The value of the prizes offered at the Pekinese Club Show far exceed in value and beauty those of any other specialty dog club in America. MRS. CASTLE "TAKES UP" GRIFFON—UNDER HER ARM.

And apropos of dogs as pets among members of the smart set one reads:

Among the latest to take up the Brussels griffon is Mrs. Vernon Castle. While her husband was busy among the German shepherd dogs working as police dogs at the Montclair trials Mrs. Castle walked about with a little griffon under her arm. These dogs are becoming more and more popular, and now that cropping is not to be stopped in America these Belgian dogs can be imported and exhibited here. That is, when the war is over.

Mrs. Castle said that she meant to go in for the little Belgian dogs. They are smart, highly intelligent and always have that alertness about them that suggests "Who said rats?"

Of course, Mrs. Castle of Castle House takes the lead in New York, and many members of the smart set are sure to follow when she leads. So we may expect to hear much of "the griffon" in the future.

TALBOT WALKERS GIVE HOUSE PARTY AT MENLO.

Many notes from the smart set are of extreme interest in these early days of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Walker are giving a house party at their home at Menlo Park over the weekend. Among the young people who motored to the Walker home were Miss Florence Henshaw, Miss Nina Jones and Charles Keeney. It is announced that

Miss Henshaw and Charles Keeney are to be married in December, but definite details are not announced, as Dr. James Keeney, father of the groom elect, has been very ill.

Miss Harriet Stone has been spending the past week in Sacramento as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Luke Harris.

Next week Miss Stone will leave for Nevada and she will spend a month with her sister, Mrs. Grayson Hinckley, at Benowave, Nevada.

TORTOISE SHELL AND AMBER ON HANDLES.

Long tortoise shell and amber-real, of course—handles and ferrules are being used on the newest sunshades and umbrellas. Sets of handle, ferrule and ten covers for ribs can now be bought and are easily adjusted to any umbrella. They are expensive but beautiful, and certainly a bit out of the ordinary.

SCHILLINGS AND MISS SIMPSON TO RETURN SOON.

Mr. and Mrs. August Schilling, Miss Else Schilling and Miss Beatrice Simpson arrived in Montreal from England two weeks ago, and they are expected to arrive in Oakland this week. They have spent the past four days in New York. Mrs. Prentiss Selby, who crossed with them, is with relatives in California, and Arthur Selby has resumed his studies at Princeton.

Beautiful Hair Tinting

Absolutely and Positively Harmless "Brownstone" Instantly Changes the Hair to Any Shade of Brown (or Black if Preferred.)

Nothing so robs a woman of her good looks and attractiveness as gray-streaked or faded hair. And there is no more reason or sense in tolerating unattractive hair than in wearing unbecoming gowns. Nearly all of the more noted beauties long ago recognized this fact, and so wear their hair not only in the style, but also the color, most attractive. The one hair stain which stands supreme is "Brownstone," it is simple and easy to use. Just comb or brush it into your hair. It cannot be detected, nor run or wash off, act instantly, and is absolutely harmless.

"Brownstone" gives any shade desired, from golden brown to black. Your druggist sells "Brownstone," or will get it for you, and it is worth your while to insist upon having this preparation act on something else. A sample receipt of 10 cents, and your orders will be filled direct from our laboratories if you prefer.

Two sizes—25c and $1.00.

Two shades—One for Golden or Medium Brown, the other for Dark Brown or Black. Insist on "Brownstone" at your druggist's.

MRS. CASTLE "TAKES UP" GRIFFON—UNDER HER ARM.

As a matter of fact, the day of the lavish spender is gone, so far as New York is concerned. We shall never see again the era that ended

It was nothing for a dinner to cost $25 a cover. Nowadays, the average is about $4.50."

HOW UNCLE SAM AVERTED CRISIS WHEN WAR BEGAN

PANIC IN VIEW, STRINGENCY IS FAIRLYCHECKED

Emergency Currency Issues in Tremendous Sums to Country

WASHINGTON, D. C. — One department of the United States Government directly affected by the European war has broken all its records for work by printing paper money. In the month of August the Bureau of Engraving and Printing issued to the country the enormous sum of $40,000,000 in currency, issued by the orders of the President and the Secretary of the Treasury, to avert the threatened stringency of funds which would naturally follow the crisis reached by the many declarations of war.

To do this the bureau of engraving and printing, under Director Joseph E. Ralph, worked day and night, for national bank notes are printed only after the actual orders have been placed by the hundreds of institutions throughout the country.

Realizing that the European war was bound to cause a financial stringency, the Administration decided to allow the issuance of emergency currency to relieve the banks of the country. As a result the orders started to pour in.

The wave swept across the country, starting in New York, where such institutions as the Hanover National Bank, the City National and the National Bank of Commerce, ordered $20,000,000 each of the new currency. Boston and Philadelphia followed suit, each taking large amounts, though nearly $150,000,000 was ordered from New York before the outside cities were heard from.

LARGE SUMS DEMANDED.

Then the movement started westward. Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo and Pittsburgh all turned in their orders, which were in lots of from $5,000,000 upward; and finally Chicago was reached. There the Continental Commercial Bank alone demanded $15,000,000 in notes, all of which had to be made and shipped within a few days, if they were to accomplish the purpose for which they were ordered.

The first call for this money came August 1, and it was not until ten days later that the Pacific Coast was heard from and San Francisco asked that $22,000,000 in currency be made in Washington and shipped West with the utmost dispatch.

To accomplish this task was something which was deemed impossible. The demands were insistent. Orders were sent in by long distance telephone, the bank presidents talking with Director Ralph of the bureau of engraving and printing in an effort to get their respective share of the new money first. It was only through a superb organization in one of the finest factories in the world that delivery could be made promptly and in such a manner as to satisfy all.

By calling back all the employees who were on vacation, urging all to top speed and working the plant twenty-four hours a day, the demands of New York, reaching more than $150,000,000, were satisfied and the money placed in the hands of the banks within two weeks.

As a matter of fact, the ability to accomplish this work is said to be due to the fact that Director Ralph had insisted upon the installation of power presses to take the place of the slow hand press.

RECORD ON NEW YORK BANK.

Perhaps the best record which the bureau made was on the order sent in by the Park National Bank of New York. In this case there were no plates on hand from which the notes could be printed. The making of a plate, under ordinary circumstances, takes approximately ten days; but in an emergency like that which existed it was necessary to do better. Engravers started their work at once, and by working double shifts, one man taking up the work the very moment that the first had done his part, the plate was ready for use in sixteen hours.

The bank had ordered $5,000,000 in notes Monday, August 7, and by the following Saturday the plate had been completed, and the entire work finished with the delivery of this amount to the bank in New York. The impossible had been accomplished.

From the time the paper for the national bank notes is started in the New England mills until the notes themselves are actually placed in circulation the process followed is one of painstaking care. When the sheets of paper are delivered to the bureau they are placed in storage until needed for the actual work when the first process of wetting is completed.

Up to three years ago this was done by hand, but now the wetting is done with greater uniformity and at a considerable saving in expense by a machine. The object of wetting is to render the surface of the sheets plastic and ready to take the delicate embossing of the next part of the work, which is printing the backs.

This is most interesting, 1800 people being kept busy in the great room where this part of the work is done. The ink which is specially prepared in the bank under the supervision of an expert chemist, is rolled all over the plate, filling in the depressions as well as covering the smooth surface of the plate. This pigment is then rubbed off with the bare hand, leaving each line on the plate carefully filled.

The plate is then placed on the press, a damp sheet of paper is laid upon it, and it passes under the roller, and thus the design, with all its delicate shading and details, is transferred to the paper. This work requires a high degree of skill, and each printer is allowed a woman assistant, whose duty it is to place the sheets on the plate and remove them after the printing is completed.

Next the sheets go to the drying room, where the partly finished bills are allowed to remain at least five days to season, except in such rush times as at the beginning of the war, when two days are the extreme limit. Then they are placed in the humidors and reheat to prepare them for the printers who will finish their work by printing the face.

IMPERFECT NOTES DESTROYED.

This process is similar to the printing of the backs, and is again followed by drying. Then comes one of the more particular branches of the work, the inspection by the examiners to see that every note is perfect and that there is no blemish of any kind. These experts, who are all women, handle from 35,000 to 40,000 sheets daily under ordinary conditions; but while the emergency currency is being hurried out they have often run as high as 65,000 and 70,000 sheets a day.

About 1 per cent of the notes are found imperfect and are turned back to the bureau of loans and currency. These are all carefully accounted for and washed clean of all ink before being placed in a huge incinerator, where they are burned up and out. The Bureau obtains an annual income of about $22,000 through the sale of this pulp, which is used for making paper mache of a special kind.

From the hands of the examiners the printed sheets go to the sizing room, where they are covered on both sides with a preparation of animal glue and alum which imparts to the notes the crispness which makes new paper money so attractive. This also serves as a shield for the ink and adds many years to the life of our paper money. The notes are then baked in a room which is kept at a temperature of 180 degrees, hardening the glue.

Then comes the ironing, when the sheets are passed between rollers similar to those in the mills where armor plate is made. They come out as smooth as though polished. Next the sheets are carefully trimmed, due allowance being made for the possible expansion or contraction which may have taken place in the wetting and drying of the sheets.

NOTES NUMBERED AND SEALED.

Now comes the final process when the notes are numbered and sealed, this being done by the most intricate machine in the entire bureau. In the case of silver and gold certificates the notes are cut apart on the sheets and wrapped in bundles of 100 each; but with the bank notes, which form the emergency currency, they are left in their sheets of four and only cut apart after they have been signed by the cashier and president of the institution for which they have been issued.

The work to be done on the bank notes in this final process is complicated, as each note must be stamped with its number, with the name of the bank charter and the letter signifying what section of the country it is located in, as well as with the denomination numerals and seal of the Treasury.

One of the important departments, however, has been left out, the engraving division. Here, after the plate itself has been made by the experts on decarbonized steel, which is imported from London, it is hardened by a special secret process. This die, as it is called, goes to a skilled workman known as a "transferer," who using it as a negative, places the die in an extremely powerful press and transfers its perfect lines to a roll of soft decarbonized steel. The engraving on the die being in intaglio, the soft steel roll is forced into every line and dot of the die, and when a perfect impression has been secured the beautiful engraving appears in relief on the surface of the roll.

Die for Each Note.

This is then hardened by the secret process. Through this process the several parts intended for use on the notes are then transferred and assembled by the rolls on the die to constitute the note, which is known as the original die. This differs for each national note; while the general design is the same for all notes of this class, there is a distinctive back for each State in the 1882 issue and the name, place and charter number differ in each case.

After the parts have all been assembled on the original die a certain amount of hand work is done by the letter and ornamental engravers to unite the different parts into an artistic whole, after which the original die is hardened and a roll is made on which all the lines on the actual bank note appear in relief.

ISLE OF MAN CONTRIBUTES.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—From the Isle of Man there comes this news: "The Manx Government Council and House of Keys met together in Tynwald yesterday and unanimously decided to ask the Imperial Government to accept $50,000 as a contribution from the Isle of Man toward the expenses of war. Members supporting the resolution said that the gift was only an indication of the readiness of the fifty thousand people of the island to sacrifice all their resources in support of Great Britain at this juncture."

WHAT GOES INTO SHOES

To those who think that the United States is independent of the world when it comes to the matter of making shoes, the following proof of dependency on other countries, to a stringency in the money market. It amounts to 40 per cent of the entire capitalization of the national banks of the United States.

AMERICA LEADS.

The plate printers of the bureau are still in a trade in which the United States is recognized as being ahead of all other nations, earn big wages, and the conditions under which they work are almost ideal.

The new building into which the men moved only a few months ago is one of the handsomest structures in Washington and fitted with every possible device which can render the employees comfortable while they are at their work.

The plate printers are paid piecework. They average about $12 a day when working twelve hours, as in the present rush. On the power presses the pay is set at $2 a thousand, and here the men average about $500 a day, making their wages for twelve hours $12.

The lowest pay given any person in the bureau goes to the printers' assistants, who are generally young girls, and are given $1.75 a day. They have comforts which the ordinary working girl would never expect. One of the special features is the cooperative lunch room, at which meals are served to practically all of the 4300 employees each day. The meals are simple and along practical lines, but cost only a part of what the city restaurants demand.

CARE OF WORKERS.

Another feature of the plant is its hospital. Here from twenty to thirty minor cases are treated each day, most of them women. Two doctors, one of whom is a woman, handle this work, which is naturally heavier during the hot weather than at any other

HOW NEW 'WIRELESS EYE' LOCATES FOES

With the aid of a newly-constructed wireless "eye," devised by Marconi, the Italian inventor, a battleship now can view its foes from afar.

There is something grim and impersonal about the English way of taking the war. But the English cannot turn a London street without meeting an extended hand for some fund to benefit the soldiers.

It is the wireless finder is remarkable for its simplicity. Although one of Marconi's engineers, Signor Emilio Ichnio, was on the Royal George to make the tests, its operation does not require an expert, and any of the bridge officers can obtain a bearing as easily as with a compass, and just as conveniently, the instrument being set up in the chartroom.

The device is not bulky. The "detector" box, which is the medium for locating the wireless station, is but large enough to hold two small switches and a graduated dial fitted with a movable indicator.

Connected with this cabinet is the telephone box differing from others in that it is equipped with a crystal of carbon which transmits the wireless into a signal intelligible to the ear of the operator. There are two receivers fitted to the ears of the operator by metal straps going over the head.

These are now the only ones planned, until now the system is recognized as a standard one in the Oakland schools. The open air school did not start when plans for such classrooms were made for children of tubercular tendencies, and so successful were these that others were planned, until now the system is recognized as a standard one in the Oakland schools.

The open air school did not originate in Oakland, but it was here that it attained its highest degree of perfection, due largely to the striking original research along these lines of J. D. Donovan, supervising architect, who designed the schools.

The classrooms are composed prin-

Open-Air Construction Is Now Standard for New Institutions of Learning

Oakland, besides being unique in California in its new school building activities, has constructed schools that have proved unique in school construction not only in California, but throughout the entire nation. The remarkable climate of California has proven one of the principal factors in this work and today Oakland's novel open air schools are being copied widely throughout the country.

The sub-normal courses of the Oakland schools have also been a departure from usual educational lines and have of late been widely copied.

This work was started some years ago when Mrs. Vinolia C. Hicks, psychologist, was brought to Oakland to direct the school psychological laboratory.

In the sub-normal classes children unduly backward from different causes are brought up to standard where possible, or also taught useful trades and vocations. Each student requires different treatment. In these classes sewing, cobbling and other work is taught, simple reading and arithmetic lessons are given and often supposedly "half-witted" children are turned out as successful in study as the regular students.

The children, when backward in class work, are sent to Mrs. Hicks for investigation. Through tests, physical and mental, she determines the cause of trouble. If it is physical they are sent to Dr. N. K. Foster in the medical department. If mental they enter the special classes. Mrs. Hicks is a noted authority on the subject and has lectured before many teachers' gatherings on her work.

Where General War Started

It was at the Bridge of the Arches at Lierce that the Pan-European war started. The German army had penetrated thus far into Belgian territory and General Emmich passed over this bridge with a flag of truce demanding the surrender of the city. But he reckoned without his hosts. The Walloons, as the people of this part of Belgium are called, are a hardworking but high strung people, rebellious stock with a Celtic basis.

By the finder a wireless operator on board determines the direction of a message to him. This direction is found in relation to the course of the ship, or, in other words, the finder indicates the angle which a straight line between the station on the ship and the station sending the message makes with the center line of the ship, but running from stem to stern. If the station sending the message is directly abreast of the ship, or only a few degrees off the port or starboard bow, the indicator will show this fact, and with this knowledge the navigating officer of the ship may alter his course to avoid collision.

The twill for the inside lining is made from cotton grown in Texas, woven in Massachusetts, stiffened in Philadelphia with paste from Kansas wheat flour. Thread spun from sea island cotton supplies the top stitching. The felt heel pads are made from the wool of Ohio sheep, felted in a New York State town, distributed in Boston and glued in place with gum arabic from Egypt.

The shoe lace is made from native cotton thread colored with logwood from Yucatan, annil blacks and other ingredients. Silk from China provides the mazer with his name. Iron ore dug in Sweden supplies the nails which fasten heel and toe.

A certain steel, especially made for this purpose, which holds the top layer on the heel. The lacing hooks and eyes were fashioned from Connecticut, a combination from the mines of Joplin and copper from the Lake Superior deposits of that metal providing their foundation material.

Asatine, an ebony like substance of eight distinct and separate constituents gathered in South America, Asia and the United States, covers them and gives them their darkened gleam.

General Emmich had barely got clear of the bridge in returning to his army when it was blown into fragments by the Belgians. It came to grief through war had had dozen of its gallant crew since the first shot was thrown across the stream in the eleventh century. Soon the German forces reached the river and began building a pontoon bridge beside that which was wrecked. The Belgians waited until the troops were crossing.

In the meantime they had trained their guns upon the enemy. This artillery had been made in their own houses, for gunmaking is a leading industry there. Each artisan takes the parts of a gun home and there works them into a perfect whole. If they have been different measures have been applied with the utmost effort.

"Another very important reason lies in the fact that the bullet fired from a modern rifle travels with such velocity as to obviate the danger of a ragged wound and unless a vital organ lies in the path of it, the recovery presents no over-difficult problem."

MODERN PACKING HOUSE FOR OAKLAND

Building Permits Show Tendency Toward Steady Gain During Week.

This week saw considerable increase in residence building of the small type, due in a large measure, it is declared by realty men, to the probable opening of several new factories along the water front. Most of the buildings are renting homes, to be held as investments, and a large number are to be constructed for sale on easy payment plans, according to firms erecting these homes.

One of the largest of the week's permits was one for a $10,000 structure, the new brick packing house of Orr and Breidoe. This is to be a modern meat packing plant, with large windows, sanitary interior finishing and all the modern accessories of a large plant.

Calvin M. Orr, former president of the Board of Education, and senior partner in the firm to erect the building, announced the plans for the structure exclusively in THE TRIBUNE several weeks ago. The taking out of the permit, it is declared, will mean immediate construction work.

The permits for the week included the:

NEW HOTELS FAST CROWDING OAKLAND

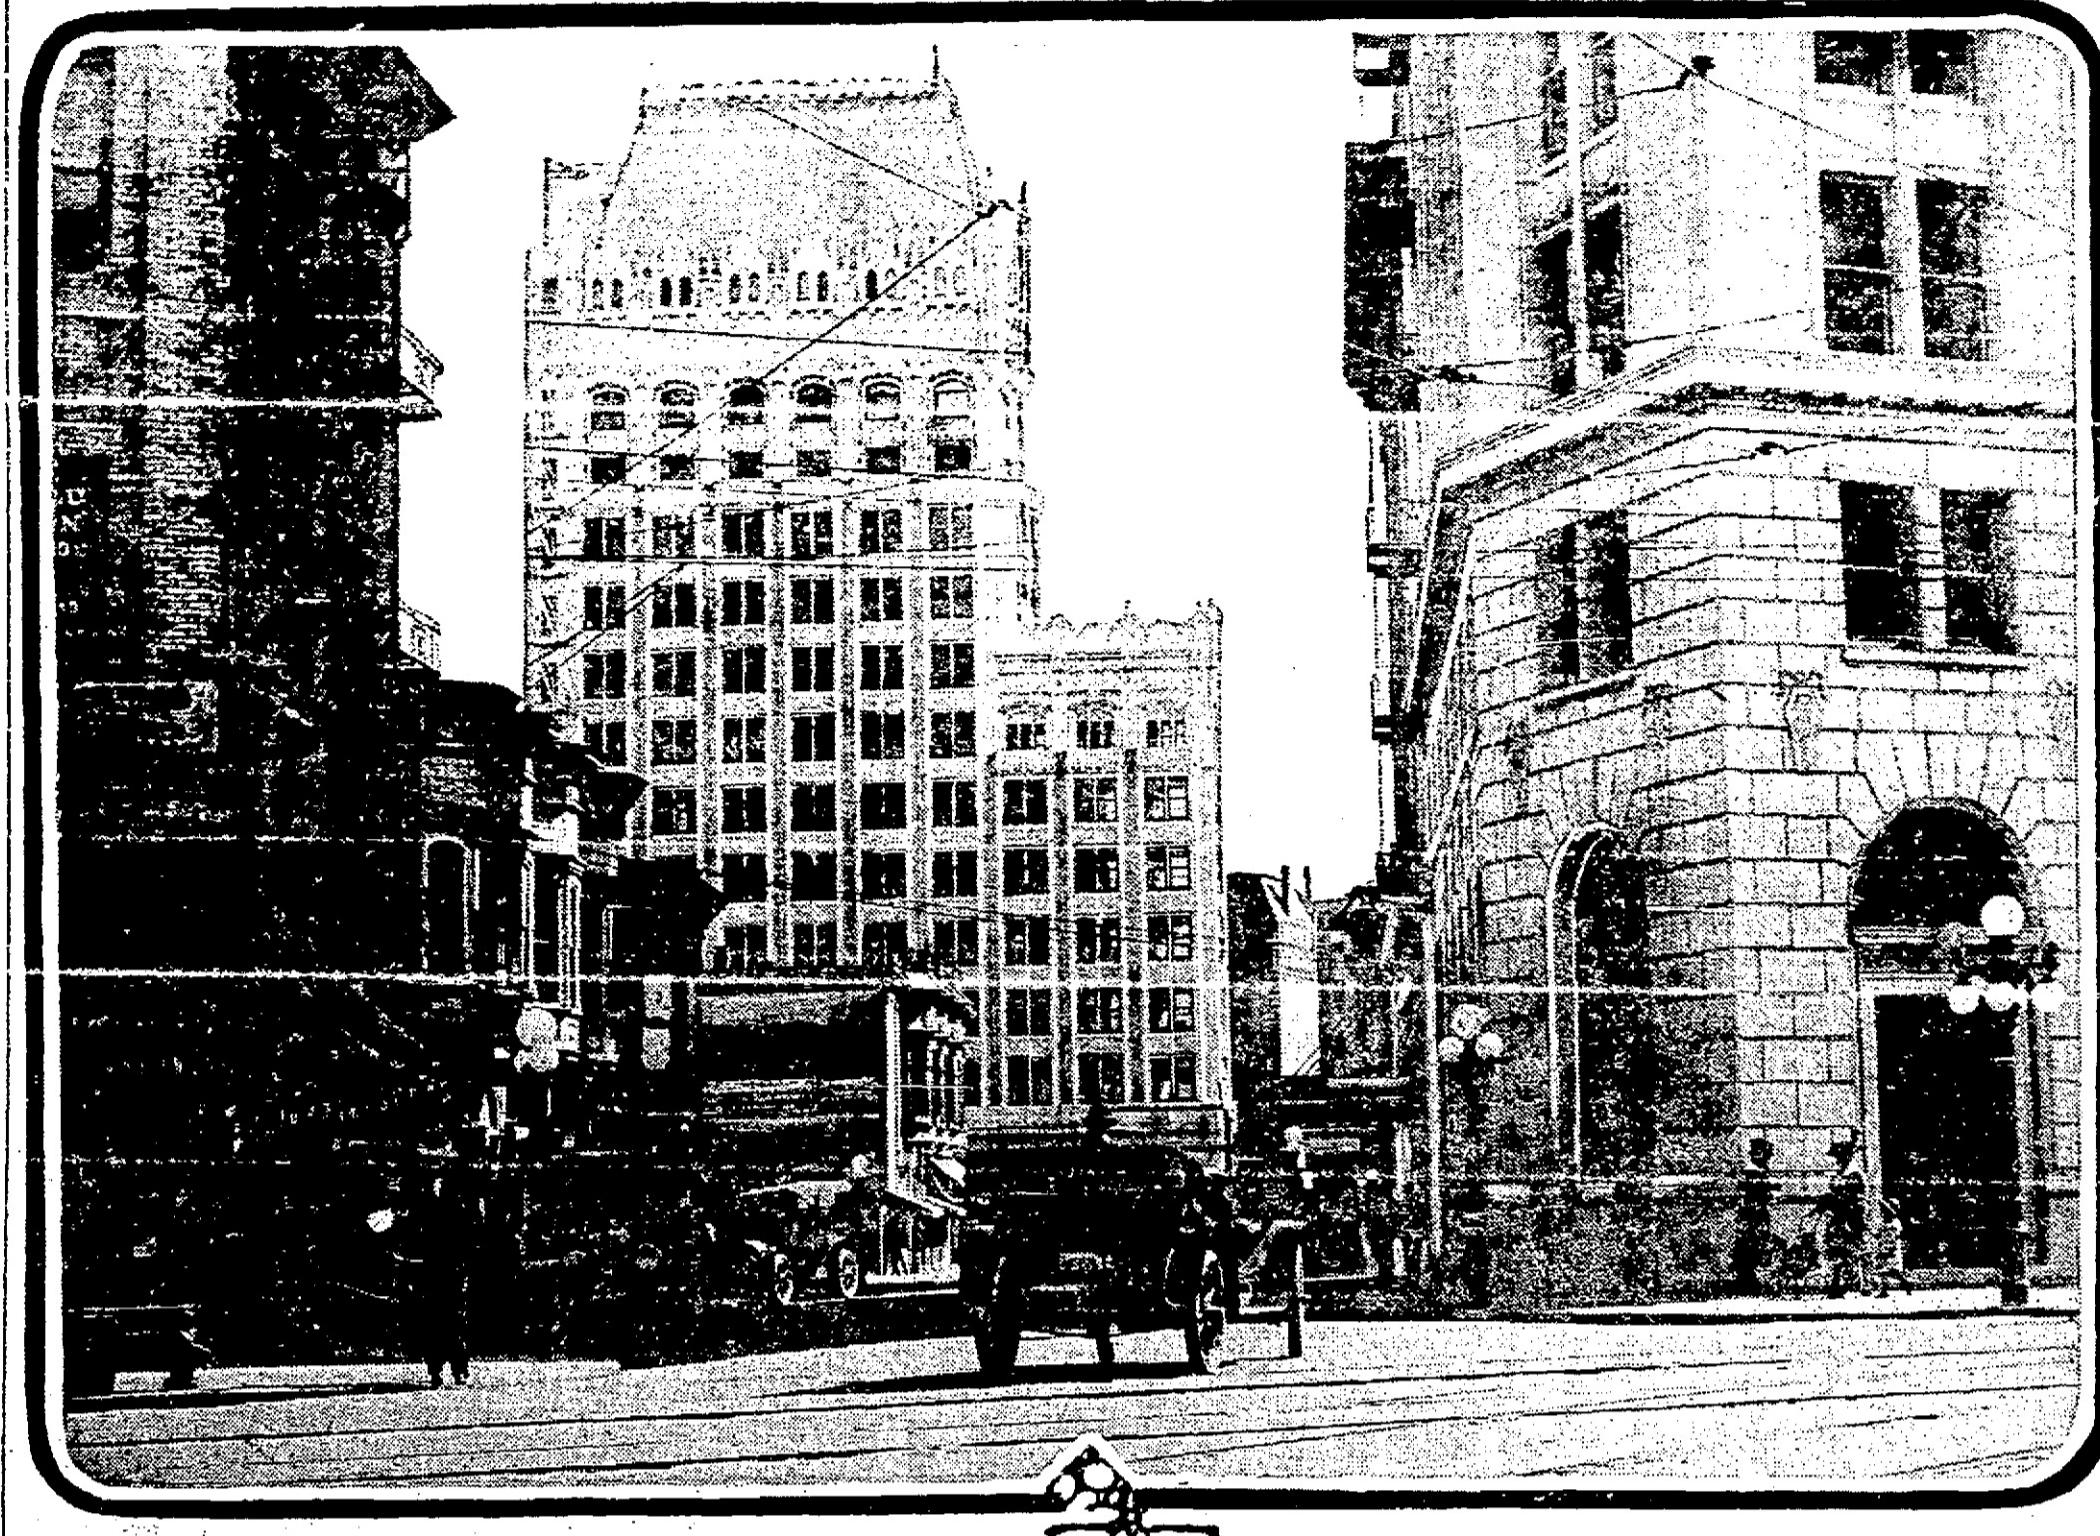

Work is practically completed on the new Hotel Harrison, to be one of the elaborate new buildings to receive visitors during the Exposition. Across the street from the Hotel Oakland, at Fourteenth and Harrison streets, the building of fireproof construction and patterned after the style of the new Hotel Menlo, the new Meyer and White building, the structure has attracted considerable attention from visitors.

The structure is one of several of nearly the same type that are rapidly transforming Oakland into a city of beauty. The Menlo, the Alamo, the Ray, the Clay Tent, and others of the new style are now in operation and others nearing completion.

The demand will be, say hotel men, for a smaller house of about the style of those during the coming year, and Oakland is preparing to adequately care for this opportunity.

Educators' Convention Causes Big Demand for Apartment House and Hotel Property

The visit of Durand W. Springer and Dr. David Starr Jordan to Oakland this week, and the beginning of final plans for the National Educational Association Convention for Oakland in 1915, was one of the most important events, from a realty man's point of view, to occur in Oakland in months. Following the luncheon and meeting held by educators here, Springer and Dr. Jordan, with Secretary J. E. Caine of the Commercial Club, visited Mayor Mott at the State Convention of the League of Municipalities, Del Monte, and there secured the promise of the executive that certain financial matters in connection with the convention would be met by the city.

This was the final detail to be settled before arrangements went to be set for the convention. Springer and his assistants will from now on maintain headquarters at the Commercial Club, and all details for the big meeting of educators will be worked out at once.

The big convention, it was announced by Dr. Jordan, will mean 65,000 visitors

ADJOINING LANDOWNERS RIGHTS TO SOIL SUPPORT

(Twenty-fourth case in a series of recent real estate decisions affecting agents and owners, summarized for THE TRIBUNE by Attorney Carlos G. White of Oakland, lecturer in law at the University of California and a member of the firm of Dunn, White & Aiken.)

Respecting the right of support for land, Section 832 of the California Civil Code provides: "Each co-terminous owner is entitled to the lateral and subjacent support which has land receives from the adjoining land, subject to the right of the owner of the adjoining land to make proper and usual excavations on the same for purposes of construction, on usual ordinary care and skill, and taking reasonable precautions to sustain the land of the other, and giving previous reasonable notice to the other of his intention to make such excavations."

In the recent case of Alta Co. v. Garland, 47 Cal., Dec. 213, the Supreme Court restated its interpretation of that section.

In a building contract, Garland, the owner of land about to be excavated, provided that "the contractor shall not do that which is necessary to protect the adjoining buildings, streets and the public during the excavation, doing all shoring and bracing and trenching required to this end."

The question involved in the case was whether or not, under that contract, the duty of the contractor, the Alta Company, to do the underpinning and furnish the supports required to support the building existing on the adjoining lot.

Judge Wilbur of the Supreme Court in Los Angeles held that the words of the building contract above quoted did not require him to furnish support for the building on the adjoining land, and that therefore those at whose request the contractor did furnish the support were liable for the value of the same.

Upon appeal by defendant Garland, the Supreme Court, after quoting the words of the contract, in an opinion by Justice Melvin, said: "The contract imposes no greater obligation upon the Alta Company than would have rested upon appellant if he had been making the excavation without the aid of the contractor. The quoted language of the contract imposes no greater liability than that which is the owner's under Section 832 of the Civil Code (herewith set forth). That section as interpreted by the decisions of this court, does not require support for buildings which have been superimposed upon the land adjacent to that upon which an excavation is to be made."

"The work . . . having been ordered by the authorized agent of the appellant, there arose an implied promise to pay the reasonable value thereof."

"The judgment and order are affirmed."

EARLY CALIFORNIA CASE

In one of the earlier California cases cited by Justice Melvin in his opinion the owner of a building in San Francisco sued the adjoining land owner and recovered judgment in the Superior Court for his taking away the support of said building while excavating and thereby causing the destruction of the building. The young lady's name had been given her age and place of her nativity, when it appeared that the aspiring swain was still in his minority. A frenzied jingling of the phone and a hasty call for mother. An anxious wait and mother appeared on the scene to place her official "O. K." upon her son's alliance.

WAR IMPRESSES VALUE OF LAND ON INVESTORS

Demand Is Swelled Under Stress of Catastrophe in Europe; Market Is Gaining

The marked interest recently shown in land as an investment, whether lots or agricultural area, without question is largely attributable to the fresh appreciation of the stability of land values in the face of even the greatest catastrophe—war.

In the past few months the investing public has seen how the value of all forms of security may be radically affected or altogether destroyed.

Factories have been forced to close their doors and cease paying dividends because of the cutting off of the supply of raw material originating in some far distant land.

Trade in great centers has become stagnant because of events over which the merchant has no control.

In the war-torn countries, Belgium and France, actual destruction of tangible assets has unaccountably rendered worthless millions and millions of dollars' worth of stock and bonds issued with those now destroyed assets as securities.

In a building contract, Garland, the owner of land about to be excavated, provided that "the contractor shall not do that which is necessary to protect the adjoining buildings, streets and the public during the excavation, doing all shoring and bracing and trenching required to this end."

The question involved in the case was whether or not, under that contract, the duty of the contractor, the Alta Company, to do the underpinning and furnish the supports required to support the building existing on the adjoining lot.

"Every one has so far for the right to have his own soil sustained by that of his neighbor, that the latter may not dig so near to the land of the former as to cause the same to fall into the excavation by its own natural weight. He ought to guard against such a consequence."

PREScribes REcTal

"His excavation must be such as would not have caused the soil of the adjacent lot to tumble in had it remained in its natural state—not built upon. But if he gives the notice and so conducts the work as that the soil, without the weight of the edifice, would not have fallen, his whole duty is performed."

"But this right of a land owner to support his land against that of the adjacent owner does not, as before stated, extend to the support of any additional weight or structure that he may place thereon. If, therefore, a man erects a house on his own land so near to my land that thereby my land shall fall into the pit, and for this, if an action were brought, it would lie."

HEINZ FACTORY READY TO ENTER CITY

HOTEL MEN TO CARE FOR TOURISTS

New Organization Will Protect Exposition Travelers From High Rates.

A regular increase will mean a considerable increase in rental business in Oakland next year, through attracting the largest possible number of people. It is that outlined by the new Oakland-Berkeley Apartment House and Hotel Association. This organization, composed of the owners who absolutely control the accommodation situation in that city, have set themselves on record that they will not raise rents during 1915.

This means, as declared John B. Jordan, who is managing the affairs of the organization, that people coming to Oakland will know that they cannot possibly be "gouged," and it will mean that people abroad, learning this, will stay in Oakland during the time of the exposition.

The organization has also planned a system of listing all hotels and apartment houses, that tab may be kept at all times on accommodation available for travelers and that the patronage of Oakland's visitors may be equally distributed.

The new association will maintain a ledger listing from now on in the Hotel Oakland, with Jordan in charge, at least until the complete organization is effected. Jordan declares that apartment houses listed exceed the heaviest estimates of the number of such buildings in the city.

"We will be more than in a position," he declared, "to care for all exposition visitors, by the time all the new houses being built are ready for occupancy. Of course, we are going to have very large crowds, and renting space will be at a premium. For that reason we have to keep this association at work, and will have to watch this rent matter carefully."

CENTRAL ARTERY TO BE WIDENED

23d Street, Richmond; Sewer Work Progresses.

RICHMOND, Oct. 17.—Now that a court ruling straightened out some legal obstacles has been obtained, it is expected that the widening of Twenty-third street to eighty feet will be accomplished with diligence. As the main north and south thoroughfare of the city extending from the San Pablo section to the new harbor, Twenty-third must be widened to prepare for the increased traffic the constant growth of the part of the city it traverses put upon it. From Macdonald avenue, the electric car line junction corner, southward, the widening has already been accomplished. The street will be paved with asphalt as soon as widened.

The businessmen here at the conference to be held next week with the city council to harbor committee and the United States engineers will discuss the proposition of sending a delegation to Washington in December to help look after the interests of this city in connection with the river and harbors appropriation bill.

The efforts now being made to have the general bill brought up at that time instead of March succeed Richmond may get her promised government money much sooner than expected.

The fact that the extensive system in the Pullman-Stage section of the city will cost only $1.26 per lot will result in still more severe improvements being put through. The Pullman-Stage improvement is part of the general sanitary system of the city, which is gradually to be extended to cover every part of the greater city. It will not be long before work on the Standard Avenue main that is to serve the western section of the city will be started. This main is to empty into the Standard Oil company's tidal canal which carries away the millions of gallons of salt water pumped through the coils of the stills for cooling.

In this tidal canal there is an embryo harbor development proposition. The canal empties into San Pablo Bay, which borders the northwestern part of the city, and is eventually to be widened and deepened for shipping. It is said. Shipping facilities of considerable utility on the San Pablo bay frontage of the city can be developed at small cost. A developing factory section close by would be benefited.

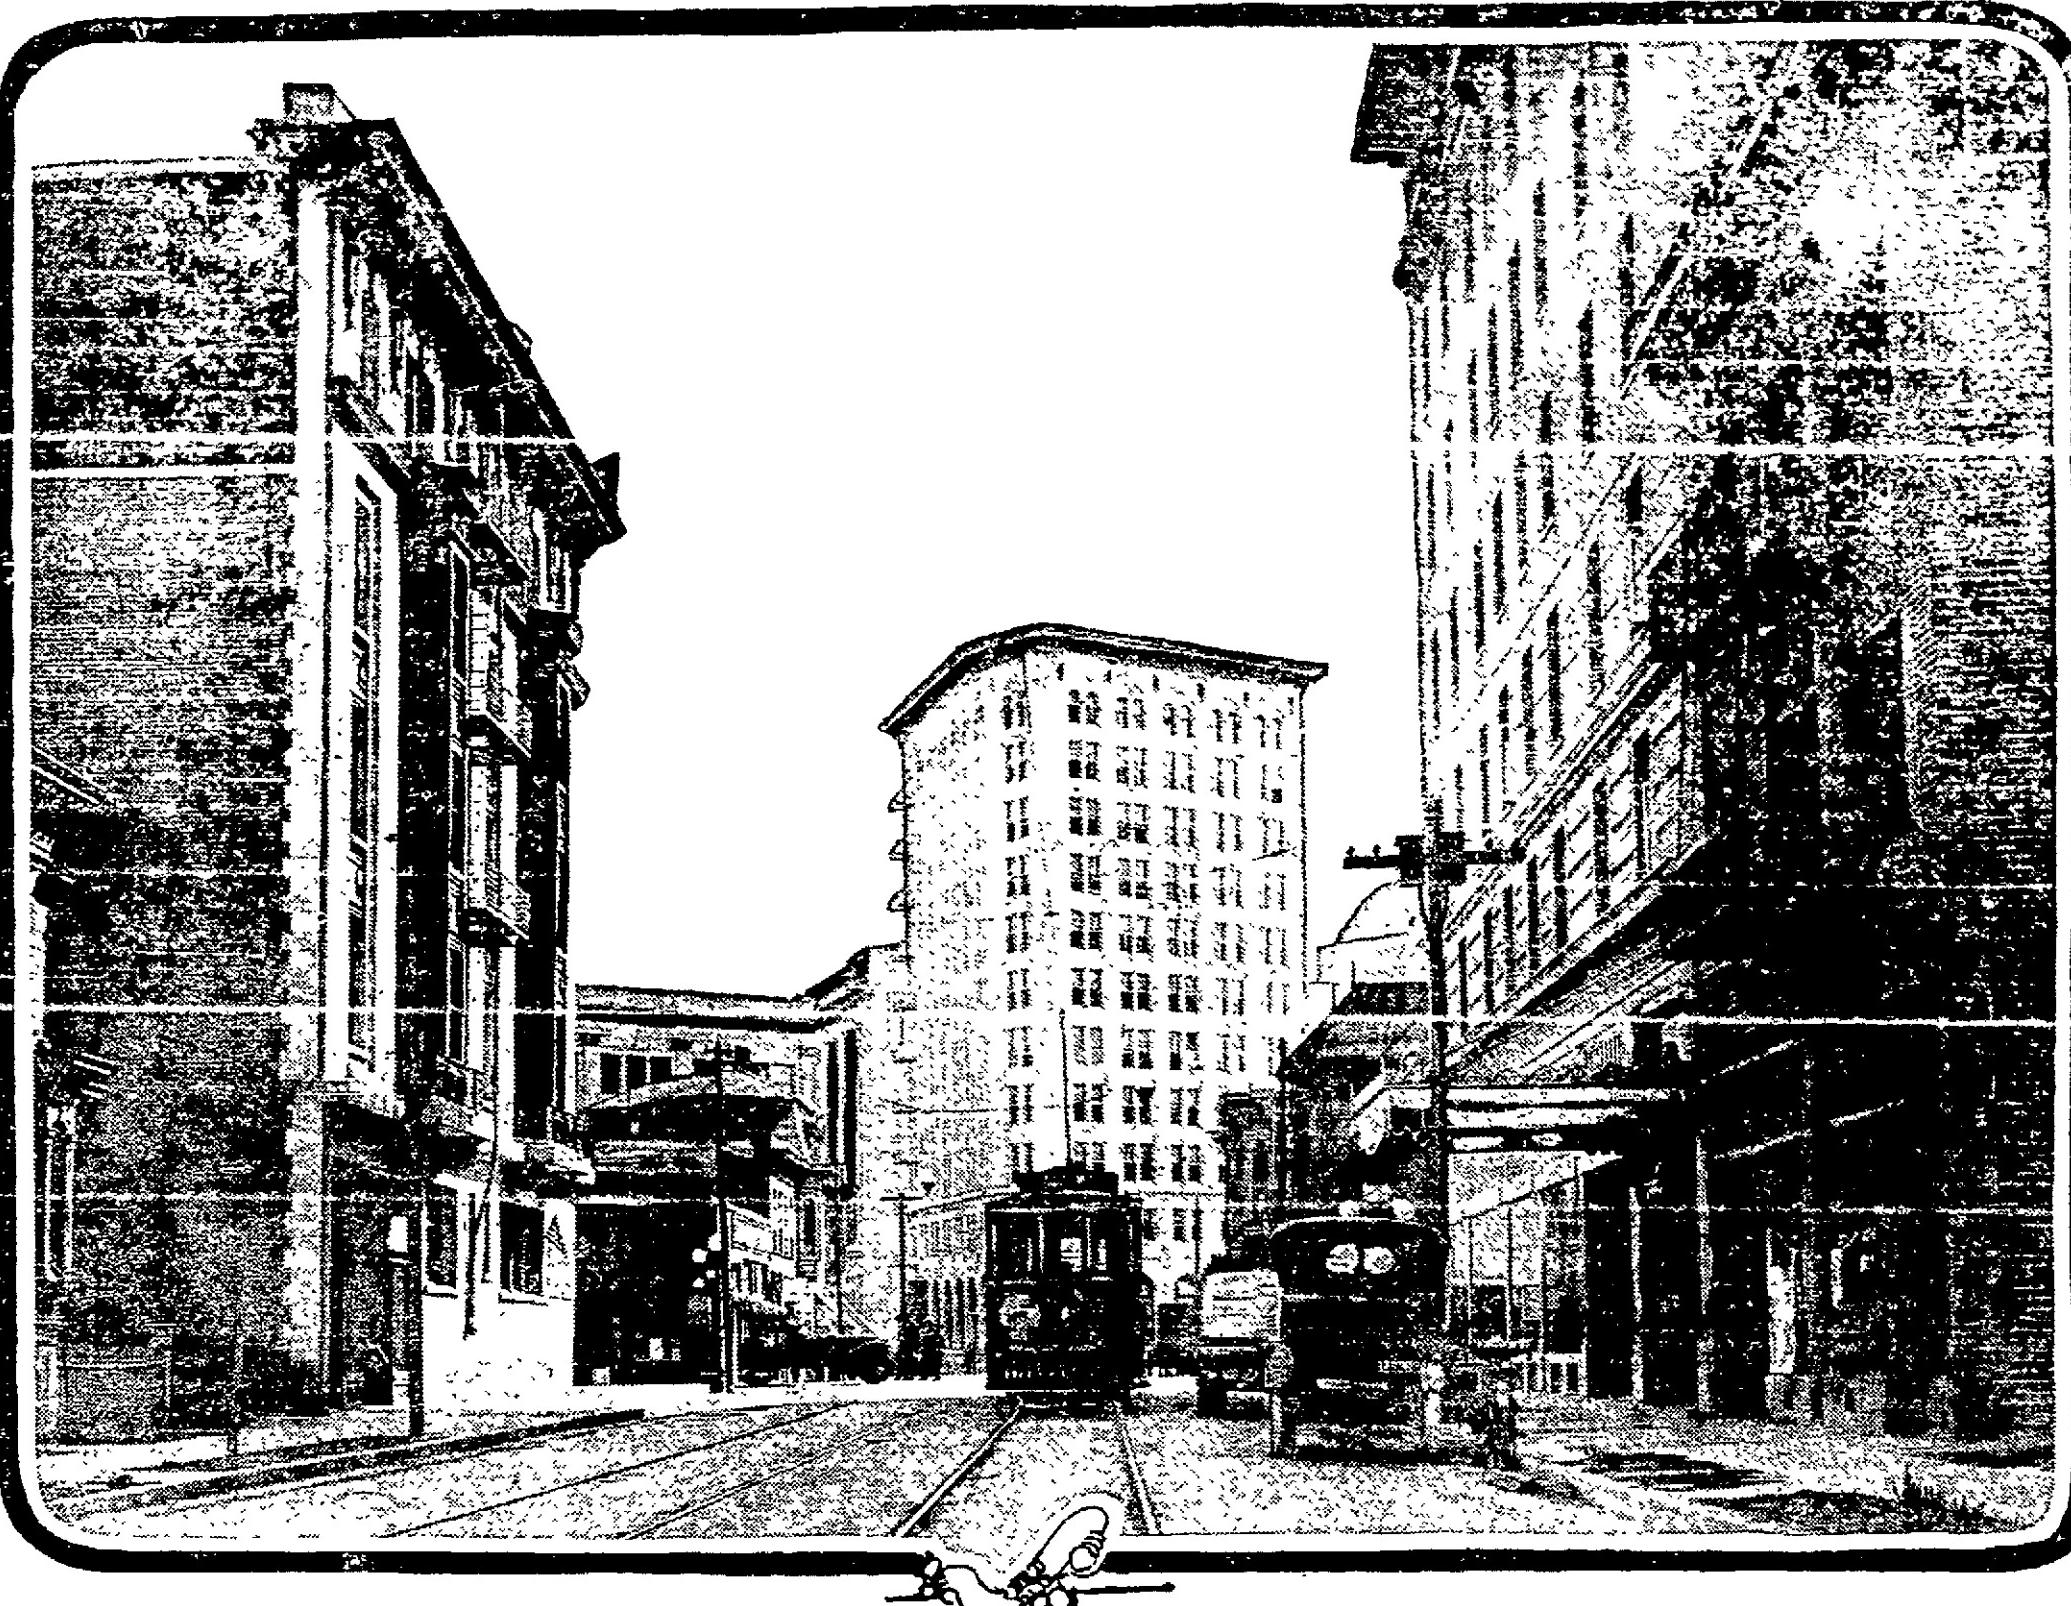

The carbon manufacturing industry has been stimulated by the taking over of one of the plants here by a San Francisco corporation recently formed which will greatly enlarge the plant. Additional machinery is being shipped here for the plant. The new corporation is said to be well financed and will eventually conduct the enterprise on an extensive scale.

Among several other factory propositions one that has a good deal of importance is a valve manufacturer for which building will soon be started. The company has been financed largely by local capital.

Large paint shipments are being made to the Exposition from the factory here. The porcelain ware works for the Exposition and the Standard Oil asphalt plant is bargaining over asphalt in barrels for paving the promenades. Altogether the fair is providing a market for quite a large total of Richmond manufactured products.

GROWING SEEDLESS TOKAYS.
STOCKTON, Oct. 17.—H. E. Wolfe of No. 721 West Poplar street has found considerable success in his few vines of seedless Tokay grapes and intends to set out more of them as soon as possible on his farm near French Camp. The seedless Tokays are smaller in size than the ordinary grape, have the same rich red color, have a firm meat and are sweeter and better flavor.

INVESTOR CLOSES DEAL FOR BIG FACTORY SITE

Important Transaction Takes Place During the Week for Washington Street Location

Another investment deal that has attracted more than ordinary attention in Oakland was completed this week according to an announcement made yesterday by R. W. Wells, a Yuba county capitalist, of the southwest corner of Fourth and Washington streets. The land, formerly owned by Edward Walker, was sold to the Yuba man as an investment place, the price being in the neighborhood of $50,000. Whether Wells will build on the place or let it as it is has not been announced. The deal was closed through the Frank K. Mott Company. Several other important deals in the near neighborhood to this place recently have been put through, and the proposed new free market at Sixth and Broadway is another indication of a lively movement in the lower Broadway district.

"We look for a big activity in reality, as applied especially to factory sites," declared M. M. Jones, secretary of the Manufacturers' Committee, "immediately after the coming election." Fred Burks of the Oakland Real Estate Association inclined to the same views. "It is a fact," declared Burks, "as the reports of this association show, that we are beginning to see a lively turn of the realty market in Oakland. The interesting phase of this turn is to be noted in the many investment purchases of large magnitude that have taken place, and also in the marked success of several new tracts particularly in the Lakeside districts, which are selling mostly to investors, who are planning to hold them for a rise in the market. This is most significant. It means that the people are again buying realty for profit in Oakland, and it means that the market is steadily rising on a firm foundation of confidence."

An important development in the realty situation in Oakland is coming with the interest of thousands of visitors at conventions. Purchasers are seeking houses to be rented during these times, and the demand has been far from light along this line.

LOOK PLEASANT PLEASE!

LILLIAN RUSSELL

(Copyright 1914. By Lillian Russell.)

LOOK pleasant, please," said the photographer to his "fair" sitter. Click! "It's all over, ma'am. You may now resume your natural expression!"

If your photographer says that to you you can make up your mind that your negatives are going to be a sad disillusionment. Of course, if he is an up-to-date photographer he will not say that to you, as it is the business of the up-to-date photographer to see that your expression is not unnatural. But, then, the best photographer cannot do this without your assistance.

The truth of the matter is that you have as much to do with the success of your photographs as has the man behind the camera. Your photographer—if he be a good one—will be able to do much toward grace of attitude and correction of unhappy expression, but even he would not dare to make suggestions as to what dress you are to wear; outside of perhaps the suggestion that white is the color for the debutante and black the color for the gray-haired woman.

The first thing to bear in mind when you think of having your picture taken is that it pays to go to a good photographer once or twice in a lifetime instead of having pictures made annually or semi-annually by a poor photographer.

When everything is taken into consideration in the matter of having your pictures taken one conclusion must be arrived at. It is that no photographer in the world can make a pleasing picture of us if we ourselves have no idea of what constitutes a good picture and if we fail to realize that our own cooperation is absolutely necessary toward a pleasing result.

A good photograph first and above everything else must show a natural and easy pose. You and I both have photographs in our possession which the originals would joyfully recall, now that they have arrived at the age of discretion, so much like caricatures they are with their painfully awkward attempts at ease and grace. And in all probability we have in past moments of generosity given away "smiling likenesses" which, shown to us today, would make our bump of vanity swell with agony.

Last year's hat is a sad thing. You put it away with the conscience salve for the price you paid for it that you would get another rear or two out of it. But last year's hat seldom stands the test of a second year. Unless it is a remarkable hat the change of style somehow affects your beauty for the worse. Knowing this—no matter what the temptation—you ought not to have your picture taken in a hat unless you are willing to destroy the pictures with the change of fashion.

It not for your own sake we should consider our friends in this matter. I recall visiting at the home of a sick friend. At the head of her bed was an enlarged picture of herself with a hat of the vintage of Don't blame the photographer entirely if your pictures are not good.

The best photographer in the world cannot make your picture attractive without your co-operation.

It pays to go to a good photographer, because a good photographer can do much toward getting a natural expression and an "upset" pose.

Don't wear a hat when you hate your picture taken or you'll live to rue it.

Don't wear fake pins or ornaments in your hair. Later you'll regret it.

The simpler the dress you are photographed in, the better you will like it a year from now.

The head, neck, and shoulder photographs are far the most advisable, because they stand the test of years.

Don't go to the hairdresser's and have your hair dressed in a way not typical of you.

Wear your hair as simply and as naturally as you can, for the hair dress has everything to do with the picture. Unless your nose is a good shape don't have a profile taken.

Look pleasant, but don't feel it necessary to look like a denial "ad" to get the pleasant effect.

articles that must be resorted to. You may see a woman in her own home whom you think the last word in beauty. Yet if she were to be put back of the footlights without a bit of makeup she could not stand the test. She would not even be good looking. Color, changing expression, and "attness" play such an important part in the impression we create with people. These the camera does not get, except perhaps a little of the animation. And so we resort to the pencil and the rouge box to take the place of what the camera does not get.

Take your mouth, for instance. Perhaps your lips are thin. Without a little rouge your negative will show a thin, hard-lined mouth. Or perhaps your mouth is extremely wide. The camera emphasizes this defect as it does the thin lip. A wonderful improvement will be made in your photograph if you will sit down before the mirror in the photographer's studio and apply a little lip rouge, either in rouge stick or paste form, to the center of each lip until you have painted it a dark red. Don't under any circumstances extend the application of rouge beyond the center of each lip or you will succeed in making the mouth look worse. As you look at yourself in the studio mirror you may think you look so unnatural that the picture will be a failure. Instead you will find in your negative a much more satisfactory mouth than you would without the touch of rouge.

The most frequently made mistake of women and their photographs is the desire to have their hair dressed in a different way than that which friends and relatives are familiar with. A successful photograph must by all means be typical of you. So unless you are in the habit of having your hair marcelled and waved regularly don't do it for your picture. Don't go to the hairdresser's before you have your picture taken. Unless your hairdresser is one who has been doing your hair for some time and knows just what style is becoming and brings out your best points there is going to be an artificial effect in your negatives. Instead of looking like yourself, your own personality will be lost.

Dress in the simplest gown you have if you insist upon a full length picture, for if the hat of a few seasons ago looks "sad," abject grief is written all over the fashionable dress of a few seasons past. If you can have only one picture taken in years, there is no better thing to choose than the head, neck, and shoulder picture. It remains attractive for any time almost.

Don't go to the photographer's when you are tired. The morning is the best time, when you are bright and fresh from good sleep.

Just a last word about that smile. Don't do it if you can acquire a pleasant expression without it. It is a monotonous thing to have to face in long ago. It was not much larger than a pill box and set at a screaming angle at the side of her head. It was all I could do—even with the solemnity of the occasion—to keep from bursting out laughing. It made the funniest kind of a caricature. It certainly was not a flattering picture to hand down to posterity.

I have in my possession a picture that has been in our family for several generations. It is as beautiful today as it was when first taken. A little of the shoulder is shown, a beautiful neck, and a simple half-dress and a lovely face complete this photograph, which 100 years from now will be just as lovely.

Actresses and professional models take probably good pictures because they know how to have their pictures taken. They know how to acquire an animated expression without overdoing it. And here is a little secret I shall tell you about the success of professionals' pictures. Paradoxical as it may seem, to secure a perfectly natural picture there are some simple arts and every mood. Somehow at times it jars. And unless your teeth are perfect the effect is not pleasing. And if the gums are allowed to show the picture is made quite ugly. Smile with your eyes.

LILLIAN RUSSELL'S ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES BY BEAUTY SEEKERS.

M. E.: You are still young and have plenty of time to develop. I would not advise you to try to grow stouter. Your weight is about the average for a girl of 14. You are making the mistake that so many girls of your age do, thinking you should be stout. It is characteristic of youth to be slender. I do not believe you need to be stouter now; if you were you would lose the grace of youth. If you are large for your age I should advise you to wear your dresses to your shoe tops. No, don't drop them down to your ankles. Try to be a little girl as long as possible. There is no need of making a woman of yourself by dressing your hair on your head and lengthening your dresses to the ground. There is plenty of room to get old.

A. G.: Cold sores come as the result of colds, of indigestion, and of injury to the lips. If a cold sore is formed, it should not be picked or interfered with. It should also heal under the scab, so it will not leave a scar. If one would use camphor the moment a cold sore is discovered, first wetting the spot with camphor and then covering with subnitrate of bismuth, so that the cold sore will be covered with paste, it may scatter and in any event it will lessen its size. Wetting with peroxide of hydrogen will also lessen it. Cold sores eat into the skin and may leave scars that will remain permanent if they are not taken care of.

J. H.: To have the best carriage it is simply necessary that one keep the chin in, head up, and shoulders back. If you will walk around the room with a book on your head and arms at sides it will help you to carry yourself correctly. The muscles between the shoulders may be strengthened by holding the head as far back as possible, then bringing the chin down with a quick movement as far forward as possible. Repeat until the muscles tire.

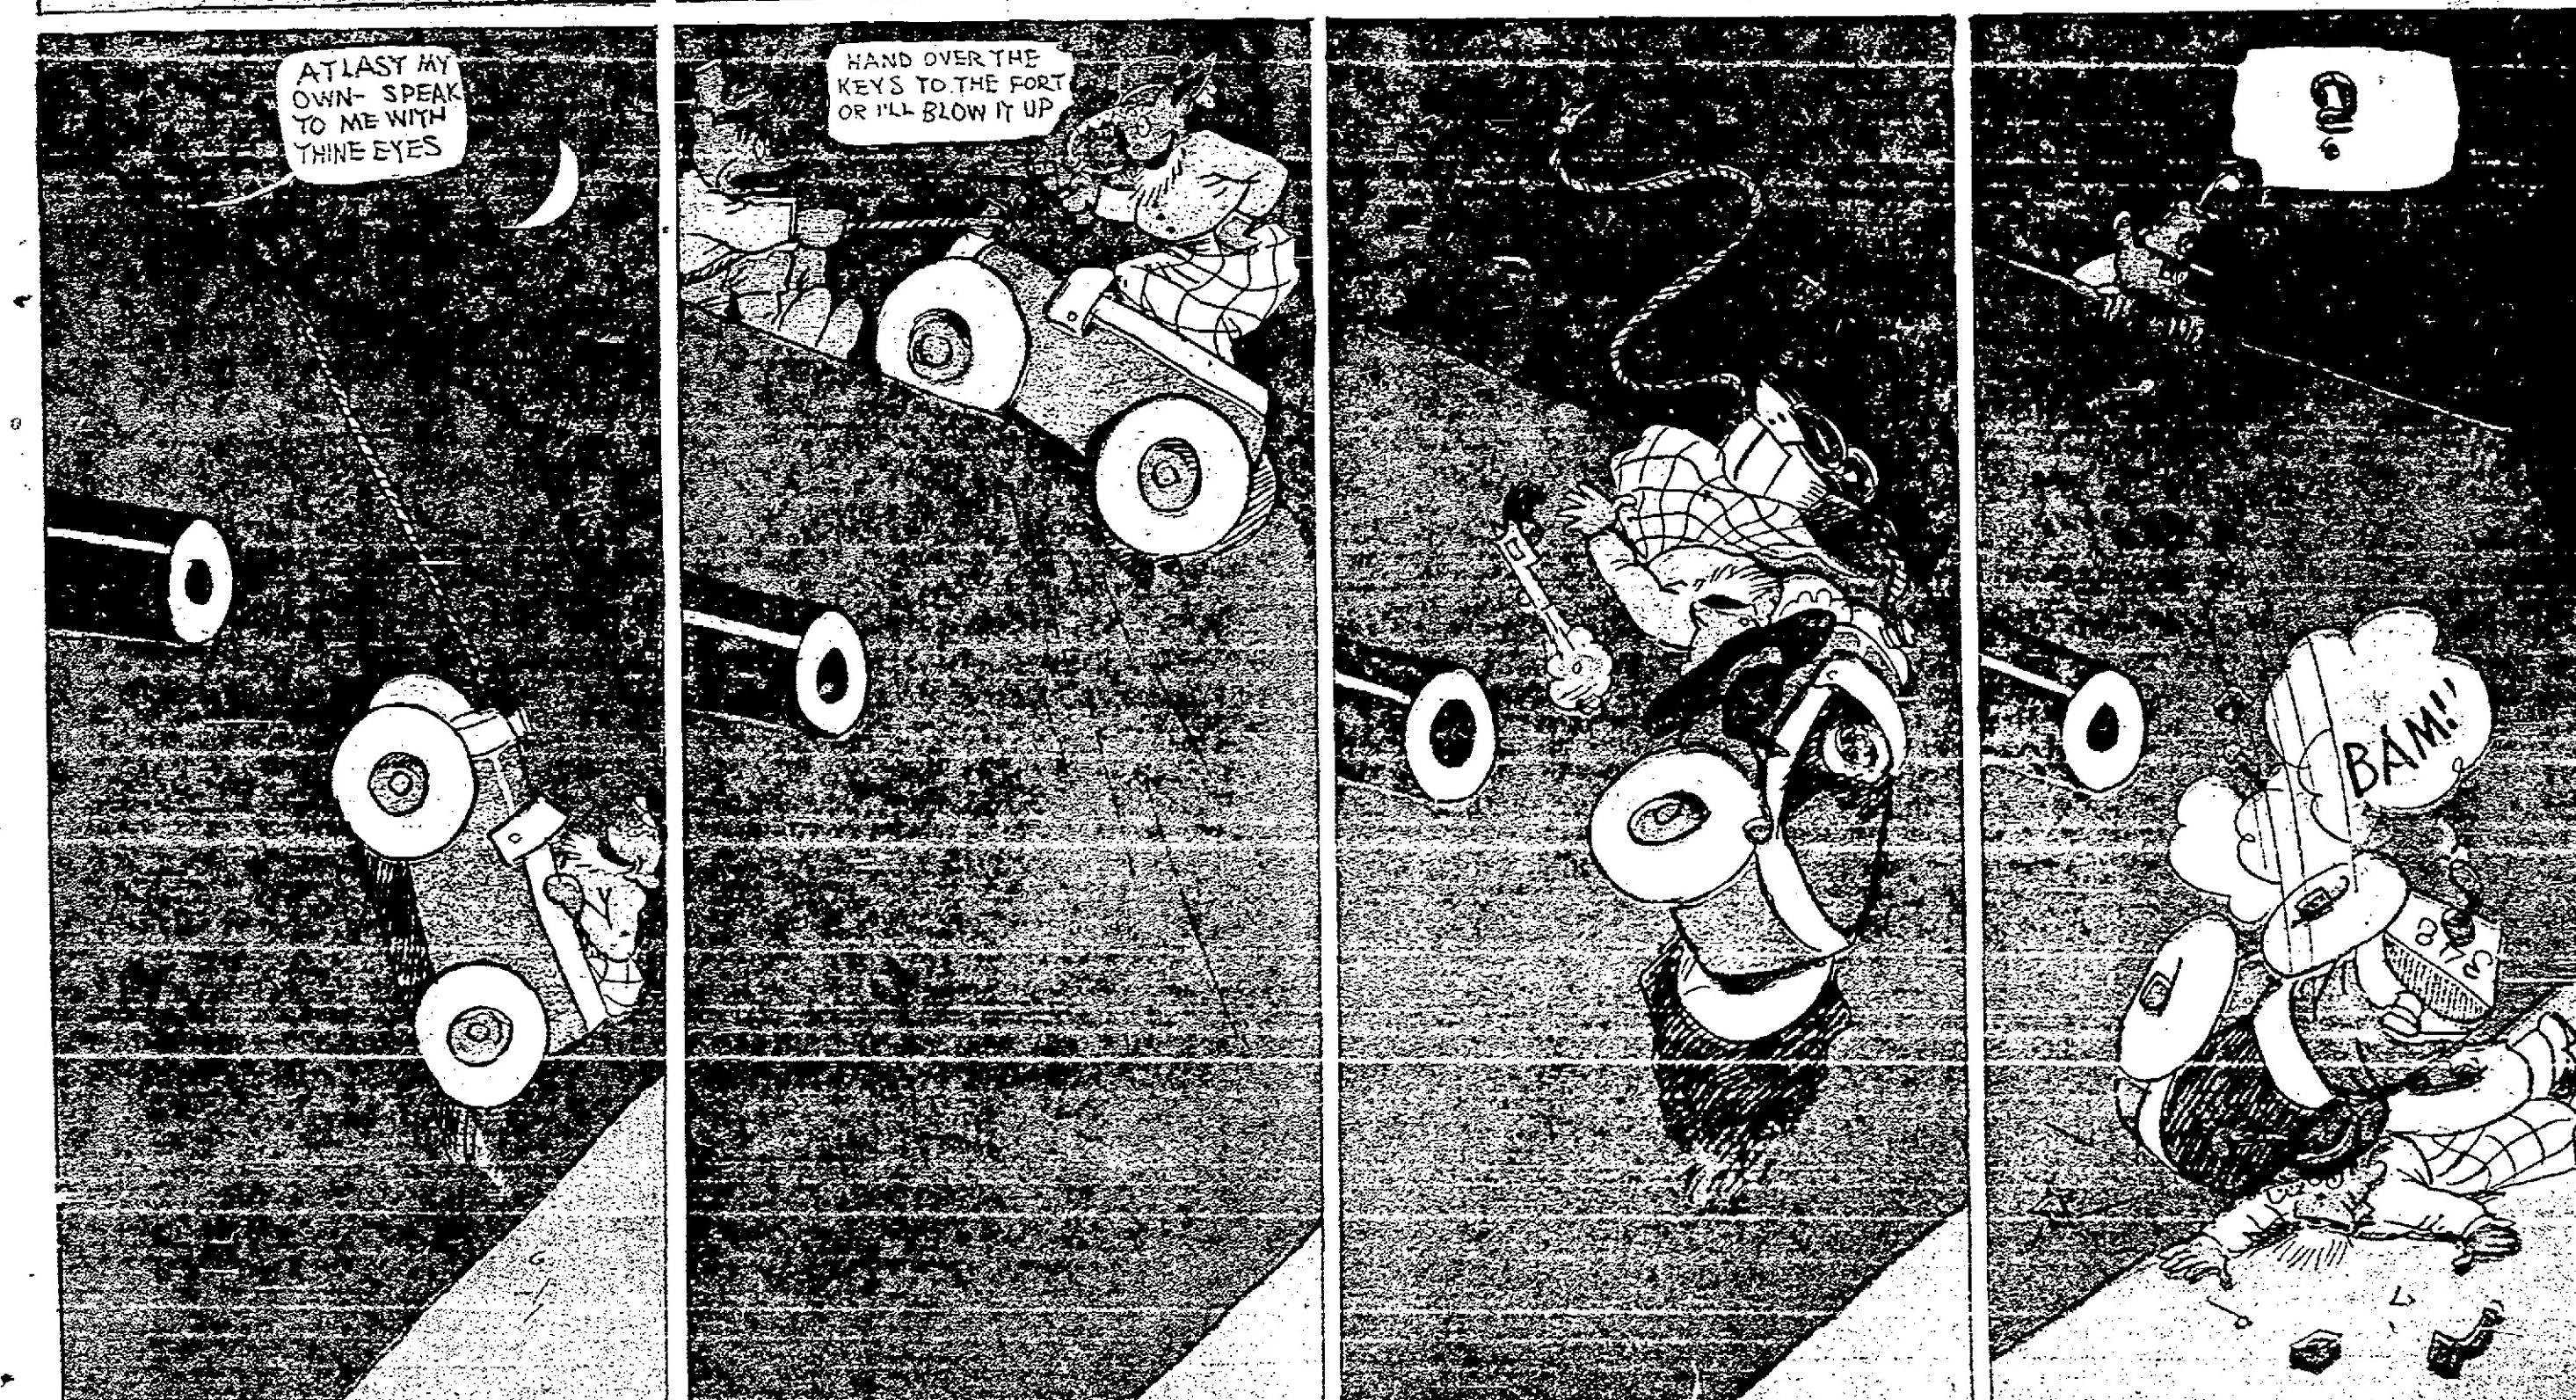

JESSIE: The spots must be liver spots. If you will take a teaspoonful of the best olive oil every morning a half hour before breakfast and the same quantity half an hour after the latest meal you will find it helpful. The unsweetened juice of a lemon in a glass of water every morning before breakfast is also beneficial. Drink plenty of cool water, but not iced, and drink it between meals, not with your meals. Eat plenty of fruits and vegetables that do not contain much starch.

ONCE STAR, IS TAKEN IN RAID

Former Edna Loftus Is Arrested by Police Across Bay

Was Fascinating Girl Who Charmed Scion of Wealth

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Edna Loftus Rheinstrom, pride of the London music halls, dazzling Gaely girl of the New York shows, fascinating beauty who charmed Harry Rheinstrom, the scion of the millionaire Milwaukee family, was arrested tonight in a raid on a resort and locked up in the city prison charged with vagrancy. In three years, during which the fair Edna has run the gamut of nearly every human experience, she passed one social step after another in the thorny path, and would never be recognized today for the prize beauty of the prosperous days gone by.

Mrs. Rheinstrom spent three months in a fruitless bungalow with Harry at a time when he had been disowned by his family because of her, whom he accepted, with good grace, the role of housewife and swept, and scrubbed, and starved, it may be, for the sake of her love for the man of her choice.

Even then there were rumors of night orgies when Harry Rheinstrom received his regular remittance, but it was not until after a legal separation came that Mrs. Rheinstrom sought solace in the region of the bright lights. Since then her career has been checkered. Only today it was learned that it was she who attempted suicide. Thursday at the Art Hotel by cutting her wrist with a safety razor blade. She gave an assumed name and was not recognized at the Harbor hospital. Tonight when the police descended on the house at 332 Kearny street, gathering in four women of the underworld, the detectives were surprised to recognize beneath paint and powder the fair Edna Loftus, who at one time had all London at her feet. She was bailed out by the proprietor of the place, and Monday will know her fate in the police court.

DENIED LOAN; FIRES

Hunger Leads Salesman to Try to Kill Friend of Whom He Sought Aid.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Because he was hungry and had left his wife and 6-day-old child home penniless and went to a nearby restaurant and was nearly starving Harris Hill Park went out and shot his best friend, James G. Palmer, of 1319 Seventh avenue, when he was refused a 50-cent loan tonight. Both men are shoe salesmen, but Park is also owner of a nickelodeon at 2352 38th avenue, Oakland. Palmer was wounded in the abdomen, the bullet penetrating the intestines and he has only a fighting chance of recovery.

As he lay at the Central Emergency Hospital with an ashen pall blanching his features, he refused to make a dying statement.

"Good old Park; you didn't mean to do it old man. I won't prosecute you. I won't hold it against you," he moaned.

The shooting occurred in Corey's saloon, 20 Ellis street, shortly before 10 o'clock. Park, who resides at the Maryland Apartments, 263 Page street, asked Palmer for 50 cents. He claims that his request was refused and before bystanders could interfere he had drawn a revolver and fired three shots. Only one bullet took effect.

Patrolman Cadden, hearing the shot, rushed into the saloon and placed Park under arrest, sending Palmer to the hospital in an automobile. For a year Palmer and Park worked side by side in a shoe store, where the former is still employed. Park was discharged.

Charges Made Against Federal Prosecutors

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Special Prosecutors Theodore J. Roche and Mat L. Sullivans and Federal Judge William C. Van Fleet are accused of making improper comments and arguments to the jury in the transcript of appeal filed by counsel for F. Prew Cammett, son of Commissioner-General of Immigration Anthony Cammett today.

Some of the statements made by counsel are branded as inflammatory, and nearly 400 pages are devoted to attacks on the alleged improper conduct in this, the most important case of alleged violation of the Mann White Slave Act thus far to be tried in this country.

Objection is taken to the statement by Roche that "the people of the United States are watching this case and waiting to ascertain whether on such a record as has been made here under the law of this case, as it will be given to you by the court, this defendant shall go untried or justice."

500 Sink With Destroyers British Navy Exacts Toll Answer Germany's Activity

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Five hundred lives were lost when England today answered the activities of the German navy. The light protected cruiser Undaunted, accompanied by the destroyers Legion, Loyal, Lennox and Lance of the L-Class, sent four German destroyers to the bottom of the North Sea off the Dutch coast. The British vessels are of the latest type, oil-burners with a speed of twenty-nine knots. They are of the Class-L type, each of them identical, 260 feet long and of 965 tons displacement.

DESTROYERS SIGHTED.

The British navy lost none killed and only one officer and four men were wounded in the action. Thirty-one German sailors were made prisoners and are now being sent to a British port. It was stated that the British destroyers were slightly damaged.

While up to the present time the identity of the destroyed warcraft of the Kaiser is withheld, it is understood here that they were comparatively old vessels which have been operating from a base in the estuary of the Elbe.

OUTCLASSED BY UNDAUNTED.

They were outclassed by the Undaunted, a brand new cruiser of the oil-burning type, which, while of only 3600 tons displacement, has speed of better than thirty

Major-General of British Army Dies In Field of Action

LONDON, Oct. 17.—It was announced tonight by the official war bureau that Major-General H. L. W. Hamilton had been killed in action. The list of casualties made public by the official bureau tonight includes the names of ten officers, among them General Hamilton.

Major-General Hubert Ian Weatherill Hamilton, C. B., D. S. O., C. V. O., was born June 27, 1861, and entered the British military service in 1880. He was a son of Lieutenant-General Meade Hamilton and during the South African war was military secretary to General Lord Kitchener. He served in the Burmese expedition in 1886-1888, the Egyptian campaigns of 1887-1888-1899. He was frequently mentioned in dispatches and decorated a number of times for distinguished services in the field.

Woman Hurled From Auto; Fractures Skull

BERKELEY, Oct. 17.—Hurled from the back of an automobile Mrs. Capitola Askew, of 2301 Grant street, received injuries in an unusual manner tonight which may result in her death. She is under treatment for a fractured skull at the Roosevelt hospital where the attendants are not optimistic for her recovery.

Mrs. Askew was seated on a box in the rear of an automobile delivery driven by her husband, John Askew, a grocer. As he turned the corner of Alston way into Grant street at a rapid pace Mrs. Askew and the box upon which she sat, were hurled forcibly into the street. The woman struck upon her head and was picked up unconscious by her husband.

At Roosevelt hospital it was found that she had sustained a fractured skull. She was in a serious condition at a late hour tonight.

Alamedan Is Instantly Killed by Loop Train

ALAMEDA, Oct. 17.—John W. McLaren of 1359 Versailles avenue was almost instantly killed tonight at about 10 o'clock, while crossing the Southern Pacific tracks at Encinal avenue and Pearl street. McLaren was a baker employed by George Morris. Deceased was about 50 years of age. He was on his way home when the accident happened. He failed to see the fast approach of the Southern Pacific train and was cut to pieces. A policeman Frank Clegg, who notified the police once and the man was taken to the emergency hospital, but death was instantaneous. He was then removed to the branch mortuary and his relatives notified.

President to Make Peace With Watterson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Final peace parleys between President Wilson and his late critic, Colonel Henry Watterson, Louisville (Ky.) publisher, will take place tomorrow at the White House. "Marse Henry" arrived here this afternoon following an invitation from the President to call at the executive mansion. The visit tomorrow will be the fast step in the three-cornered reconciliation between Wilson, Colonel George Harvey and Watterson.

Autoists Crash Into Cyclist; Man Injured

TRINIDAD, Calif., yesterday, returning from a county jaunt, early this morning crashed into Joseph Jones, a cook employed by the Forum cafe, at Twenty-fifth street and San Pablo avenue. The accident occurred at 4:45 a. m. The injured man was removed to the Emeryville hospital suffering from a broken shoulder and other injuries. The auto driver drove away. A police investigation is being made.

Eleanor Gates to Be Bride of Author

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Eleanor Gates, author of "The Poor Little Rich Girl," will be married quietly tomorrow afternoon to Frederick Ferdinand Moore, the author of "The Double Admiral." The ceremony will be performed in Paterson, New Jersey, at the home of Rev. Dr. Spikes, whose wife is an intimate friend of the bride-to-be. Only twenty guests will be present.

Eleanor Gates, a California authoress, was the wife of Richard Walton Tully, the playwright. Tully obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce on August 22 last in California, this to become final on August of next year. The New York law, however, permits the marriage.

Have Narrow Escape in Machine Mishap

MARTINEZ, Oct. 17.—County Sheriff Elam C. Brown, Charles E. Elam, a local carman, and George Griffin had a narrow escape from death last night in an auto wreck in the Franklin canyon. While returning from Pinehole in the evening the steering gear broke and the machine plowed from the grade, a distance of over 20 feet, striking a tree. The three occupants of the car were thrown out, but escaped with a few cuts and bruises.

Austrian Destroyer Is Sunk by French

ROME, Oct. 17.—Reports received here tonight from Ancona say that tonight the French fleet operating in the Mediterranean has sunk another Austrian destroyer. The report is not officially confirmed.

RAID FOILS COTTON IS GERMAN DODGED IN WAR TAX PLOT

Edinburgh Factory Is Found to House Secret Wireless

Building Is Believed to Have Been Made Gun Base

EDINBURGH, Oct. 17.—Special government agents shortly after midnight raided a factory building occupied by a German firm and arrested all of the occupants. The building, it was stated, dominated the Edinburgh-Rosyth naval base and the bridge across the Firth of Forth.

Inside of the structure the government officials found a secret wireless telegraph set of the most powerful character. They also made the interesting discovery that while the factory was bare of the machinery that would be necessary for use, it was one of the strongest concrete structures ever built in the city.

In every way, according to the report, the building was reinforced and there were a number of places which seemed to have been built in a manner suitable for gun mounting. The officials declared that the building was in every respect similar to those raided in France and Belgium which had been especially constructed by German agents, and were utilized to mount big guns on.

1000 Homes Destroyed by Quake in Greece

ATHENS, Oct. 17.—Hundreds of persons were injured, many fatally, when a great earthquake shook the Attic, Boeotian and Peloponnesian districts late today.

More than 1000 houses were destroyed, many more badly wrecked and damage estimated in seven figures was done.

Reports from the stricken cities were meager tonight and the full extent of the damage will not be known for hours.

At Thebes hundreds of cottages were overthrown and many persons were injured. The shocks are continuing and have been felt in Athens.

At Chalets the damage is reported to be serious, while at Thebes many of the inhabitants have fled to the fields, where they remain without shelter. In Athens cracks have appeared in the walls of many houses.

Churchill Answers Criticism of Navy

LONDON, Oct. 17.—First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill to-day issued an address to the naval brigade which participated in the recent fighting at Antwerp. There had been a dispersion severely to criticize the naval authorities for rushing these forces into Antwerp without adequate equipment or proper maps of the war zone. To-night's statement was accepted as the admiral's reply to this criticism.

The naval division was sent to Antwerp not as an isolated incident, said the message, "but as part of a large operation for the relief of the city." Another and more powerful consideration prompted this being denied out. But the fact that the British forces were able to co-operate with the Belgians enabled the authorities of Antwerp to destroy certain ships and carry out other steps of great importance to the general campaign. Therefore, your work is appreciated by the nation, and the duty to which you were assigned has been properly carried out."

Storm Touches Here on Eastward Journey

Wireless Plant Is Seized in London

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—The storm which threatened to drench California this afternoon and tomorrow has passed eastward and the U. S. weather forecasters give his assurance that the rain will be gone Sunday. The precipitation extended far south as San Luis Obispo, which reported 300 of an inch falling between 5 o'clock this morning and 5 o'clock

Wednesday morning. The rain failed to penetrate far into the San Joaquin valley.

General Von Arnim in Charge of Right Wing

LONDON, Oct. 17, 2:30 p. m.—According to wounded German officers who are prisoners in a hospital in England, it is said General von Arnim has succeeded General von Kluck in command of the right wing of the German army in France. It is asserted that this change was made two days after the battle of Marne.

One of the German officers who are credited with writing for this story is Lieutenant Von Arnim, described as a nephew of the general, and who is in a hospital at Neuilly.

French Advance Line

On the center, in the territory east of Rheims, there has been severe fighting and the French line is reported to have been advanced fully a mile. Near St. Mihiel, the Germans are reported to have been repelled from their new positions, although they still retain Camp de Ronvilliers.

In Alsace-Lorraine the French right, which is reported to be making distinct progress, is advancing through the Vosges in the midst of heavy snow storms and moving east from the neighborhood of Belfort. It is reported there that the Germans, who were attempting a movement against Belfort, have now been driven back with very heavy losses, and the fighting continues.

The Noordam was diverted from her home port here under her own steam. Several passengers were injured.

The Noordam was taken into Falmouth harbor by a British cruiser and her master and manifest published. She was released early Saturday and at once proceeded toward this port. En route she struck the cable at a point not yet reported to the local agents.

Wireless Plant Is Seized in London

LONDON, Oct. 17, 3:30 p. m.—The police today seized a wireless receiving apparatus and a quantity of wire at the residence of Professor Arthur Shuster, near Wokingham, in Berkshire.

Professor Shuster, who is a brother of Sir Felix Shuster, governor of the Bank of England, and Sir R. B. Banks, admitted to the police that he could receive messages from Berlin or the Eiffel Tower in Paris with his apparatus.

THOUSANDS ARE PRISONERS IN CAMPS OF THE GERMANS

BERLIN, Oct. 17, via The Hague.—The war office tonight gave out the recently-compiled list of prisoners now in German concentration camps, revised up until October 1st:

British, 180 officers, 8600 men.

French, 2050 officers, 123,000 men.

Belgian, 470 officers, 30,800 men.

Russian, 2150 officers, 92,000 men.

Since these figures for October 1st were received it is stated here that the number of Russian prisoners has nearly doubled.

8000 RUSSIANS ARE MADE PRISONERS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Eight thousand Russian soldiers were captured near Lyck and heavy French attacks in the northwest of France were repulsed, the German Embassy announced this evening. The radiogram from Berlin reporting progress in both Russian and French theaters of war follows:

"Officials headquarters reports that Russians tried on the 14th to reoccupy Lyck, were repulsed, 8000 prisoners, three machine guns taken.

"Germans occupied Bruges 14th, Ostend 15th; heavy French attacks in the northwest repulsed. Official French statements pretending important progress made at different places on the battle front, for instance near Berry-au-Bac and the northwest of Rheims, do not agree with facts."

CZAR CHECKS THE AUSTRO-GERMAN ARMIES

RAVS SLOWLY CRUSH ENEMY WITH HEAVY LOSS, SAYS PETROGRAD

PETROGRAD, Oct. 17.—Despite combined cold rains and snow, it was officially announced tonight that the general Russian offensive west of Warsaw and west of the San river in Galicia continues unchecked. Because of the peculiar fitness of their sport, designed especially for campaigning through rough country, the Russians are pressing the Austro-German columns hard. At every point the Germans are declared to be on the defensive.

The Germans who were able to reach within ten miles of Warsaw, because of the strategic plans of the general staff, were driven back thirty miles. They are now reported making a desperate effort to entrench along a line which is roughly described as extending through Sochaczew-Rudaguzowska-Grojec-Bialobidz. Along the line from Warsaw, they were compelled to abandon thirty-five heavy guns, a number of automobile guns and several rapid-fires. Every road is reported blocked by German abandoned transport.

The plans of the Russian general staff have worked out with mathematical precision. Foreseeing the present wintry conditions, the general staff made preparations to substitute at front the Siberian army corps which were especially well-armed for cold-weather fighting. These troops carry, in addition to their heavy uniforms, water-proofs lined with sheep-skins and long caps that cover most of the head. Consequently they have an advantage over the German forces, which are as yet partly supplied with heavy uniforms, water-proofs and blankets.

The success of the Russian columns along the line in Russian hands was due in great measure to the splendid work of the Russian artillery. Their guns have been well served and mounted in positions where they commanded every avenue of advance by the enemy.

Reports from Galicia declare that, although the garrison of Warsaw has maintained a splendid defense, the outer fortifications are steadily being reduced by the Russians. Every attempted sortie by the garrison has been repulsed with heavy losses. Reports current here say that the food supply is short, and this is certain to have a distinct bearing on the final outcome. The general situation in Galicia is declared to be satisfactory.

TESTS SAILING OF S. S. MAZATLÁN

GERMAN OFFICER PREDICTS DEATH

British Vice-consul Makes Unusually Efforts to Prevent Clearance.

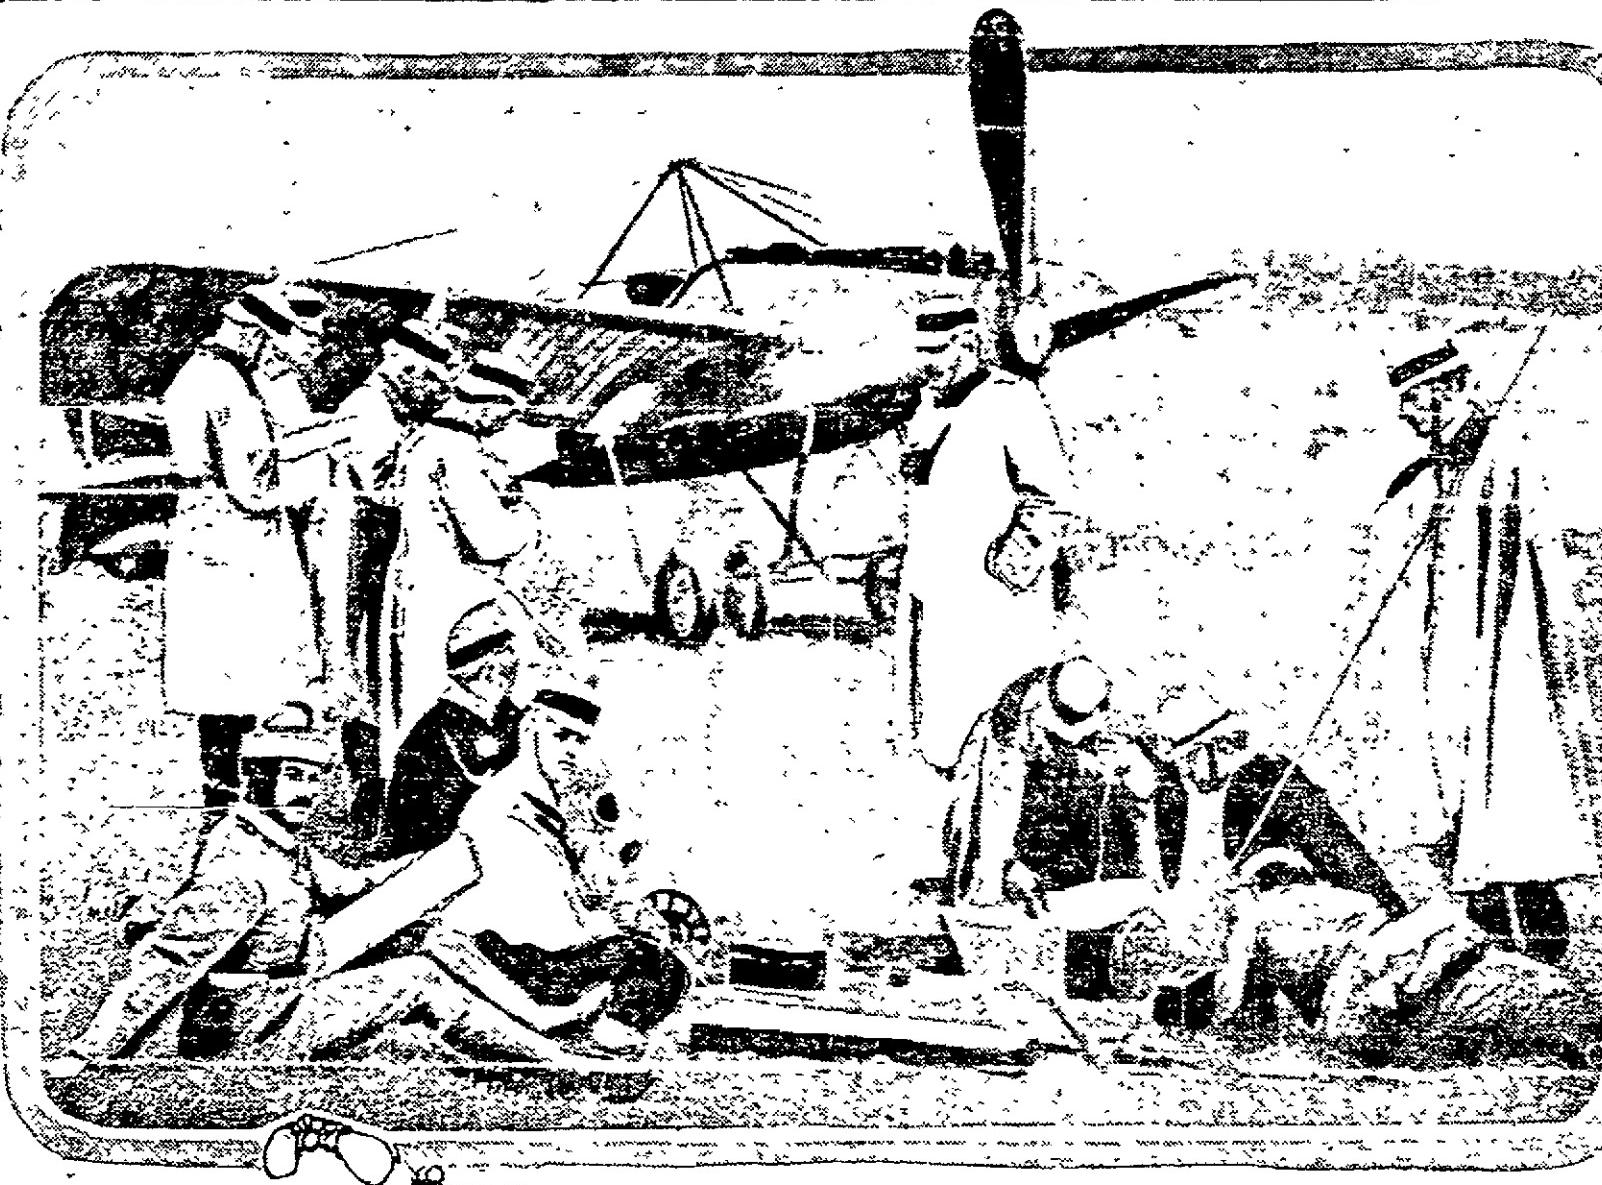

LONDON, Oct. 17.—C. White, British vice-consul here, is making an unusual protest to United States customs officials here today against the sailing of the steamer Mazatlán with a cargo which was alleged to be contraband of war and destined for the German cruiser Möldorf. Mortimer asked that the Mazatlán be denied clearance papers, but B. Elliott, collector of customs, declared that as the cargo was consigned to neutral Mexican ports he did not withhold clearance. The Mazatlán sailed today.

COLLIER FOR LEIPZIG. IN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Formerly employed as a collier for the man cruiser Leipzig, it was only transferred to the Mexican flag and its closest official scrutiny that the man owned the name Mazatlán was entitled to clear with a cargo of over $20,000 bond to make physical delivery of the coal to the consigned Mazatlán named in her manifest. This subject, later reported to Rear Admiral Pond, superintendent of the U. S. naval district, that the Mazatlán had been transferred at Guayaquil to another German merchantman which in turn coated the Leipzig. It was not found possible to firm this story, and pending a return of the investigation now under way the Mazatlán was again given clearance papers with her bond unaltered. The vessel is owned by Captain Frederik Jepsen, a German ex-patriot, who tried to join his colors could not get away from New York. He returned to the Pacific.

RESTAURANT RAIDED. LONDON, Oct. 17, 6:58 p. m.—The authorities are taking more stringent measures against alien enemies who remain undetained in England. This morning the police raided a large restaurant owned and managed by Germans and Austrians. These were sent to a detention camp.

Allies Are Favored, Is Charge of Knox

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—Intimation that the administration had favored the allies against the Germans, despite the assertion of neutrality, was made by Philander C. Knox, former secretary of state, in a political speech here tonight.

"Our positive action has at times approached dangerously near open partisanship," Knox declared.

The former secretary of state then cited the closing of the German wireless stations, and declared that by this action, coming at the same time as the cutting of the German cable, "Germany was isolated, while the allies had perfect lines of communication between America and Europe."

Knox declared: "The fact that there is no conceivable way, short of gross misconduct, by which we could have injected ourselves into the present conflict, is overlooked in the self-satisfying contemplations of the administration."

Contracts Let for Two Battleships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Contracts for the construction for two of the three battleships authorized by the last naval appropriation act were let today by Secretary Daniels, one to the Newport News Ship Building Company at $7,115,000, and the other to the New York Shipbuilding Co., of Camden, N. J., $7,250,000.

RIDES INTO SHURCH; FIGHTS CONGREGATION

WAVERLY, Oct. 17.—A horse ridden to the main aisle of the Duke Post-office Christian church by Newton Barrett broke up a district conference.

The moderator, the Rev. J. Q. Lambert, who was preaching, asked Constable James Patterson, who was in the congregation, to remove the intruder.

The officer was laid out with a kick by the horse.

"Up to September 8, the writer of the diary goes on, "the 178th Regiment had 1700 men wounded in addition to the killed. Virtually no officers were left."

"After the retreat began," this officer writes, "there was a rumor that the First Infantry had been in disastrous fighting. I am terribly depressed," the writer says. "Everybody thinks that the situation is critical. The uncertainty is the worst part of it. I think we advanced too quickly, and we are worn out by marching too rapidly and fighting incessantly."

"September 16—Our last officer has fallen, shot through the head. Our artillery has been shooting dangerously short. The French are better at street fighting and in any fighting in which they can make use of obstacles for cover."

"September 22—I am convinced that this country will give us all a grave."

GRACE VANDERBILT IS SERIOUSLY ILL AT HOME

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Cornelius Vanderbilt has been called here from New York on account of the illness of his daughter, Grace, who is suffering from pneumonia. She has been sick since her return from Europe recently. Her mother is with her.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt was christened this afternoon at Oakland Farm and named George Vanderbilt after his grand uncle.

Captain Isaac E. Emerson of Baltimore and W. F. Whitehouse were godfathers and Mrs. R. C. Vanderbilt the godmother.

SCHOOL BOYS LOCATE RICH MINING CLAIM

RENO, Nev., Oct. 17.—Eldred Brinkman and Tom Clark, 17-year-old school boys of this city, through their industry while on a summer vacation at Meadow Lake, have located a rich gold mine. The boys spent most of their time prospecting and have located a claim on Old Man mountain. The assay of the average sample across the mine, returning 17.55 per cent, including 1.55 ounces of gold and 2.45 per cent copper. The ledge is 15 feet wide. The claim covers the working of an old mine worked many years ago during the first gold rush.

LONG PLUNGE FATAL. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Albert Cedergren of 1819 Castro street, who fell from a bridge in the Potrero yesterday, died today at Morton's Sanitarium from a fractured skull. Cedergren, a painter, was working 50 feet above the ground when he took the fatal plunge.

WOLGSTAD TO BOX WELSH. CADILLAC, Wis., Oct. 17.—Ad Wolgstad, former lightweight champion, announced tonight that he had signed to meet Freddie Welsh in a 16-round match in New York. The fight probably will occur November 2. Weight of 133 pounds at 8 o'clock was agreed upon.

FOOTBALL PLAYER HURT.

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 17.—Michigan paid a heavy toll for this afternoon's victory over M. A. C. In the three minutes of play, Tommy Huggins, pilot of Yost's squad, and pronounced one of the best quarterbacks in the West, sustained serious injuries and was carried from the field. Physicians announced late tonight that he had suffered a broken arm and internal injuries which will force him retirement from the game for the balance of the season.

WILL MAP "RIVER." CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Colonel Roosevelt will arrive here tomorrow morning for a two-day visit during which he will put the "River of Doubt" on the map. The river, in South America, being made by Prof. Paul Gootenberg of the University of Chicago, and make campaign speeches for Raymond Robinson, Progressive senator nominated in Illinois, and Albert Beveridge, candidate for the same office in Indiana.

TEUTONS PUT RUSSIA ON DEFENSIVE

TEUTONS PUT RUSSIA ON DEFENSIVE

Week's Developments Give the German Forces Upper Hand in All Districts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The success of the German offensive against Russia has been the most important strategic development of the week. The Russian forces in Galicia and along the East Prussian border have been driven back and placed on the defensive. They have had to adopt wading tactics, were the main Slav armies contest the threatened capture of Warsaw and the occupation of the Visla basin. General von Hindenburg's success in entrenching his army on Russian territory 150 miles from the German frontier has eliminated during the week the possibility that a Russian offensive movement can be relied upon to assist the immediate development of the campaign in France and Belgium.

The march of the German troops across Belgium, and the capture of Ostend are far inferior in significance to the advances of Russia in Poland. The troubles of the Belgians are increased by the German occupation of the western plains, but the major strategy of the French-Belgian operations is not changed. The extension of the battle fronts by both belligerents to the sea-coast has caused intense wading elsewhere. The elasticity of a battle line is limited and this week's operations may be followed by a considerable curtailment of the southern front.

METZ IS OBJECTIVE.

There have been guarded references in the Paris official announcements during the week to the advance on Metz, which is the main defensive position of the German left center. Metz seems to have become an objective for the French general staff. A sudden change in the direction of the allies' main forces and an invasion in force of Northern Lorraine are possible developments of this week's reconnaissances along the Metz roads.

The South African rebellion which occurred early in the week is of questionable importance. The British government has acted with great promptness in insuring the assistance of Portuguese troops if the mutiny should develop serious proportions. That it will do so in the face of the pro-British sympathies of most of the Boer government leaders is improbable.

NAVAL VICTORIES EQUAL.

The advantage of the naval encounters of the week is about evenly divided. German submarines have sunk a British and a Russian light cruiser, and British warships have destroyed four German torpedo boats.

The power for offensive tactics residing in the four torpedo boats is greater than the offensive strength of the Hawke and the Pallada, but the stimulating effects of the sea victories are probably greater in the case of the Germans because of the mystery attached to the new submarine arm of the service.

ASSUMES MILITARY ROLE.

ERFURT, Oct. 17.—Shoemaker Vogt, better known as the "Captain of Koenigskirch," has now been given a chance to assume a military role. He is working in the local military shoe factory, where he is looked upon as a most proficient workman. Vogt earned considerable notoriety several years ago when, dressed as a captain of the German army, he took charge of the burgomaster's office at Koepenick, an incident which for a long time was remembered by the German public as a clever satire upon German military and official life.

FLIES 400 Miles in Home Made Monoplane

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Flying in a home-made monoplane, W. C. Robinson, Grinnell, Iowa, aviator, this afternoon broke the American record for non-stop flight by flying from Des Moines, Iowa, to Kentland, Ind., nearly 400 miles in 4 hours and 44 minutes.

Robinson left Des Moines at 10:56 this morning. His destination was Chicago. Near Iowa City he encountered a severe storm, and in dodging it, was forced to alter his course and fly to the south. For three hours he sped on, lost above the clouds. When his gasoline gave out, he glided to the ground and found himself in Kentland, eighty-one miles southeast of Coopersburg.

"I was flying at a height of about 7500 feet when I ascended to avoid the storm," said Robinson. "The cold was so sharp and intense that I felt it even through my leather suit. I did my best to keep my course due east, but there were no landmarks to guide me and I had no compass."

Revolver as First Aid to Cupid Disastrous

Both arms have driven forward their advance columns until at several points they interlaced. Generally speaking, the fighting of the most desperate character is confined to the limits of the quadrangle described by the Menin-Ostend road, a point on the front between Neuve and Bapaume border.

An official statement issued this afternoon and at mid-night tonight gave a hint of the terrific nature of the fighting in this theater. The afternoon's communiqué from Bapaume declared the German line had not been able to advance west of the line extending from Oestend to Menin through Thorout and Roulers.

It is known that engagements of a sanguinary nature have been fought in this region, and the statement is interpreted as meaning that the allies have held them to this position.

The midnight official statement recorded that the French marines had driven the Germans back after an attack on the French position along the canal running in an irregular course from Ypres northward to the sea. From this report it is apparent that the Germans have advanced through some points and have advanced in one section of their line a distance from 15 to 20 miles, only to be hurried back. No attempt was made to reconcile these claims by General Gallieni, the commandant of Paris, to whom the French war office transmitted the bulletin for publication.

The official censor was authorized to pass the unofficial interpretation of their meaning.

A startling announcement in the midnight bulletin was the appearance for the first time of British troops to the southwest of Ypres, indicating the presence of a small body of allied troops on the extreme right of the British front in France.

Their appearance was heralded with the chronicling of a successful encounter with the Germans in which the British forces captured the town of Flenu.

The British forces hate the Irish worse than the Germans," Miss Cloughley asserted.

When Miss Cloughley came to Montana it was only for a visit, but she fell in love with the country and then reentered the process with William Milligan, late of Tammany Moore, Ireland, and they are to be married here Monday.

"I'd never submit to home rule in Ireland," Miss Cloughley declared.

'Love Pirate' Pays Penalty of Sinner 'Be Merciful!' His Jury Asks of Judge

Surrounded by father, mother, sister, and attorneys, Hamilton, the "love pirate," sat at trial.

Just what is a "love pirate?"

There have been "love pirates" since history first dawned, and always the advent of a new star in this firmament excites a flutter of half-puzzled surprise.

"Love pirates differ. Some are men, some women, some sweep through the pages of romance with drums beating and the jingle of much tin plate, others are slow and subtle in their coming."

Mother Eve was a "love pirate" after a fashion, and the story of Helen of Troy will never die. But the true "love pirate" received his appanage in Lord Byron's "Don Juan."

He, of all heroes, has most definitely stirred the imagination of the world. Can we not see him, this hero of our youth, strong, dashingly beautiful as a deity of old Rome—cruel, perhaps trampling poor feminine hearts to dust, and laughing gaily all the while?

And so we come to the much-married Hamilton.

Is he a "love pirate," too, after the Don Juan style?

Where does the fascination lie, its fascination there really is?

NOT AN ADONIS.

He sat stolidly in the courtroom. A big thick-set man, dressed in a suit of reddish brown, that matched with most extraordinary nicety the color of his hair. There is little in the face. It is heavy, almost to flatness, of the color of putty not quite dried.

The eyes are small, expressionless, rimmed about with red, and red too, is in the bloated white of his pasty face, reaching an ugly stain about the nose.

A queer sort of Don Juan, surely. Where is the dash, the fire, the magnetism, all the gorgeous torui that there surely must have been, to catch the hearts and pocketbooks of those four unsuspecting wives?

Was there, perhaps, some secret, some hidden fascination, of which the outside world can know nothing?

It is hard to decide.

But here our modern Don Juan sat, stiff and expressionless, with a prison staring him in the face.

And the lawyers quarreled and wrangled, the judge put softening words from time to time, the spectators, and even the jury, wondered what is mystery, ambush, and the expert, testifying, mixed them all up, and then joked to get them in good temper again—while behind—three quiet people watched, following each move of the trial with sick anxiety, who suffered more than he has the capacity of suffering. Two of them were old, the other young. They were the father, mother, and sister of the "love pirate."

IN MUTUAL COMFORT.

The old people sat there, silent. And one knew the agony of their spirit, as their wrinkled, brown hands stole together, with the net closing relentlessly about their son. In all their despair and bitterness they made no complaint. They only came close to one another, but the love and understanding of a lifetime lay behind.

"Mrs. Hatfield, come forward."

She stepped up quietly and took the oath.

The questions were answered clearly and calmly, with a kind of pathetic reserve. But her eyes stole, sometimes across the courtroom, past the jury, and the judge, past the wall, where the lawyers wrangled, over to her son. And a sudden terror clouded up in the blushing old face. Her voice broke for a moment—then she went on calmly as before.

The hours dragged by. At last all the testimony was in. The lawyers harangued the jury, the

IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY TO GIVE WHIST PARTY

The Sacred Heart Improvement Society will give its big annual whist party and dance Friday evening, October 14, in the Sacred Heart Auditorium, Forty-first Street, near Division.

Preparations are being made to accommodate 500 whist players, which is the largest in the hall. Over fifty first-class prizes will be contested for. First prize—round trip steamer to Los Angeles, second prize, electric water heater, installed; third prize, electrical lamp.

The whist party will be followed by a dance. Members of the improvement society will have charge of the affair. The proceeds will be expended on the church, building, and playgrounds.

ANNOUNCE PROGRAM FOR LAKESIDE BAND CONCERT

The program for the regular Sunday afternoon concert to be held in Lakeside Hall, Oct. 14, has been announced. The Heavy Part of the card department to begin at 3:30 o'clock as follows:

(Introduction) "The Lovers" Social Dance.

"Officer's Waltz," "Oh, the Beautiful Blue Danube" (by request) Social Dance.

(Intermission) "March to the Tournament" (Medley) (e) "Armenia" (d) "Final Selection," "The Merry Widow" Lehrer.

"(Intermission) "Prussia's Ball" Lied.

"Song for Band, "Let Us Have Peace" (from "The War Song") Ernest Ball (in respect of movement for universal peace) Selection, "Lobengrin" Wagner.

Descriptive, "In a Clock Store" Orth.

"Queen of the Sun" Elgar.

Judge gave them the final instructions, and they filed out.

The "love pirate" dropped a little in his chair, his face hidden in his hands.

The old people sat silent, and the girl cried a little to herself, as the long hours wore away.

Rumors floated about the courtroom, the jury would disappear, come the whisper.

A laugh, towards evening, they returned.

The foreman rose. "We find the prisoner guilty, but recommend him to the extreme mercy of the court."

And so the romance of the modern "love pirate" closed.

INDUSTRY BOOMS IN ALL SECTIONS

Mills Are Running Overtime to Fill Orders For All Kinds of Articles.

CHICAGO Oct. 17.—All departments of the big Chicago packing houses, employing many thousands of men, are now running at full capacity. Arthur Meeker of Armour & Company declared tonight. There are no indications of a cessation of this boom in the meat industry for some time at least, he declared.

"Irrespective of the war, we find ourselves at a very busy season of the year," said Meeker. "This is the end of the grass-end and cattle raisers who graze their cattle during the summer months are now rushing them to market. Receipts are heavy and naturally, the packing houses are trying to keep up with the incoming cattle."

"This condition will continue for some time at least. At this time of the year farmers begin sending hogs to market. Hog receipts will begin getting heavier next week."

KANSAS CITY IS BUSY.

The same conditions hold true at Kansas City and other packing houses, officers of packing houses companies said tonight. At Kansas City more men are now employed in the packing industries than at any time this year.

Big foreign orders, Chicago business men said today, are doing much to speed up the wheels of industry in the Middle West. One local wholesaler reported today that he had received an order for $1,250,000 worth of blankets and other woolen supplies from a foreign government. Another company received an order for 60,000 pairs of woolen socks, with the information that this is only a starter.

The enormous wheat crop already is making itself felt in manufacturing lines. The Chicago branch house of an automobile company reported that it shipped nineteen carloads of automobiles into Middle Western farming communities yesterday.

CINCINNATI REVIVAL.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 17.—The business revival arrived at Cincinnati the beginning of last week. Machine tool manufacturers—Cincinnati's leading industry—are experiencing their busiest period in months. Large orders for lathes have come from England, France, and Russia.

All the large harness factories are working overtime on orders for army saddles from England and France.

A stove factory is making camp stoves for the Canadian expeditionary force.

A uniform-manufacturing establishment is at work on a large order from England.

PHILADELPHIA BOOMING.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—War orders placed by secret agents of Russia, England, and France with textile and steel manufacturers in Philadelphia and vicinity have already resulted in increased activities in those industries, it was learned today.

Local textile firms, running about half time before the European conflict began, are now working three-quarters time, employing 75,000 men, women, and boys. Woolen goods, particularly blankets, sweaters, underwear, and hose are demanded by the warring powers.

An order for 200,000 blue blankets for the French government is being filled by John & James Dobson, Incorporated, one of the largest knitting concerns here. The Roxford Knitting Company is rushing a contract for 10,000 cotton garments for the French hospital corps. Numerous hose mills have enough European orders to keep them busily for four months.

MANUFACTURERS RECEIVED.

Already shipment has been made of 25,000 tons of barbed wire to European ports. Due to the interruption of trade with Germany, whence large supplies of roller bearings come, the Standard Roller Bearing Company has been running night and day.

The Crucible Steel Company has been awarded a contract for 5000 tons of steel for bayonets and sabers.

From Bethlehem, Pa., it is reported that many sets of horseshoes, calks, and nails are being manufactured for European countries.

All bankers are reticent to discuss the report, but the rumor has gained credence here that Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Company is acting for the British government in placing orders for $1,000,000 worth of supplies in this country.

Boston manufacturers are receiving large orders. Heavy demands are also being made for manufacturers of hose, underwear, shirts, and harness. James M. Morrison, member of the Boston finance commission, declared today he believed European orders alone were keeping many mills running full time.

A representative of the United Hosiery Company, declared that orders are now being received for stockings. Although it might be expected that wool would be desired for the use of soldiers, most of the orders were for heavy cotton.

Ammunition factories in Connecticut are working night and day, turning out revolvers, machine guns and other implements of war.

MILLS BEING PUSHED.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 17.—Manufacturers in this section reported tonight that boom times appear to be ahead. While coarse yarn manufacturers plead unfavorable conditions, with some caution, other lines reported new orders, resulting from the war situation. Part of a million tons of towels for British soldiers will be made in the Parker chain of mills at Greenville, S. C., and the Cannon chain at Concord, N. C. More than half a million spindles in the Packer mills are running full-day time on foreign and domestic orders, while 46,000 spindles are running day and night.

SEES THE MASTER IN FREDERICKS

Candidate's Berkeley Address
Elicits Panegyric Outpouring of Auditor.

(By WILL D. SIMMONDS.)

I knew that I was in Berkeley when I alighted from the street car, for there at my feet was a dance program. "The Best of the Fredericks" it read, and some day I intend to take a few minutes off and find out just who the Fredericks can be.

At Unity Hall a young man handed me two slips of pasteboard and told me that the next night the crowd was so large the meeting would be held around the corner in Stiles Hall.

What a sight it was. Men, flesh, young and full of blood, and flashing that spark from the eye that is piercing with keenness.

"We are not serfs," said the athlete who met me at the door. "See the good Republicans we can get together. Just because there is an attempt to make the Progressive spirit dominate out here in the university they think we are going to stand by it. Not much."

"Not much," said the old-timer in the large room was a pack of bayonets and sabers. Captain Fredericks to come from across the car. It was such a gathering as a lesser motive would have failed.

When it was all over I could see that the wedge of truth had been driven deep, that the banner had been carried closer to its goal than the horrid, the hideous, the loathsome. The Fredericks had taken a firmer root in familiar soil and sprouted new in virgin fields. It must have been reward for Captain Fredericks to see that on election

CONFESSON IS BASIS OF DEFENSE

BANK ROBBED; BANDITS ESCAPE

Mrs. Carman to Rely on Evidence That Stella Hodge Killed Mrs. Bailey.

FREEPORT, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Evidence that Stella Hodge of Warren, Pa., now dead, was the murderer of Mrs. Louise Turner Bailey in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman at Freeport, L. I., on the night of June 20, will be the basis of the defense of Mrs. Florence Condie Carman when the trial is called Monday morning.

The confession of Miss Hodge which will be submitted as evidence cannot be foretold, but District Attorney Smith will fight bitterly against it, citing not only the killing of Justice Schmidt, the "Dago Frank" confession in the second Becker trial, but also calling attention to the apparent harm Miss Hodge had of confessing to any and all crimes which she was accused of. The defense will be that the confession of Miss Hodge will not be admitted as evidence because it was given under duress.

Miss Hodge died in Buffalo last August. She gave her name as Mary Cohen, and later said she was Mrs. Helen Hodge, the widow of Dr. John Drakes. She was arrested in Niagara Falls, where she was alleged to be boasting of the fact that she murdered Mrs. Bailey.

AIM WAS FAULTY.

The defense said she had been a trained nurse in Freeport, and that she intended killing Dr. Carman, but that her aim was faulty. She was in a highly nervous state and declared she had swallowed chloride of mercury.

She was taken to the hospital for the insane, where she is alleged to have repeated her "confession" to Dr. Carman. She died in the hospital, although the doctors are alleged to have said that she was not insane. Her death was due to mercury poisoning.

George M. Levy, associate counsel for the defense, says that he has letters from the Buffalo institution to the effect that Stella Hodge was not insane and that she did not intend killing anyone, nothing more, according to Levy. Miss Hodge identified Dr. Carman as soon as he approached her in Buffalo.

Stella Hodge was the woman in one of the most notorious murder mysteries in the country. She was born and lived in Warren, Pa., where she married Drake, who subsequently divorced her. Common gossip had it that she was the sweetheart of Emile M. Amann, superintendent of the waterworks at Warren. Under her maiden name she lived near the great Warren reservoir, where, on the morning of January 23, 1911, Amann was found shot to death.

CONFESSION KILLING MANY.

John M. Andrews, who was succeeded by Amann as superintendent of the waterworks, was arrested and twice tried for murder. Neither time was he convicted.

On June 28, 1911, in Atlantic City, whether she had been taken by telephone or by express, she confessed killing Amann, saying that it was an accident. Miss Hodge was taken back to Warren but her story was there discredited. Afterward she disappeared. It is believed that while in New York just before "confessing," the Bailey murder, she "confessed" kidnaping Warren McCracken, the Philadelphia boy who disappeared about a year ago.

No one in Freeport, however, contests admission of the alleged confession on technical grounds, but he will call attention to the woman's record.

If Stella Hodge's "confession" is admitted, the district attorney could pin the defense into hot water by calling attention to the fact that, according to Dr. Carman's statement of his location in the room when the shot was fired, it would have been impossible for him to have seen the doctor from the window.

She declares, according to the defense, that she went to Freeport to kill the doctor, and that she was accompanied by a man whose name she withheld.

SPILLED MILK STALLS CAR; CAT RESCUES IT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—A black cat crossed the path of a stalled street car on the Crown Hill line yesterday morning—and it was the 13th of the month, too—but instead of bringing ill luck to the passengers, was instrumental in sending them on their way rejoicing.

A wreckless driver of a milk wagon in rounding the corner at Sixth and Olive streets, shortly before 8 o'clock, dropped several milk cans on the path of the approaching car. The milk and cream covered the car tracks for several feet, and the car (it was car No. 12, manned by Conductor E. W. Hartson and Motorman F. A. Berard) stopped. "Please ask them if you don't believe this story," reached the spot, the wheels flew around with a sizzz on the greased track and refused to budge farther for want of traction.

Presently, from somewhere there came a lean, hungry black cat. Attracted by the milk and cream it came to the spot, and, undaunted by the many who stood around, began hungrily licking up the spilled milk. It took but a short time, for it was hungry. Then the car passed on.

HUSBAND LATE; WIFE TRIES TO END LIFE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—Because the train which brought her husband home was an hour late, Mrs. Eva Morgan, 26, of 201 South Boyle avenue, at the receiving hospital, to-day recovering from the effects of drug poisoning, taken with suicidal intent.

Morgan, who is a horse dealer, had been away for several weeks on a business trip.

During the hour which he was expected to arrive home, Mrs. Morgan became despondent. She swallowed a large quantity of lysol.

She was discovered by neighbors and rushed to the receiving hospital, where, after medical treatment, the physicians stated that she was out of danger.

When Morgan arrived at his home an hour later he was told that his wife was at the hospital. He rushed to her bedside and aided the physician in saving her life.

READY FOR POTATO CROP.

SELMA, Oct. 17.—Sweet potatoes are the latest product to be canned at the Libby, McNeil & Libby cannery in this city. With the close of the peach season, it was generally supposed that canning operations would suspend at the big plant until early spring. But the season will be prolonged quite a while by work on sweet potatoes, which will be handled by part of the former crew of peach workers. The potatoes being handled here were shipped from Atwater, as Selma soil has never been used to grow them. The fact that they are finding an increasing market, because of their adaptability to pie pie making, opens prospects for a new industry for this section. Experiments which were conducted here earlier in the season, with berries, beans and vegetables, also point to branches of farming in addition to those already practiced here, which can be carried on with profit.

Gang Flees With $20,000 in Hail of Lead; Three Hurt.

SEDRO-WOOLLEY, WASH., Oct. 17.—The First National Bank of Sedro-Woolley was held up at 3 o'clock tonight by five unmasked and heavily-armed foreigners, while police officers and detectives were watching in anticipation of such an attack. In the midst of a fusillade, the men made off with $20,000, the entire amount of the bank's cash.

Three persons are known to have been injured during the mad pistol battle. Fred Carlson, a bartender, was shot through the right leg and is receiving treatment in the Sedro-Woolley hospital. William Wilson and Carl Peterson, 10-year-old youths, are suffering from severe wounds from a bullet which struck the right shoulder of one and the left shoulder of the other as they cowered fear-stricken in a doorway.

One of the robbers is believed to have been injured in the fusillade and Mrs. William Osterman, who lives half a block from the scene of the holdup, on Perry street, down which thoroughfare the bandits retreated with their loot. She heard one of them say, "God, I hit."

Two of the robbers fell back and supported his branch as they passed out of sight in the darkness en route, it is believed, to a waiting automobile.

The most remarkable feature of the crime lies in the fact that the holdup has been anticipated and the city marshals and two private detectives are known to have been on guard within a few feet of the bank when the men entered.

The first intimation of trouble came when five men rounded the corner of the Wixson block, in which the bank is located, four of them passing into the institution and the fifth taking his post before the doorway. Each of the five produced two pistols and began firing at random, the lookout firing over the heads of the crowds in the street and at the same time shouting to them to get inside of the stores and adjacent buildings.

In the twinkling of an eye the street was emptied. Simultaneously with the dispersing of the crowd, the plate glass windows of the bank, the Wixson hotel adjoining and of buildings across the street collapsed before a veritable hall of bullets.

Two of the robbers walked into the enclosure occupied by J. K. Giddall, the cashier, and swept the contents of his gold sacks and currency drawer into gunny sacks, at the same time warning him to make no hostile move. One of the men then passed into the vault and looted it of everything except silver. While one of the four continued the fusillade, his companions reloaded their pistols and then emerged from the bank.

ALKALI IKE CREATES STAMPEDE IN HOTEL

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 17.—Alkali Ike, deputy sheriff from the desert, was a visitor yesterday in the city. Alkali was looking for the white lights. By noon, having failed to discover the excitement his soul craved, he made his way into the U. S. Grant Hotel buffet and, pulling a "forty-five" that looked like one of the Kaiser's howitzers, announced that he was going to do some "cleaning."

As he swung his Krupp around the room, heads dropped behind partitions and many faces paled at visions of sudden death. Commandant-in-Chief "Billie" Schuler tipped his cigar to a higher angle than usual and, backed by Irish and Germans, advanced on the bad man from the sand hills.

For an instant visions of carnage flashed before the eyes of the men who had sought refuge, but it quickly passed, for Schuler annexed the cannon and threw Alkali Ike to the sidewalk. A half-hour later the fire-eater was back, begging with tears streaming down his face, for his weapon.

"I'll be on my way to the sand hills in five minutes," he promised as he got back his trusty gun.

ROGUE PLAYS DOUBLE TRICK ON SOLDIERS

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A rogue with a sense of humor has played a double trick on a military officer and on the landlord of a workingmen's hotel at Sheffield, which has made both men the laughing stock of Yorkshire.

The officer in command of the Sheffield barracks received one day recently an invitation by telephone to billet 200 recruits at a new workingmen's hotel owned by a prominent citizen. The officer, of course, was accepted. The manager of the hotel was then called up by the same voice and ordered to prepare quarters as well as supper for 200 recruits under His Majesty's transport officer, Ridley. The men arrived and so did the mysterious "Transport Officer Ridley," who thereupon chose one recruit to shave him, another to clean his boots, while a third was placed as sentry at the door with orders to keep absolute quiet in the hall while the commander slept. Ridley's next order was to post this notice:

"This is a military institution, and the men are under the authority of 'Mr. Ridley' transport officer. If he calls upon any man to perform any action he is bound to do so, else he will be guilty of a crime against military law, for which he will be punished by the military authorities."

Transport Officer Ridley remained several days in unquestioned command, when he became ill. As he refused to have a doctor, the manager of the hotel telephoned to the barracks. A real officer appeared and to enlighten him, Ridley produced a note purporting to bear a captain's signature. The officer left for further investigation, whereupon Ridley left the hotel and disappeared.

CUPID BESTS DIVORCE IN SIX MONTHS' RACE

CONTEST $60,000 WILL IN CHILDREN'S FAVOR

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 17.—If marriage is a failure, as Barnard Shaw and some other of the ultra-modern literateurs would have us believe, the records of Kern county for the past half year do not show it.

During the past six months 243 marriage licenses have been issued and fifty-five interlocutory degrees of divorce have been granted in this county, which would seem to indicate that about four out of every five matrimonial ships escape the rocks.

Only thirty-six degrees of divorce were granted during the past half year.

In June, the month of brides, fifty-one marriage licenses were issued, as against ten degrees of divorce granted.

ANTHRAX BREAKS OUT.

MERCED, Oct. 17.—County Veterinarian Dr. L. C. Kennon yesterday afternoon quarantined 300 head of cattle on the George Blos Jr. ranch, near this city, following the discovery of the dreaded disease anthrax among the inhabitants.

The citizens fled to their houses and barred windows and doors behind them.

"Straggling soldiers, who happened to be in the streets, shot them guns away and scattered in the hills. Some of them fired with their revolvers at a number of persons who still retained their guns, and these hastily threw their weapons away. At one street corner the count suddenly encountered a detachment of some British French Infantry, who rode past him rapidly on the patrol. One non-commissioned officer fell, both he and his horse struck by several bullets. Sergeant Janssen, who regularly rode beside Count Wedel and who had characterized himself by great ferocity, gave the baton with which he was armed to the little group retired at a sharp gallop under a steady fire from the houses.

"After his daring ride Count Wedel was able to report to his commander that Sedan was free of the enemy, with the exception of a few stragglers."

ACCUSE OFFICIAL.

FRESNO, Oct. 17.—P. G. Boardman, local manager of the Western Union, was placed under arrest Wednesday afternoon on a charge of embezzling $200 and was arraigned before City Justice Graham, where he was released on $1,000 bail. Boardman was furnished by C. K. Sorenson and George Magner. No date for preliminary examination has been set. The Western Union has taken the case up with the bonding company for Boardman.

It is set forth in the complaint, which was drawn up by Deputy District Attorney McSherry, that on October 5 Boardman appropriated $200 of the company's money to his own use. A. G. Little, traveling auditor for the Western Union, came to the complaint.

Mr. Gallur has written a number of compositions of music, and many of them were well received. He has composed a piece for the piano.

It is also known that he has composed a piece for the organ and the Kohler & Chass Autograph Player Piano and made quite a decided hit.

THOUSANDS TO REVEL AT IDORA TOMORROW AS TRIBUNE GUESTS

Two days' distribution of free tickets for TRIBUNE DAY, which is tomorrow, at Idora Park, saw one of the heaviest demands, considering the shortness of time, ever seen in a TRIBUNE DAY celebration at Idora Park. Three business offices of THE TRIBUNE and a large number of Alameda county stores participated in the distribution and all reported busy times yesterday and last night, while crowds secured their free passes. The Alameda county exhibition, extended an extra day for THE TRIBUNE affair, to which every Alameda county resident is offered a free ticket by THE TRIBUNE, is one of the most notable in the history of such affairs in the east bay region.

The free tickets not only carry with them free concessions passes, but also chances at THE TRIBUNE gate prize of $250. They were distributed from the following offices of THE TRIBUNE:

Main office, Eighth street, between Broadway and Franklin.

TRIBUNE Berkeley branch, 214½ Shattuck avenue.

TRIBUNE Alameda branch, Park street and Santa Clara avenue.

TRIBUNE Fruitvale branch, Fruitvale avenue and East Fourteenth street.

TRIBUNE DAY, one of the gala events of Idora Park, and this time the crowning success of the big Alameda County Exhibit, is tomorrow. Always a success and the mecca of the big crowds of the east bay region, TRIBUNE DAY tomorrow has an additional attraction in the big Alameda County Exhibit, the product of the combined efforts of the commercial organizations of Alameda county and a graphic representation of the possibilities of the great east bay region.

Every man, woman and child in the county has been invited by the newspaper to participate in the day. Thousands of free tickets have been distributed. THE TRIBUNE invited any resident of the county to secure the free passes, to be had for the asking, not only in the branch offices of THE TRIBUNE assigned to the task of distribution, but also in a large number of local stores where they were placed for friends of the newspaper.

Full figures of the number of tickets given out have not yet been compiled, but from preliminary reports the distribution exceeds any distribution of any TRIBUNE DAY ever held since the plan has been in vogue.

PASSES TO CONCESSIONS.

The free passes will not only entitle guests of THE TRIBUNE to admission to the park, but also to passes to the following concessions:

AUTO TRACTOR,
CAROUSEL,
FREE PEANUTS,
CIRCLE SWING,
MINIATURE RAILWAY,

MOUNTAIN SLIDE, MOTION PICTURES,
SCENIC RAILWAY,
SOCIAL WHIRL, TOBOGGAN,
RACING COASTER,

The free tickets will be exchanged at the gate for the concession passes and will also entitle the holders to chances for the $200 prize to be awarded to the holder of the lucky ticket, which will be decided at the public drawing to be held at the amphitheater at 10:45. The tickets have been distributed from the following stores:

KIDDIES LOOKING FORWARD TO XMAS

Little Tots Await Arrival of Santa Claus in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—The war in Europe, which has set the world agog with excitement and horror, and has influenced almost every line of trade, travel and commerce, has even changed the plans of dear old Santa Claus. Just as sure as the sun rises in the morning, Father Christmas will be here on time this 1914, but the marching armies and the fighting hordes of men who have gone to the front leaving countless little children behind, has provided a great task for Kris Kringle. The god of toyland has got a big job on his hands to gladden the hearts of all the kiddies in Europe whose papa's are fighting and dying on the crimson battlefield.

While the youngsters across the water are wondering whether Santa Claus is really going to come this year, the little fellows in the good old United States are looking on as spectators in the fight, must not be forgotten. For that reason, Santa Claus, realizing the big task ahead of him, has decided to begin with America this year and he has already arrived in San Francisco.

His plans are so big and his route so intricate and beset with dangers, that he has had to start in early in order to get ready for the rush later. He is already receiving letters and some of the tiny tots of Oakland and San Francisco have been carefully printing little love notes telling of their desire for Christmas day.

The City of Paris, the big drygoods store, started the ball rolling by inviting Santa Claus to come and hold a reception for the children and sending broadcast his letter inviting them to write and make known their wants. Out of a maze of mail received by old Santa came a letter from Betsie, and Betsie forgot to give her address. Today's TRIBUNE.

the things she wanted, but nevertheless with the aid of his wise old head he expects to locate Betsie on Christmas eve.

This is the letter that the youngster wrote all by her own self and without mama or papa even putting on the stamp:

"Dear Betsy to Santa Claus. I want a baby doll, a cradle. I want sum clothes; a boy doll, a broom a rocking chair and Santa Claus will you give me them."

"Dear Santa Claus."

MYSTIC SHRINERS WILL HOLD THEATER PARTY

For the benefit of the 1915 entertainment fund, with which the local temple will entertain visiting Shrineurs from all parts of the country.

Ashrams Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, of this city, will entertain tomorrow night at an elaborate theater party to be given at the Orpheum.

The house has been bought out for the occasion and several additional features will be added to the regular bill. The entertainment committee of the temple will be in charge.

Already a large number of tickets for the affair have been issued, and many demands have been received by the committee.

R. A. McWilliams is in charge of the business arrangements of the affair. The entertainment committee is as follows: Maurice Stewart, Charles E. Roseman, C. C. Burton, J. R. D. Mackenzie, and R. A. McWilliams.

ENTREPRENEUR CHARGED, SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—R. Schrenkensky of 142 Taylor street swore to a warrant today for the arrest of Tennenbaum on a charge of embezzlement. The amount involved is $200.

New Star Will Shine
Paisley Noon Appears

PASLEY NOON.

An announcement that should prove of interest to Oakland theatergoers is that which heralds the engagement of Paisley Noon for the position of leading man with the Dillon and King forces at the Columbia, commencing with the matinee today.

Noon is by no means a stranger to the local followers of musical comedy. He has made successful appearances here with numerous well known organizations. His debut as a local stock favorite was made several months ago in support of Ferns Hartman during the season of light opera at Idora Park. A winning personality, coupled with a pleasing voice and real dramatic ability soon made Noon a universal favorite with East Bay audiences.

Noon should prove a valuable acquisition to the Columbia company.

He is better qualified to fill the position than the average. He is a splendid reader, possesses an excellent stage presence, dances unusually well, while his singing is considered far from the ordinary. Noon will enact one of the principal characters in Dillon and King's new military extravaganza entitled, "The War is Over."

HAS HIGH PRAISE FOR CANDIDATE

Ex-Councilman Says Failure to Re-elect Kelly Would Be Illogical.

"It would not only be illogical, but positively unjust, not to re-elect County Treasurer M. J. Kelly," said Arthur H. Elliott, the well-known attorney and former councilman this morning.

"I think I am qualified to pass an opinion on Mr. Kelly. For some years I was a city official and I have known of Mr. Kelly and his public and private life. I think he is a man who is in public with public affairs all the year round, not only at election times. Not once or twice, but scores of times. I have discussed the doings of Mr. Kelly in women's gatherings, men's clubs, with Y. M. C. A. people, at various social functions, with ministers, with Governor Johnson, and other state officials, and they have all the same opinion, namely, that there is no man in this state who is more deserving of respect and popular confidence than Mr. Kelly. He is a man who is as much at home in the office of County Treasurer as a man. No man, I care not how high or lowly his station in life, can desire to stand better in the opinion of those who know him than Mr. Kelly stands."

"In justice and by all the principles that govern civic life, there should not be any necessity to even suggest the re-election of M. J. Kelly."

ABOUT ELECTION FRAUDS.

"Now let me say a word about these so-called election frauds. I have followed the published reports carefully and have noticed that they were attempting to try to prove it was the men who were in some way connected with them. A piece of greater cowardice and criminality was never perpetrated in an attempt to besmirch the character of any man. Of course, in the court trials, advocated by the "good" people, it was admitted that the old "machine" and they have no other argument to present than vilification and falsehood. To tell any one of the thousands of friends of Mr. Kelly that the court trials advocated the false accusation of voter corruption at the voting of dead men is but to raise a laugh. I see that the "machine" in its desperation has stated that the election officers under arrest are responsible for the voter corruption. I demand to know if it is true that Mr. Kelly is in some way connected with them. Naturally I would give them a suggestion as to what department to go to, and if I could I would say a good word for them. Believe me, in political life nothing is lost more for the friends and I have a right to see that there is no difference in this particular in Republicans, Democrats, Socialists, Progressives, or what not."

"Name over all the members of the party, and you will find not even one of them who is so anxious to be a big boss than is he that has been led to say much that is untrue and some things that are perhaps unkind regarding Mr. Kelly. Lay down the list of all the court officers and are they not all good men? There is no possibility."

"Mr. Kelly righteously stands out as a procurer of work for people, because he has made his life work the lifting up of those who need it. He knows that the only thing that is permanent and that is to put him in the world and Mr. Kelly's much honor to him has sacrificed all the satisfactions of club life, or the entertainment of the cafes and similar places of diversion that we seem to think are necessary for the enjoyment of life, for the sake of the public welfare in doing much that most of us are too refined "and respectable" to do."

"If I were a preacher I would preach next Sunday with M. J. Kelly for my text, and cannot think of any subject that would involve more honor and more practical usefulness. With the ranks of others that I know, I say with all sincerity, "God bless M. J. Kelly."

AT D. SAMUELS

The Bargains of Last Week Are Nothing to What You Will Find Tomorrow at the D. Samuels Retiring Sale

The pressure of this sale has been terrific. We have always carried very large stocks, but they are feeling the pressure. Color and size assortments are becoming broken—merchandise has been selling fast.

But we are following up the broker: assortments still faster with reductions after reductions. And almost the same applies where the stocks are very large and complete, because we appreciate that the time is rapidly approaching when we must hand the ground floor over to the architect.

Therefore, and this is accurate, in every department we have taken the most desirable merchandise and red penciled the same out of all proportion to real value.

Be on hand early tomorrow morning. The earlier you come the better service you will get.

READY-TO-WEAR DEPARTMENT

Tomorrow's prices are far less than you would expect in a January Clearance Sale.

$9.50 to $12.50 for $18.50 to $25.00 Coats
$14.00 to $16.50 for $27.50 to $35.00 Coats
$26.00 to $36.00 for $37.50 to $50.00 Coats
Suits at $17.00 that were $25.00 to $30.00.
Suits at $18.50 that were $35.00 and $37.50

Suits at $23.75 that were $35.00 to $45.00
Suits at $33.00 that were $55.00 to $60.00
$13.75 and $15.00 for all $25 and $27.50 Dresses
$25.00 to $30.00 for dresses that were $40 to $55

And so on throughout the entire department—a saving of practically one-half.

GREAT SILK SAVINGS

Most desirable messalines, satins, poplins, charmeuse and all-black silks, etc., decisively reduced. All $1.00 messalines at 87c; all $1.50 crepe de chines at $1.18; all $2.50 crepe meteors at $1.75; all $1.50 and $1.65 satins at $1.35; all $2.00 poplins at $1.55; all $2.00 crepe de chines at $1.65; all $3.00 Faille Francaise at $2.15; all $4.00 Bengalines at $2.95.

All novelty silks reduced from 1-4 to 1-2 and so on throughout the entire section.

2000 YARDS OF DRESS GOODS AT 86c

Comprising our regular $1.50 plain and striped wool voiles; comprising $1.50, $2.00 and even $2.50 plain silk wool voiles; comprising all our regular $1.26 Henriettes and a variety of $2.00 Scotch Homespuns, all in this Retiring Sale at 86c a yard.

LACES AND TRIMMINGS

The most radical reductions of all are in the laces and trimmings. This section was closed half a day Tuesday and all day Wednesday. Every yard was reduced. We can conservatively state that further reductions aggregating $18,000.00 to $20,000.00 were made in this one department.

Dressmakers, manufacturers, dealers, as well as private individuals, should take advantage of the tremendous reductions in the very fine exclusive European laces, trimmings, flounceings, evening goods, tunics, etc. Very few firms in the United States carry such goods as these, and never before have such values been given.

HOSIERY AND UNDERWEAR BARGAINS

Tomorrow we sell our silk Hosiery as follows: Our best $1.00 silk hose, 89c; our best $1.25 silk hose, 96c; our $1.75 and $2.00 silk hose at $1.30.

On the bargain tables in the hosiery aisle we close out at 39c odds and ends in vests, tights and Union Suits that sold to $1.00; at 59c odds and ends in vests, tights and Union Suits that sold to $2.

If you wear Carter, Merode, Zimmerli, Munsing, Sterling, Kayser or Tivoli Root brands of underwear—everyone has been decisively reduced for this Sale.

REAL LACE NECKWEAR LESS 50%

Magnificent real Irish crochet neckwear at exactly half price. Real Irish collar and cuff sets, yokes, stocks, jabots, etc. We reduced them all exactly 25% when Sale started—now for tomorrow we have placed another 25% reduction on them—thus every piece shows a 50% reduction. With Christmas shopping within 30 days, think what this means, to buy exquisite real Irish laces at exactly half off.

JEWELRY---ODDS AND ENDS

A whole collection of novelties, such as beads, shoe buckles, hair pins, hat pins, brooches, lavallieres, belt pins, perfume bottles, neck chains, earrings, etc., all to be closed out at 55c. We do not care to tell you how high some were originally sold.

PEARL EARRINGS—Several hundred pearl earrings in small, medium and large—cream and white only, at 33c.

Health and Happiness at Home.

This Man and Wife Restored to Health by Peruna.

Mr. John B. Blackwood, Lockhart, S. C., writes: "My wife and I take Peruna occasionally, and we think it is the best medicine in the world. We keep it in the house. I also have a bottle of it in my tool chest, when I am away from home. I am a stone mason, and travel extensively over the country. I have caused the sale of many bottles of Peruna to my fellow workmen. Years ago I was a great sufferer from nervous indigestion, caused by catarrh. Tried everything in the way of medicine. No relief. I grew despondent. A friend told me to try Peruna. I began. It helped me at once, and finally cured me. I am a well man today."

Cured My Wife.

In a later letter Mr. Blackwood writes: "Over a year ago my wife had a spell of sickness. The doctor said it was kidney trouble and a bad stomach disease. I had two doctors. One of them visited her every day for several weeks. They finally decided that she could not live. In despair, I began to give her Peruna in small doses. In three days I could see she was getting a little stronger. In three weeks she was walking around the house. In two months she was strong and well. In all, she took five bottles of Peruna. It cured her sound. After quitting the doctor she never took a thing but Peruna. It certainly saved her life."

A Prize Baby.

In other letters from Mr. Blackwood we glean the following: "I am going to send you a picture of my baby that took the prize at the baby show. I told the judges her name was Ruth Manalin Blackwood. She has taken several bottles of your remedy. Manalin, and is the finest baby in this country. I believe your medicine saved the life of my little two-year-old boy. The doctors said he had a bad stomach, but did not help him. We gave him Manalin and it cured him. He also took Peruna at the same time. Is now sound and well. He is the picture of health and as fine a looking boy as there is in this country."

DEFINES KINDS OF CONSERVATISM

Interstate Commissioner Clark Incidentally Settles Question of Board's Composition.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Interstate Commerce Commissioner E. E. Clark, former chairman, has settled the affirmative question of whether the Interstate Commerce Commission is composed of "conservatives." His definition, however, of "conservatives" whom, he says, compose the railroad rate board, is unique.

"There is conservatism which means to get into a rut and stay there," says Clark. "There is conservatism which means nothing but laziness. Another

How To Stop the Liquor Habit Secretly

By a Specialist.

That the liquor habit can be treated secretly at home at very little expense is the claim of a well-known specialist who has treated thousands of cases. In a recent interview, he made the following statement: "The cost of the drugs used to treat the liquor habit in the high priced sanitarians amounts to very little. Here is a simple, inexpensive prescription that can be given secretly in coffee, tea, milk, water or in the food, as it has no taste, color or odor: To 3 oz. of water add 20 grains of mercury of ammonia, a small box of Varlin Compound and ten grains of jujube. Put into coffee or food—teaspoonful three times a day. This prescription is perfectly harmless, can be obtained at any drug store, and will be found very effective in the treatment of the liquor habit."

ENGLISHMEN MISS THEIR BATH TUB

Prisoners Show Proverbial Aloofness in Keeping to Themselves.

MUENSTER, Germany, Sept. 9.—"How long, sir, do you think the war will last?"

More than a score of Englishmen literally picked up their ears to catch the answer when the bare-kneed Highlander asked this question. Around about were thousands of Frenchmen in their dirty bedouin trousers, stalwart Belgians and a sprinkling of fat-faced Turks and Zouaves from the deserts and mountains of Algiers, all prisoners of war.

"How long will the war last?" was repeated. It was the unexpressed question mark on every one of the thousands of faces.

"Are you tired of it?" was asked of the Highlander.

"His rauhther be playing golf at home than be in this bloomin' blasted place," he answered. "Cawn't you ask them to let us have a golf course here. I know we cawn use these bloomin' barracks for bunkers."

"H'll, shouted another, "cawn't you persuade them to give us a bath tub. Hi! I've aven't be blooming bath since they brought us to this blasted place!"

"How long will the war last? No one is asking that question more often than the prisoners of war. Their lot is not willing he can be compelled, to pay what the service of the railroads is worth, including a reasonable profit. On the other hand, the railroad being a public servant, operating and existing under a public franchise, has no right to expect and should not be permitted to extract more than a reasonable return.

"Some day we shall have a better understanding between the railroads and the public, between the railroads and the commission, and between the commission and the public," Clark predicts, hopefully.

EMBARRASSING REQUEST.

A peculiar and embarrassing request has been made to the War Department by Mrs. Mathilda Zoll of this city. She wants her ashes, after she dies and is cremated, to be placed in the tomb of her son, the late Private Frank Zoll of the Coast Artillery, whose body is buried in the Arlington National Cemetery.

The mother does not wish her name to appear on any gravestone, nor does she ask any burial ceremonies, but merely desires her ashes to be placed in an urn and interred in her son's grave.

The mother's simple request has been officially denied by the "ravages" of the government. The officials have it "under consideration," but declare they have no authority to grant it.

An inexorable law—not a mere army regulation—declares that only wives of soldiers may be interred in national cemeteries.

Secretary of War Garrison is endeavoring to find some way in which the request of Mrs. Zoll can be granted.

WATCHING NEW COMBINATION.

Attorney General Gregory has a new "combination" under his eye. The "Naval Stores Producers" association of the United States is the organization now being perfected by certain southern producers of "naval stores"—turpentine, resin, pitch, etc.—sixty leading producers recently held a preliminary meeting at Montgomery, Ala. Marketing of turpentine and resin to meet the curtailed market situation caused by the war in Europe is the announced object of the organization. Whether the association falls under the prohibition of the Sherman anti-trust law is a much mooted question.

Organization of the "naval stores" industry has had a lengthy and unfortunate relation with the anti-trust law. Whether the new association is so organized as to be exempt from the law is the question. Naval stores' producers recently called at the Department of Justice and asked Gregory how far they could go in co-operation. Gregory told the producers their case would have to be judged on the facts presented.

The naval stores so-called "trust" recently went into bankruptcy, but the criminal prosecution under the Sherman law of its officers, who were allowed a new trial, however, by the Supreme court.

OVERSEAS CLUB TO GIVE BENEFIT PERFORMANCE

The Overseas Club of Berkeley will increase its funds for relief of the war stricken people of Belgium and allied nations with a special production at the Macdonough theater on Monday evening, Oct. 25, of "Kitty MacKay," the comedy, and of feature acts. The features will be given during the intermissions of the play.

The proceeds of the evening, including all taken in by the theatrical company, will be assigned to the war relief fund. The prize bulldog Bonie Dundee, which has been donated by a high piano and barbed wire fence, about 2000 men of the "Landstrum" guard the prisoners. There is a sentry every fifty yards apart. The public is not allowed to talk to the prisoners and cannot pass the enclosure at a considerable distance.

The captured non-commissioned officers endeavor to keep a little discipline among them men, especially in so far as to compel them to keep the "non-coms" boots and clothing clean, giving them the best sleeping places, etc. This often results in no little rowing the prisoners being unable to see the logic of doing the will of the non-commissioned officers when both are in captivity.

Among the Belgians are quite a number of civilians, old men with gray hair and beardless youths of 15 and 16. They are charged with being "fractureurs," or having engaged in guerilla warfare against the German soldiers in Liege and other points in Belgium.

They are awaiting court martial. Six were stood up and shot in the camp last Thursday. Two prisoners court-martialed for "treason" arrived on Saturday to be executed here.

The prisoners occupy the large barracks used by the German soldiers during maneuvers. They sleep on the ground on beds of straw.

The benefit is being arranged by the Overseas club committee, but is under the especial auspices of the Belgian, British and French consuls.

LODGE WOMAN BRIDE.

The wedding of Miss Irene Madeline Bigler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bigler, and Roy Morgan Craig took place Friday evening at the South Berkeley Christian church, where a large number of guests were gathered for the ceremony.

The bride has been worthy matron of the Eastern Star at San Diego and is prominent in lodge circles.

The benefit is being arranged by the Overseas club committee, but is under the especial auspices of the Belgian, British and French consuls.

ATTACKS AGED MINISTER.

LAKE CITY, Oct. 17.—Charged with making an attack with a knife upon the Rev. A. Howard, Lian Jorden was fined $50 by Justice of the Peace, I. C. Batchel. The minister was knocked down by Jorden, who drew a knife as the aged man tried to rise from the floor. The troubles arose over some stories Jorden is said to have circulated about the minister.

The justice of the peace made Jorden sign a written retraction of the stories.

Albert W. Palmer, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church. The music is composed by William W. Carruth.

ARTILLERY TRUMP IN EUROPEAN WAR

German Field Howitzers Complete Success, Says Officer.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—"Artillery is trump in this war," says a wounded German officer interviewed by the Tagblatt. He continues:

"Our German shells are wonders. In addition to their destructive effect, the noise of their detonation is plainly to be observed. The sound is not a little affected by the dull, uncanny noise. The showing of our field howitzers is a complete success. They are actually directed to the heaviest field pieces of the French, the Rhaetia (15.5 centimeter) howitzers. The French shells are an excellent projectile, except that they do not always explode.

"In our advances we have had opportunity to observe on the French dead and wounded the effect of our shells, and it was very great. At the beginning of the war the percussive point of projectiles is said to have laid too high, and it is interesting to note that we first learned this from letters captured from the French."

"It must be said that the French cannoneers shoot extraordinarily well. They keep a sharp watch, open fire as soon as they see dust rising, even at great distances, where they can reckon only on moral effect. They must have been well trained in the use of their guns. Their ammunition supply is well looked after. A cessation of fire because of lack of ammunition almost never occurs. This is the more remarkable because of their system of firing, in which they seek out an area in which they assume the enemy to be present and simply deluge it with their fire."

"Our heavy artillery has become the terror of the enemy, and the appearance of the gunners, rifle in hand, is most impressive. They are well equipped with breech-loading guns, and are well trained. Their shells are effective projectiles, except that they do not always explode.

"When our first fire effective, the French simply abandon their positions. The French gunners are well trained, and when they are hit, they are not afraid to leave their posts. They are well equipped with breech-loading guns, and are well trained. Their shells are effective projectiles, except that they do not always explode.

VON HINDENBURG AGAIN A HERO

Distinguished German General Rescued From Obscurity by Great Victories.

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—General von Hindenburg, who distinguished himself by winning two great victories over the Russians and taking about 150,000 prisoners within three weeks, was a comparatively unknown man so far as the general public is concerned, when the war broke out, and it seemed wholly probable that his name would go down to history as a blank, for he had already been retired from active service three years ago, at the age of 61. His health, moreover, was not such as to warrant the expectation that he would still achieve work of distinction. He walks with great difficulty, being subject to both rheumatism and gout.

In view of his health he was not recalled into active service when the war broke out, although he enjoyed a high reputation among military men. It was only after General von Prittwitz and Gaffron, at first in command in East Prussia, had committed serious errors in strategy that the Emperor decided to make a change in command. The general staff called for consultation told him that von Hindenburg was the only man to settle the situation there; and von Hindenburg, notwithstanding his 61 years, was appointed. He was living at Magdeburg, but came to Berlin at once upon hearing of his appointment. Here a young officer took him in an automobile at high speed to the seat of war. On the way they were met by staff officers from the East Prussian army, who gave Hindenburg a full description of the military situation, and by the time he arrived at the scene of action he had already formed his plans for crushing the Russian Narev Army.

OVER RASH REMARK.

According to one report, his appointment meant a sacrifice of personal pride on the part of the Kaiser, because it is said that von Hindenburg's retirement from active service in 1911 was due to an over-rash remark he made to the Kaiser at the maneuvers. Von Hindenburg, so the story goes, after having gained a decisive victory over the Kaiser's forces, said to him after the sham-fighting: "Yes, your Majesty, and if this had been real war we would have driven you into the Baltic Sea." The Kaiser resented this remark, and von Hindenburg's retirement soon followed.

Since his astonishing victories in East Prussia the military writers have received a story illustrating his bravery at the battle of Sadowa, or Königgrätz, in which he took part as a second lieutenant in the royal body guard regiment, the Garde du Corps.

"Suddenly the riflemen of Lieut. von Hindenburg," writes the historian of his regiment, "were fired upon with grape-shot. A battery had hurried forward from Roseritz and had opened fire upon them at a very short range. After returning a short rapid-fire, Lieut. von Hindenburg ordered 'Forward, double-quick!' and dashed for the Austrian guns. Grazed on the head and knocked down by a grape-shot, he lay stupefied for a few moments. Then, recovering, he jumped up and saw that three canons were already in the hands of his men, while the two others, one with two horses, and the other with one, were being drawn off. These were also captured, but it was impossible to bring them off the field."

SAW HARD SERVICE.

Von Hindenburg later saw hard service in the war of 1870-71, taking part in the battles of Gravelotte, Sedan and others.

Much of his active service was spent with the general staff, to which he was first ordered in 1871, after he had spent three years in the war academy. Seven years later he was assigned to service in the infantry as company commander, but in the following year returned to the general staff, where he soon advanced to major. In 1880 he was assigned to the war ministry, was made a Lieutenant-colonel two years later, and in 1884 took command, as Lieutenant-colonel, of the 1st Infantry regiment. In 1884 he became colonel and two years later he was made chief of the general staff of the seventh army corps. He advanced rapidly to brigade commander, was successively promoted to be major-general and Lieutenant-general, and in 1903 was made commanding general of the fourth corps.

In the last named capacity von Hindenburg showed his executive ability and knowledge of human nature by the manner in which he was able to secure the co-operation of two of his generals, von Prittwitz and Gaffron, and von Bernhardi. The former was a hard-headed, obstinate old soldier and the latter an impetuous officer, dashing and impatient of restraint. Both, however, were devoted to von Hindenburg and worked efficiently with him. He retired in 1911.

The report of his victories in East Prussia referred to him as "Colonel General von Hindenburg." As this is a rank which he had not before possessed, it is assumed that it was conferred upon him as a reward for his services in repelling the Russian advance.

DENY BOHEMIAN MUNTING: WARNS AGAINST CANARDS

THE HAGUE, Oct. 17.—Major General von Hoefer, acting chief of the Austro-Hungarian general staff, in an interview which has appeared here, says:

"In several foreign papers the assertion has been made that some of our troops, from one nationality or another, had not met expectations. An English source which is identified with the dissemination of the most foolish sort of canards asserted there had been a mutiny in the Bohemian regiments.

"Falseshoods such as these must be given attention. They are intended to spread among those who are not familiar with conditions in this monarchy, the impression that today, unlike in former times, our soldiers' oath 'to fight every enemy' has lost its meaning. In this fight, which has been forced upon us, our men have fought with the determination to outdo one another in bravery, be this on the Russo-Galician frontier, or the Balkan theaters of war. Germans, Magyars, Slovaks and North Slavs, Italians and Roumanians fought with the same heroism and in the same spirit of loyalty to the supreme commander and their country. Our troops have never failed to take difficult positions, or engage a numerically superior enemy with the greatest courage."

CUT OFF WITH $10.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 17.—With the presentation of the will of W. A. Davis of Lone for probate comes the notice of a contest to be waged by John A. Davis of Denver, his oldest son, who was cut off with $10.

Davis was drowned in a water tank several months ago. His estate is valued at $100,000. A son and two daughters were willed all but the $10 left to the prospective contestant. Devotion to horse racing is said to have been responsible for the arrangement between John and his son, who was a strict churchman.

Why Civil Service In California Is Political Snare

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Captain Fredericks put his finger on the sore spot in the Progressive anatomy when he exposed the corrupt fashion in which the civil service law is worked for the advantage, aid and comfort of the state administration machine. The California civil service law is in fact the worst piece of political bunk that ever was put over to fool an unsuspecting commonwealth. It is in fact a most ingenious piece of legislation making loud pretension of political purity while in effect it is worked as the most essential wheel in the machine and the hub of the whole spoils system.

How the Game Was Played

A little history will serve to explain the situation. As Captain Fredericks pointed out, Governor Johnson, although in complete and absolute control of the legislature, was careful to omit action on any civil service reform measure during the first session of that body after he took office, but at the same time he was loud in promises of what he was going to do in this regard as soon as he had time to get around to it.

Now Hiram Johnson is a politician, born and bred, and he is just the same kind of politician as his father, although the brand may be different. You will never find a tame duck in a wild duck's nest. Every step that Johnson takes is made with his eye on the polls and he is not in the least squeamish about working a piece of political bunk on a trusting or heedless electorate. So the civil service reform measure was left over for Johnson's second legislative session in order that in the meantime the machine might entrench in office its own following without any question of illegal action that might be raised in the courts. When that operation had been completed the civil service law was enacted.

Not Enacted in Good Faith

The law was not enacted in good faith and it has not been administered in good faith, but it was an excellent and valuable piece of political capital to which Johnson and all his henchmen have ever since been pointing with exuberant pride. One recalls with amusement how after the passage of this law "Gashouse" Kelly, who had a job on the waterfront under the State Harbor Commission, made his celebrated declaration of independence. Kelly had been soaked every month for a substantial chunk of his salary by way of contribution to the war chest of the Progressive party. When he read the civil service law he threw up his hat, held up his hand and shouted:

"Never again. Your uncle don't have to come through any more."

Were Badly Mistaken

Kelly and his fellows on the waterfront have since discovered their mistake and once a month they come up to the captain's desk and settle. It is the same all along the line and the facts are notorious. During a flying visit to this city on Thursday last week Captain Fredericks said:

"I learned at Sacramento, for instance, that all the field men of the State Engineering Department, despite the fact that they are supposed to be protected by the civil service regulations, have been compelled to subscribe $85 a month to the Johnson campaign fund. I also learned that the stenographers of the department, also supposed to be protected by civil service, were compelled to subscribe $25 monthly to the Johnson campaign fund."

Spending Wads of Money

How large the Progressive campaign fund may be one can infer from the lavish expenditures in evidence. The billboard costs in this city alone must foot up thousands of dollars. They have single posters fifty yards long on the Market street boardings. One of these posters covering a quarter of a block announces that Hiram Johnson has saved $7,500,000 for the people of California. Who got that money? Have you had your share? A little of that piece of change would come mighty handy in these war times. Of course all this is merely the dream stuff of politics and if there has been any saving at all it has been eaten up by Johnson's block of tax-eating commissions.

How the Law is Worked

This is how the civil service law works, or rather how it is worked. It is a rule of politics that a law is no better and no stronger than the men who administer it. The state civil service law is administered by Johnson's kept commission, docile and obedient to orders from the throne. Instead of being a safeguard for honest and capable employees in subordinate employ of the state it is used as a club to discipline disobedient heads of departments who rashly assert their independence of the machine. We saw last week how State Treasurer Roberts is getting a taste of the club because he foolishly imagined that he was boss of his own office.

A Bigger Man Than Old Grove

Indeed it is an admirable, ingenious and competent machine devised by Hiram Johnson for his own purposes. In this field Hiram is a bigger man than old Grove. In the old days the heads of state departments enjoyed a full measure of independence in the choice of their subordinates in office. Nowadays they must get leave from the state machine before they hire a messenger boy. This is how the law works at one end of the operation. At the other end it is even more ingenious. The civil service commission has instituted a system of "efficiency" card supposedly to record the faults and failings or the perfections of the several subordinate employees under the state. The man who does not talk turkey and come through on salary day very soon finds himself in the black books and is reported unfit for duty.

Working Both Ends

The commission wanted to impose this system of efficiency cards on the employees of the state printing house and the result was a tremendous row in the course of which the foreman of the composing room, a most competent man, was forced to resign. He did not like the game as played by the politicians and is now foreman of the composing room of one of the San Francisco morning papers.

Was there ever a more flagrant piece of political humbug than this civil service law about which Hiram Johnson and all his henchmen are bragging on every stump in California? As a plan for working both ends against the middle it is perfect.

Plentiful Denials

Of course there are ready denials that the civil service law is being prostituted. Hiram Johnson raises his eye to heaven in the attitude of a stained glass saint and protests his civic piety. He is battling for the Lord and is incapable of filching pennies from a blind man's tray. But talk of that kind is cheap and does not go in the face of positive evidence in black and white over the signature of Charles R. Detrick, secretary of the State Railroad Commission, now engaged for the season in frying the fat out of the unhappy and helpless minor officials. These loud protests that the civil service law is not being violated are merely impudent in view of the notorious facts that every available office-holder is out on the stump campaigning for Johnson or is working on his party committee. Eshleman, Thelen, Neylan and other commissioners are tub thumping up and down the state exalting Johnson's virtues and performances and Secretary Detrick is in charge of the office work of the party.

A Vicious Humbug

Of what possible service to the state is a civil service commission which takes no measures to compel office-holders to do the work for which they are paid? Of what service is a commission which wilts at the action of Secretary Detrick, who sends out threatening letters to office-holders demanding campaign contributions under the thin disguise of a purchase of Johnson buttons, paying a dollar apiece for truck that can be bought five for a nickel. Of course Mr. Detrick's threats are politely veiled. They don't appear on the face of the letter, but the experienced official knows exactly what is meant. It is the prime duty of a civil service commission to stop just such practices as these. Therefore I repeat that the civil service law as administered in California is in one way a vicious humbug and in another way a powerful and handy club in the hands of Hiram Johnson.

With Rage and Splutter

The rage and splutter of the led captains and the hired men of the state administration machine over what they are pleased to regard as the treachery of George Creel is one of the amusing features of the campaign. Creel, who is a progressive of the progressives, writes in the current number of Everybody's an article about Hiram Johnson which Chester H. Rowell of the Fresno Republican describes as "the meanest, the most insincere and the most unjust of all the political publications of the past year." Strangely enough, considering the brief he holds for Johnson, Rowell explains that Creel's "article is most vicious because so much of it is true." It seems as if Johnson might pray to be saved from such friends as Creel and Rowell. They might be lineal descendants from the scriptural character who asked "Art thou in health my brother?" and then smote him under the fifth rib.

A Strange Defense

This remarkable defense of Johnson by Rowell proceeds to explain that Creel contends that Hiram Johnson pretends he did it all when in fact he did none of it, but is merely "a full paunched lawyer with the fishy eye of calculation" in whom "behind every action an indomitable selfishness is seen lying in cold coils." To him "the deeper meanings of democracy were a sealed book—sealed alike by his ignorance and his prejudices." Before Johnson began his crusade in 1910, "reaction had been destroyed and the people of California, sick of partisanship, were marching forward in a united army to grapple with great adventures in humanity." But "into such an atmosphere, Johnson brought only cold-blooded opportunism and the arrogant autocracy that invincible conceit brings so inevitably." And he has finally infected even the people of California with his own meanness. "Like the one speck of rot, his lack of faith and vision, his incapacity for disinterested effort, are being absorbed by the rank and file, and petty greed are crowding out all warmth and breadth and brotherhood." "This is the curse of the Johnson type, and its menace."

Johnson, so Creel pretends, has claimed that "single-handed and alone," he did all the splendid things which have made his administration an epoch in history, when "as a matter of truth, it is across a record of achievement compiled almost entirely by others that Johnson has scrawled his fulsome biography "How I Saved California." He was a "traitor" to La Follette.

Rowell's Absurd Personal Vanity

Thus Rowell by way of defense for Hiram Johnson. Rowell's absurd personal vanity shows a sore spot when he explains in relation to the claim that Johnson "did it all" that there were others. "All these leaders," writes Rowell, "had their work Creel mentions, omitting, however, from a personal motive entirely unworthy and petty the name of the writer of this article when describing his part of it." Rowell's name was never mentioned, alas!

Messenger Boy for Roosevelt

In the course of Rowell's astonishing defense of the governor it was necessary of course to disprove the claim that Johnson "did it all" and Rowell therefore in his eagerness to demonstrate the important part that he played in the politics of California goes on to reveal certain state secrets in a fashion that stamps him an unconscious humorist of the first rank. Rowell writes:

"It is asserted that Johnson's position on the eight-hour bill for women was 'doubtful' until he received the telegraphed petition of 50,000 women. The fact is that Governor Johnson signed that bill against the violent opposition of some of his own strongest and most important supporters. The most desperate protest came from E. T. Earl of Los Angeles. Mr. Earl was so earnest that he finally induced Theodore Roosevelt, who was in Los Angeles at the time as his guest, to urge that the bill be vetoed, in order that a less stringent one might be substituted at the next session. The writer, at the request of Colonel Roosevelt, telephoned to Governor Johnson in Sacramento, stating Colonel Roosevelt's position. Mr. Earl was so eager to know the effect of Colonel Roosevelt's request, that he asked the privilege of 'sitting in' on an extension telephone, to hear the conversation. Governor Johnson listened to the statement and answered, 'Tell him I have just signed the bill.' The interrogator learned afterward that he had signed it at the telephone, during the conversation, so as to make it a closed issue."

A Long Eared Interrogator

After that who shall pretend that Hiram Johnson "did it all"? Was not Rowell there as messenger boy for Roosevelt with E. T. Earl playing eavesdropper on the 'phone? Surely "the interrogator" played an important part in these lofty affairs of state.

Finally the long-eared interrogator concludes with this obscure, mysterious intimation, "There is perhaps one mitigation. Everything which Creel says against Governor Johnson he also by implication insinuates against Theodore Roosevelt."

Does this mean that the interrogator and his comrades are getting ready to stick a knife into Roosevelt?

The Tube of Ananias

Jesse W. Lilenthal in his capacity as president of the San Francisco Bar Association has set afoot a movement to rid the courts of incompetent professional experts and to provide by law or otherwise, a method whereby professional men of unquestioned integrity and efficiency in their several lines may be officially appointed to act as witnesses in court proceedings.

A notice of the movement says: "The plans so far are indefinite." Indeed they may very well be hazy—these plans—for the subject is full of difficulty. The crying evils of the present system are admitted but the remedy is by no means clear. For example, who is to pay these professional witnesses and how much shall they get? It is the fact that an expert witness often is paid more than the judges' salary for a year for his testimony in a single case. The Spring Valley Water Company, for instance, paid $10,000 apiece to some of the hydraulic experts employed to present its case in the litigation with the city of San Francisco. The city paid five times as much as that sum to one of its experts and besides employed Engineer Dockweiler on permanent salary for years. It is no cheap man's job and the experts often get bigger fees than the lawyers.

Some Harsh Words

It amuses to see it stated that the movement is intended to get rid of "incompetent" experts. That is not the trouble at all. The customary experts are only too competent. The trouble is that most of them are notorious liars and perjurers. These are harsh words but unfortunately they are true. In the Spring Valley litigation the expert valuations of the plant varied all the way from $25,000,000 to $55,000,000. The court fixed the value at $27,500,000. In the recent famous litigation between the Kennedy and the Argonaut mining companies in the Sierra, involving nearly $1,000,000, the conflicting claims of the professional experts were so flatly contradictory that the court rejected this whole body of testimony and decided the case without reference to it. It can scarcely be disputed that expert witnesses of the highest professional standing can be hired to give any sort of testimony that may be wanted to fit the case and then the other side is able to employ an equally eminent gentleman to contradict his distinguished brother.

A Rotten State of Affairs

This of course is a rotten state of affairs and Mr. Lilenthal and his colleagues of the bar association do well to look for a cure. The obvious remedy of course is to create a staff of official expert witnesses. It seems to be always popular to create some more offices but the question remains, Will the public purse be able to stand the drain? Every branch of modern industry almost would require representation by officially constituted scientific witnesses who would in fact exercise judicial functions so far as their own special fields were concerned. Witnesses of that character and standing are expensive but perhaps they would come cheaper if they were only required to tell the truth.

An Air Tight Swindle

Wallingford never invented a more ingenious swindle than did the Hon. Richard B. Whitlock, "confidential agent for Hayti and Santo Domingo." The name of course is an alias and the many credentials were spurious but their easy acceptance by hard-headed contractors in this city is evidence of a happy-go-lucky way of doing business. The method of the swindler was simplicity itself. He asked for bids on an exposition building, the bids to be accompanied in the usual fashion by certified checks of the contractors as a guarantee of good faith. Receiving the checks at an assigned address in New York he cashed them and lit out for parts unknown.

Carefully Worked Up

The scheme looks simple and essentially it is so but in detail it was elaborately planned and carefully worked up. In the first place the contractors have never seen this alleged Whitlock to know him as such. But it seems more than probable that they have met him in some other capacity. In fact Whitlock, who conducted the operation from New York wholly by letter, showed an intimate knowledge of the business methods of the exposition officials in this city and by way of further evidence of his knowledge of the ground he selected only contractors of strong business standing in sending out his requests for submission of bids. It is a reasonable surmise therefore that the supposititious Whitlock is a former San Franciscan who has recently done work for the world's fair management.

Some Easy Money

It seems to have been ridiculously easy to get the money. The only credential that Whitlock ever showed was a seal of the republic of Hayti which any engraver could make from a drawing. All his letters and the plans that he submitted for bids were plentifully tagged with this seal. None of the contractors appear to have thought it worth while to inquire at the Haytian legation in Washington concerning the authenticity of Whitlock's credentials. In the meantime seventeen different kinds of police are chasing the elusive Whitlock, but as nobody has ever seen him under that name the hunt is like looking for a needle in the hay mow. The germ of the swindle lies in its conduct by mail under a pen name.

Not Taking Chances

What is the matter with the San Francisco contractors? They appear afraid to tackle the big things or to undertake anything out of the common. The most remarkable engineering work recently completed in this city was the removal of the Commercial High School, a big brick building, from its old site to its present location some three blocks away. The building is four stories and covers a frontage of half a block. The Board of Education, believing that no brick building of that size and weight could be moved that distance over uneven ground, was preparing to tear it down and erect another schoolhouse on the new site. At this stage of the proceedings a Seattle contracting firm came forward with an offer to move the building at their own risk for a price stated. It was a sporting offer and the board could lose nothing by accepting, as the contract price was considerably less than it would cost to put up a new building and if the house fell down while moving the contractor got nothing. In the result the building was moved without showing a crack anywhere, although the operation took months to complete.

The joke on San Francisco lies in the fact that the really difficult part of this work was done by a local firm at a price considerably less than that agreed on with the school board. Of course the San Francisco people took no chances, but neither did they gather in the large and easy profit made by the Seattle men, who backed their judgment with a $50,000 bet.

No San Francisco Bidders

Similarly in the case of the big tunnel which the city is about to drive through Twin Peaks the contract goes to a Seattle man without competition for $3,475,300. No San Francisco firm saw fit to submit a bid. It is a hard rock proposition to be sure and it is estimated that the work will consume 1000 days, but if it is finished under three years I shall be surprised. The tunnel will practically be an extension of Market street and will open up for settlement some very eligible residence property now shut out of the world by steep hills.

Some Difficult Questions

The current activity in tunnel building raises some difficult questions of property rights. The work is done at the expense of assessment districts of property owners in the neighborhood taxed in the proportion of accruing benefits to each. But some of the property owners are positively out and injured by the excavation of a tunnel under their land. They are in fact left up in the air, so to speak, and might almost as well be living on an island because they are sidetracked from all lines of communication. Indeed the property owners on Stockton street hill are complaining bitterly. Among their other troubles the excavations caused a settling of foundations.

Where the Money Goes

Another difficulty arises from the fact that although the district pays for the tunnel it will be owned when completed by the city. That is to say the tunnels will all become important arteries of urban transit with street car lines. In fact the Stockton street tunnel is already traversed by a municipal street car line complete and ready for the cars when they arrive. These franchises for urban transportation are worth a great deal of money and although the city will collect the revenue it might seem that the district property owners who paid for the tunnel might have a valid equity for reimbursement. But where the tunnel is merely a link in a municipal street car line it would be hard to say what proportion of the net earnings should be credited to the tunnel. It might even happen that there would be no net earnings for a municipal side line. The Van Ness avenue and Potrero cross town line operated by the city earn a deficit.

A System That Does Not Hitch

The municipal street car system is being rapidly extended. When the Stockton street line from Market street to North Beach is put in operation the city will own four complete routes. Yet it cannot properly be called a system because the lines do not hitch, so to speak. The ground plan of San Francisco makes the command of Market street of vital strategic importance to any system of transportation and this is where the city lines fail and the United Railroads is entrenched.

Now the Twin Peaks tunnel will be practically an extension of Market street and the approaches are all controlled by the United Railroads, but that corporation refuses to build any extensions under present restrictions imposed by the charter. So there is quite likely to be a deadlock in this important phase of the undertaking. To build a tunnel without completing the job with a street car line would be a disastrous waste of capital.

Taking A Chance

Old polies who like to take a chance are nosing around for inside info on which to base their wagers on coming election results. Two weeks ago the odds in the poolrooms favored Johnson at 10 to 2. A week ago the odds were 10 to 9 in favor of Johnson. Now the betting is even and there is plenty of Fredericks money.

Shifting Odds in Election Betting

The switch in the betting odds is due to the significant preponderance of Republican registration since the primary. I noted last week the remarkable figures in this regard recorded in this city, where the post-primary registrations count up three Republicans for every one Progressive. Since my last writing on this subject returns from interior counties of the post-primary registration tell very much the same story as the figures in this city. This post-primary registration has added more than 40,000 voters to the great register of the state. The Republican preponderance is highly significant at this time because there is no incentive to make an affidavit of party affiliation for purposes of disguise on the eve of a general election. For primary purposes men often register with a party to which they do not belong and which they mean to betray. It is of course an odious form of political treachery, but apparently there is no way to stop it. But from the recent figures it is manifest that the turn of the tide strongly favors Fredericks.

Knowland Leads in the Betting

With regard to the senatorial fight the betting decisively favors Knowland at 10 to 7 against the field. Despite the obstreperous noises made by Heney or perhaps because of his blustering ferocity his chances are reckoned as nil by the speculators and odds of 3 to 2 are offered that Phelan will beat him for second place. Knowland's polite but not obscure intimation that Heney should stay in his own class has amused and delighted the town. If Heney is hot for a joint debate he should challenge Phelan, for November will tell the story that Heney also ran. He is the Bombastes Furioso of politics spouting bogus challenges.

BRIDE FIVE TIMES RELATES EMOTIONS

Her First Marriage Was at 12,
After Eluding
Rescue.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—A romance of the Imperial Valley (in five reels, as the posters would state)—if a moving picture company ever staged it, in which the heroine, at the age of 12, is a bride for the fifth time, has just been "released." Mrs. Harry Withrow, who is the much-married wife, took her first plunge into the sea of matrimony at the age of 12, shortly after a plunge into an irrigation canal in the Imperial Valley. She made the canal plunge in an effort to hide the overalls she was wearing from the sight of the man who was not her first, but is now her husband. He loved her then and he dived into the canal to save her, only to be greatly chagrined at her ability to swim under water and thus destroy what would have been a thrilling romance scene. But Mrs. Withrow, who is planning her fifth honeymoon, of which a visit to Los Angeles will be a part, tells the story of her five romances herself.

HER OWN NARRATIVE.

"When I was just a kiddle," said Mrs. Withrow, whose maiden name was Mabel Ware, "my parents moved to the Imperial Valley. One day when I was 12 I was strolling in overalls along the bank of an irrigation canal. Mr. Withrow approached on horseback. I jumped into the water to hide my overalls. As the water was way over my head, I went to the bottom. He did not know I could swim so he jumped in after me. Tell you, he was surprised when I swam under water twenty feet and popped up on the bank laughing at him."

"After that we went together a while, and planned to elope across the border to Mexicali and be married. But papa got wind of our scheme and sent mamma and me to Colton. "But at Colton I was married anyway, but not to Mr. Withrow. I married W. F. Lorentzen. My parents had the marriage annulled.

"When I was sixteen, I was married in Missouri to Cedil Leonard, but that marriage also was annulled. "I came back to California and at seventeen I was married to Fred Utherg of Santa Paula. I left him the same day I was married. I was granted a divorce."

"After the divorce, but before the decree was final, I went to San Francisco. From that city I telephoned to Mr. Withrow in Brawley, telling him I was free. Although he had been separated from me for five years, his love had never changed and he hurried northward to me. We went to Goldfield, Nev., where we were married February 2 of this year. He returned to Brawley, while I remained the north for a while, later coming south to Los Angeles, where we were remarried September 14, when my decree became final."

"When we came back here and announced we were married, it was a great surprise to everybody, for Mr. Withrow, who is 41, was not considered on the matrimonial market any more."

"I think it is better for a girl to marry a man considerably older than she than for her to wed a young man, especially if the boy is nice looking and likely to enjoy the admiration of other girls, even after he is married."

"An older man has seen the world and is ready to love his wife, and his wife only."

SURE SHE'S IN LOVE.

"Before a girl marries, though, she ought to wait until she is very sure she is in love—real love—not merely in a state of mind where she simply likes one man better than any other."

Mrs. Withrow and her husband, who is one of the wealthiest ranchers in the Imperial Valley, owning 900 acres of land seven miles north of Brawley, are planning a long summer trip which will take them through Los Angeles to New York by way of the canal and then to San Francisco and the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and then home in their own automobile.

U. S. ESTABLISHES MAIL FOR PANAMA STEAMERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The Panama Canal government has established a mail and cable service for the benefit of officers and crews of the vessels using the canal. Letters and cable messages addressed to Cristobal or Balboa, Canal Zone, will be delivered to passing ships.

By the use of a wall map and push pins, representing ships, the port captain will be able to tell with considerable accuracy just where a vessel should be at any moment in the canal. Knowing the time of the departure of a vessel from either end and her speed through the open channels, it will be easy to keep track of the larger powers' first effect after the destruction of the three British cruisers with a loss of 140 men and 60 officers—the result of two hours' work by a submarine with a crew of 20.

BLOCKADE PROVES FUTILE.

The views expressed by an unnamed Norwegian admiral in the Christiania Morgenbladet of September 24 may be taken as typical of what has been said in Europe of the affair:

"The efforts of the English to blockade the Baltic and the North Sea have been given their death sentence since a German submarine with a crew of 20 men managed to break through the controls established, travel some 200 sea miles from its base and slipped about easily in the waters controlled by the English fleet. That the three cruisers were old does not mean anything. The fate that overtook them can overtake tomorrow the entire English battle fleet."

"The North Sea and the Baltic are no longer in the possession of the blockading English armored monsters. A new era with a new method has begun for the small powers when they will be able to maintain a large number of these cheap and efficient sea arms and in so doing even up with a powerful enemy whose greater resources permitted him to build up a navy entirely beyond the means of small governments."

While he said, great restraint has been exercised by the German press, there has been noticeable a feeling of renewed confidence in the naval phase of the European war. With particular pride it is pointed out that the "U 9" and "U 21," after doing their deadly work, returned to their stations unharmed and are now ready for more expeditions of that sort.

VALUED FOR SCOUTING.

The case of the "U 21" is especially remarkable when it is borne in mind that this boat was away from her base for almost ten days, a performance with which another of the "U" boats also must be credited, according to a published letter of a member of its crew.

The letter in question described the long journey above and under the water.

It's many hardships and the final reward of the men by a glimpse into the periscope which showed a flock of big British men-of-war lying peacefully at the "seawolf with the iron skin" who was prowling in the deep—to use the language of the sailor from whose letter this is taken.

It was stated in the letter that the trip had reconnaissance as its purpose, and that the captain refrained from launching the torpedo in the tube, because doing so would have been contrary to orders. It was further stated that the trip was along the coast of Scotland and England.

The Dutch press generally has not said much on the subject. The Danish press also has scant comment on the work of the "U 9," but Spanish and Swedish papers have been less reticent.

An almost extraordinary restraint has been exercised by the German and Austro-Hungarian papers, while the Italian press seems to be generally taking the view that the submarine is an arm of the small country and its larger powers must suffer after the destruction of the three British cruisers with a loss of 140 men and 60 officers—the result of two hours' work by a submarine with a crew of 20.

LIKELY TO ABANDON LORD MAYOR'S SHOW

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Lord Mayor's show, with its gilded coaches and Georgian liveried footmen in wig and cocked hats, and its historical pageant, is likely to be abandoned this year when Sir Charles Johnston is installed on November 9. Nor is the famous banquet which should follow in the evening in the ancient guild hall a favored idea at this time. Thus the two things that make it worth while to be Lord Mayor of London will not take place, according to good authority.

This year the city is the saddest part of London. The stock exchange is closed, business disrupted and a large part of the young men have joined the colors. With money scarce, distress widespread and men being killed at the front, a show, pageant and banquet seem both a waste of money and a lack of respect for the fallen.

President Jose Miguel Gomez, who recognises him as their chief and who will doubtless do their utmost to place him in the presidential chair again.

These are the Machadistas, and are, of course, irreconcileably opposed to the wing of the Liberal party led by Zayas, the traditional enemy of Gomez.

President Menocal, in addition to his usual stand for a prompt renomination, declares that during the remainder of his term he will carry out his own policies in his own way and not defer to this or that group or faction which offer support as the price of presidential favor, and that he will endeavor to inaugurate soon a "National Party" for the amalgamation of all that is best in the Liberal and Conservative organizations.

It is certain that whatever the next Conservative or National Presidential candidate may be he will have a formidable rival in Gomez. The former president has just returned to Havana to occupy his new palace on the Prado and his candidacy will be officially declared soon after the November elections.

He will then begin an active work to rally the once united Liberal party which elected him in 1909. There is no question that the general enjoys a certain popularity in the island, and will have every advantage that great wealth can bestow in conducting his campaign.

Other probable candidates mentioned this early are General Carlos Garcia Vela, minister to Great Britain, and General Emilio Nunez who may appear in the lists with the backing of the veteran element.

ABOUT FLOWERS

A Description of Some of the Best Varieties for Fall Planting.

The question of what plant is not puzzling if one is familiar with the available flowers, with their colors, their forms and their various characteristics. Very few amateur gardeners have this knowledge ready at hand. Many have never heard, for instance, of Clarkia, nemophila or alyssum, or gardenias. In fact they have rather a bias for all except a few of the common annuals and are apt to say nothing of the prettiest and most satisfactory plants because they are not well acquainted with them.

For this reason we are giving short descriptions of the annuals and perennial flowers and their various characteristics. Your local florist or nurseryman will be able to give you information on the care and culture of the flowers.

Adonis (Perianthus Eye).—Bedding plants about a foot high, with shell pink flowers and fine, feathery foliage, suitable for beds or borders. Blooms from May to August. Planted in the fall and spring.

Aster Grands (African Aster).—Grows from 2 to 2½ feet tall, bushy. Good for grouping. Flowers are white above and pale blue underneath. Planted in fall and spring will bloom in the autumn, also in January and February.

Carnation (Perianthus Eye).—Grows about a foot tall, with shell pink flowers and fine, feathery foliage, suitable for beds or borders. Blooms from May to August. Planted in the fall and spring.

Caryopteris (Bluebeard).—Grows about a foot tall, with bell-shaped flowers in spikes. Good for cutting. Blooms from April to August.

Cleome (Spider Flower).—Grows about a foot tall, with bell-shaped flowers in spikes. Good for cutting. Blooms from April to August.

Cockscomb (Celosia).—Grows about a foot tall, with flowers like cockscombs. Good for cutting. Blooms from July to October.

Columbine (Aquilegia).—Grows about a foot tall, with bell-shaped flowers in spikes. Good for cutting. Blooms from June to September.

Cornflower (Centaurea).—Grows about a foot tall, with blue flowers. Good for cutting. Blooms from June to September.

Cosmos (Cosmos).—Grows about a foot tall, with flowers like daisies. Good for cutting. Blooms from July to October.

Dianthus (Sweet William).—Grows about a foot tall, with flowers like carnations. Good for cutting. Blooms from June to September.

OAKLAND PROVING HOME OF GENIUS

School of Music Composers Is Fostered by Manager of Oakland Park Band.

Oakland is rapidly establishing her claim to the title, "The Athens of the Pacific," her latest evidence being a musical composition competition organized by Henry F. Vogt, secretary of the Oakland board of park directors and, incidentally, manager of the Oakland Park band, which gives weekly concerts in Lakeside park.

Through the efforts of Vogt, these composers are favored in the selections for the band concerts, and through their compositions, are bringing new laurels to Oakland as a music center. Each year, Vogt entrants to the competition the numbers on the program, a composition by an Oakland composer, and so far he has been eminently successful.

Miss Roxana Wales Weihe, Mrs. Waldo S. Fisher, Mr. Francis M. C. Gandy and Mrs. Elsie Young are four Oakland composers whose compositions are heard most frequently at the concerts.

Mrs. Becker, known in the music world as Violin Becker, is the best known, having composed nearly a score of well-known compositions, among them "Prairie Belle," an intermezzo, will be played at this afternoon's concert.

Other well-known compositions of hers are "The Indian Wedding" and "The Call of the West."

"Intermission," "Maiden's Dream," "Dropping Water" and "Drifting" waiters; "A Springtime Greeting," a caprice; "Come With Me to My Southern Home"; "Down the Years," "A Toast to Our Veterans," and "The Builders of Our State," songs.

Mrs. Becker, a pioneer resident of Oakland, has composed three popular songs, "Come Back to Me," "My Heart's Longing" and "The Boys of the South."

Violin Becker, a public school teacher, now in private schools throughout the State, the song is being sung daily, and it is Miss Weihe's ambition to have it adopted by the State Board of Education as an official school song.

A tropical note will be sounded at the violin concert, as the Young Women's Christian Association afternoons when Miss Cornelius Walker will give reminiscences and descriptions of the Hawaiian Islands. No conventional solos will follow, but, instead, the beauties and difficulties of the islands will be recited by Miss Walker to an audience.

In the meantime, he is seeking new compositions constantly, and has several under consideration now. Mrs. Becker's theory is that more increase fascination instead of the traditional charm of the voteless!

Star-Dust Theory Disproven.

For some time a theory has been generally accepted that space is partially filled with matter, known as "star dust." That when two of the particles, small or large, met they attracted a third and so on until a heavenly body with all its attributes came into being. This "star dust" has been given the title of nebulae and the formation of new bodies in the measureless depths by this means has been known as the nebular hypothesis.

Comes now Professor Campbell, of the Lick Observatory with a possible explanation of matters of Creation, which seems to disprove this hypothesis. Four years ago Prof. Campbell made the discovery that the older a sun—or a star, for they are the same—is, the faster it travels. Young suns are limited in speed, but as they develop they attain startling rapidity. For example our own sun and his attendant planets are scooting through space at a rate of approximately eighteen miles a second.

Prof. Campbell has found in the cases of forty nebulae observed that they are traveling faster than the suns he has noticed and the speed of which he has measured. So that according to the accepted theory the nebulae must be older than the stars and not the younger substance of which they are made.

In connection with this the learned professor states that the spiral nebulae observed in the heavens may not be a part of our own universe of suns, but separate spheres of existence located so far away from ours as to appear like individual points of light. This statement when calmly considered, is something calculated to make one sit up and marvel at the immensity of immensity. We know that we have billions of suns in the universe of which we are a part. Ponder then on the distance a similar system must be from us when it is considered that all the grand aggregation appears like a mere point of light in a powerful telescope.

Truly is astronomy a fascinating study and it is little wonder that great men have devoted their lives to it and that other great men will continue to do so. Yet with all the toil and study the results are as yet as infinitesimal as our own earth in comparison with some of the mighty suns, many times greater than our own. But as the years go by and improvements are made in appliances and instruments there will no doubt come a time when the great mysteries of Creation will be at least partially solved and in that event man will have approached the angels a little nearer in wisdom.

Cornelius Cronin, who conducts a saloon at 4399 Piedmont avenue, is charged by Chief Petersen with having sold beer to boys. The council will hear the case October 22. If this charge is proven Cronin should forfeit his license and receive other punishment. It is not so long ago that beer was sold to a youth in this city by two notorious keepers of saloons and the lad, crazed with drink committed suicide. There are plenty of grown men who contribute to the support of saloons without inveigling adolescent boys into these places.

Worse Than War or Pestilence.

If a great calamity had overtaken California through which $876,113,702.50 worth of property had been destroyed in three years, the people of the state and the world would have stood aghast at the magnitude of the disaster.

If an invading army from a foreign country had overrun the Golden State and in three years had wiped out $876,113,702.50 worth of the wealth of the state it would have been looked upon as a marvel of destruction.

But under three years of the rule of Hiram Johnson there has been a decrease in the capitalization of business corporations in California of $876,113,702.50 as shown by the records of the Secretary of State.

These figures are compiled from the records of the fiscal years 1911, 1912 and 1913.

During the fiscal year 1911 the number of corporations filing articles to do business in California, to develop its resources, open its mines, work its lumber interests and add to its prosperity was 4,136. In 1912 there was a decrease to 4,042 and 1913 a still further decrease to 3,642.

In 1911, before the legislation calculated to keep capital out of the state was placed on the statute books, 352 foreign, or outside aggregations of capital filed articles at Sacramento. In 1912, when the men with money began to note the trend of thought inspiring California's lawmakers, there was a drop to 243 and in 1913 a still further drop to 187.

This tremendous falling off in corporation capitalization is due entirely to the legislation enacted at the behest of Hiram Johnson. Capital is afraid to invest in California.

And while this decrease of more than eight hundred millions of dollars in business has resulted, the expenses of the state have been mounting, mounting, mounting, until after a little more than three years and seven months of Johnson we find that the cost of the state government has increased $11,676,049.48 over the administration of James N. Gillette, and $17,597,084.90 as compared with that of George C. Pardee.

When the people ask for explanations what is the answer? Nothing, except that this is "natural increase." That Johnson's administration has increased only 15.6 per cent over that of some other governor and only 20.4 over some other. Not a word to show where the money has gone, or what benefit the state derived from this "natural increase."

Well, let us presume the impossible and admit the election of Johnson for the sake of argument. There will be no trimming of expenses in that event. Without going to the trouble of figuring the "natural increase" in an administration of Johnson succeeding Johnson, and letting it stand at the same figure of $11,676,049.48 we have a combined increase over the administration of Gillette of $28,028,148.44 and a combined increase, "natural" in character as these chitpoppers state it is, of $35,194,169.80 over that of Pardee.

The question then arises: Is it worth the price?

But, says the Progressive advocate, "the corporations pay the taxes and the people are not distressed."

That argument is the height of folly. In the last analysis the ultimate consumer pays for everything. That is a proposition of economics that no one will dispute.

THE TRIBUNE is willing to admit the corporations pay a large portion of this tax. California taxes its corporations more than any state in the union with the exception of New York and Pennsylvania. According to the census of 1910 New York had 9,113,614 persons, while Pennsylvania had 7,655,111. California had 2,377,549. The value of the real and personal property in these three states was as follows: New York, $11,131,778,017; Pennsylvania, $6,474,227,595; California, $2,638,560,069. These figures are cited for comparison only, but those comparisons carry weight when the fact is considered that only two states, one with a population of more than 9,000,000, the other with more than 7,000,000, and with a valuation many times more than that of this state, impose a heavier tax on the public utility and other industrial corporations within their borders.

It is for this reason, coupled with the fact that other legislation to corporations has been enacted that is causing capital to stay away from California.

The thoughtful voter will consider these statements. They show that while there is great extravagance in administration there is also a falling off in industry and it may be stated as a fact that while Johnson and his friends may boast of taxing the corporations, that in the end the people are losing more money than is gained by reason of lack of opportunity to work and to do business.

California needs more industries and California should have them. California needs economy in government. How shall these results be obtained? By the re-election of the man and men who have brought about the conditions complained of? No, by the election of John D. Fredericks and a Republican legislature who will restore the government to a safe and sane basis.

THE TRIBUNE is not arguing for the abolishment of the corporation tax, but its just and efficient levy and the practice of such economies as will enable the commonwealth to get along without extravagance to the end that burdens may be lifted. John D. Fredericks is the man to select for this work. To re-elect Johnson means a continuance of extravagance in administration and depression in business.

During the fiscal year 1911 the number of corporations filing articles to do business in California, to develop its resources, open its mines, work its lumber interests and add to its prosperity was 4,136. In 1912 there was a decrease to 4,042 and 1913 a still further decrease to 3,642.

'LOVE BEAUTIFUL; BUT NEEDS MONEY'

Noted Sociologist Gives Views on Marriage of Young Couples.

Unhappiest experience in caring for the physical life of children born of parents who were married when they were sixteen or seventeen years of age and whose offspring has had to be cared for by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, has given Dr. Martha E. Lovell, physician for the society, new views on early marriage, according to a letter received by the newly organized Oakdale S. P. C. C.

"Show me a couple that were married when they were twenty-one and are now happy and it follows almost invariably that there was money in the family and they never had to wonder where the next meal was coming from," says Dr. Lovell.

"The couple who must live along depicting themselves as practically every luxury are bound to care each other before they are thirty."

ROMANCE NEEDS MONEY.

"Romance is a beautiful thing, but it needs financial support. The man and woman may love ardently when they marry, John loves Mary for many reasons. Mary is very attractive and has brought out her beauty by going well in the most becoming frocks and hats, all of which she has been able to purchase with her weekly salary."

"Mary loves John. One of the great reasons is because he is so attentive. He always thinks up the very best shows to attend. He never forgets the box of candy. All of these he can buy because he has only his room and board to pay for."

"They marry on $15 a week. Mary, of course, stops working. For the first year everything is bliss. Then Mary's hair begins to look shabby and her dress is no longer cut in just the most becoming manner."

"John begins to figure how and why his wife has lost her bloom. She has developed wrinkles worrying over the grocery bill."

"John has undertaken no small chance. Mary has noticed that he just tramps around. He no longer brings home the box of sweets. Shows that he once would have walked miles to have seen her never even mentions."

MARRIED TOO YOUNG.

"And all these changes have taken place because there isn't enough money coming in. They were married too young."

"Mary became a cranky, irritable woman at the age of twenty-one, and John wears a martyr-like expression upon his once radiant countenance."

"The man who marries young cannot make the most of himself, for even though encouraging words from the lips of the woman a man loves are stimulating and spur him on, they lose their effect when she says 'the man called for the rent'."

"The girl at thirty had financial experience. She can make $25 a great deal further than the girl of eighteen. Then again the man and woman who marry at thirty are less apt to marry discreetly. They take more things into consideration."

"They are in short better students of human nature."

"The girl makes a better mother, and the man a better father."

How I Cure Pyorrhea

Pyorrhea Alveolaris, also known as Rigg's Disease, Scurvy of the Gums, Gingivitis and Inflammation of the Gums, is a germ disease which attacks the membrane surrounding the teeth. As the disease progresses the membrane is destroyed, the gums recede and the teeth become loose in their sockets. In advanced cases pus forms around the teeth, oozing out under pressure, the gums become sore, spongy and inflamed and the affected teeth finally drop out.

Until recent years Pyorrhea was classed as an incurable scourge by the dental profession. That was because no one had succeeded in finding a way to keep the disease from coming back after all symptoms of it had been removed. At the present time, however, the true origin of the disease is known and dental science has not only devised a method of curing the symptoms, but of removing the cause as well.

To treat the affected teeth alone would do but little good. The germs of Pyorrhea must be eliminated from the system entirely—their breeding place must be attacked in order to conquer them.

I am one of a very small number of men who have recently cured Pyorrhea. I know the real origin of the disease and the best method of overcoming it. Not only do I cure the infected gums and make the teeth firm and tight in their sockets, but I remove the germs of Pyorrhea from the system so effectively that the trouble never returns. My method is simple and hundred percent. It never fails to do the work. I have cured some of the most stubborn cases of Pyorrhea after other dentists had given them up as incurable.

If you have loose teeth, spongy, inflamed or receding gums, be sure to call and investigate my method of treatment. Don't wait until your teeth fall out and then wish you had done something to save them. Each tooth you save will be worth a thousand dollars to you in health and comfort.

NO PAIN HERE.

All the dental work performed in my offices is free from pain. My great discovery is that I can do all operations in dentistry perfectly painless from start to finish. No matter how sensitive your teeth are, I will guarantee to put them in good condition without causing you a moment's suffering. When I say painless dentistry, I include the filling, extraction and extraction of teeth, as well as all other branches of dentistry.

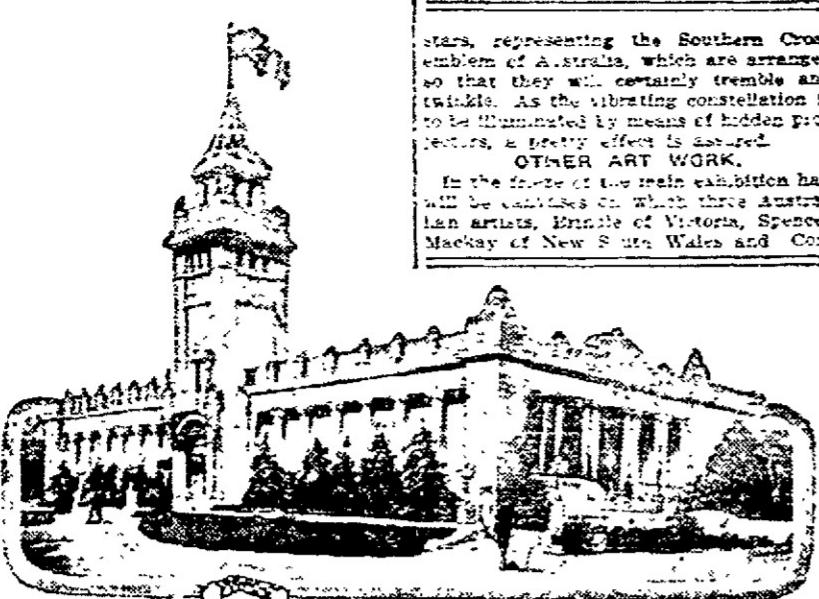

Every person who has a few teeth left in his mouth should learn how the missing ones can be replaced by my R-X Alveolar System, without the use of plates or bridgework. Tex Alveolar teeth are fixed permanently in the mouth just like real teeth, and they look, feel and wear almost as well as if they had grown in the jaws. If you have no natural teeth left then you can get a perfect substitute you can get. For such people there is nothing equal to my Platol Metal Plate—plate that is guaranteed to fit perfectly and never become loose.

I make no charge for examining the teeth. Call at once and get my price on the dental work you need. Consultation free to all.

Hours: 8:30 to 5:30; Sundays 10 to 12. If you can't call, write today for my Free Book on Teeth.

AUSTRALIAN PAVILION ORIGINAL SHOWS CULTURE OF SOUTH SEAS

AUSTRALIAN PAVILION, TO BE CONSTRUCTED AT PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—The participation of the Commonwealth of Australia in the Panama-Pacific International Exposition is to be even greater than was originally planned. Preparations for it are going on apace both in Australia and in San Francisco. Indeed, it looks now as if the Australian pavilion will be completed before the date originally expected. The entire first story is completed, and the framework for the second is in place, 120,000 feet of lumber being used in the construction so far.

The contractors for the pavilion say that there will be no slackening in this rapid pace. The pavilion occupies 200x140 feet of a favorably-situated site, and was designed by George J. Oakeshott, F. I. A. S. W., who obviously aimed to symbolize the industrial cohesion of the six Australian states—New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, South Australia, West Australia and Tasmania. This idea is conveyed in various ways, mainly through an arrangement of inscriptions and inscription on the facade. Below the cornice are displayed the titles of states, with the name of its chief town shown on a supporting column beneath and its banner waving from a pole above. All are subordinated by a great central tower, from whose apex floats the flag of the commonwealth, and on each side of the building itself "Commonwealth of Australia" stands out in bold relief.

INTERIOR DESIGNS.

There are three means of entrance to the pavilion, the main one, facing east, being through the tower. It leads the visitor to an exhibition hall, 170x30 feet, with two annexes, one taking up 80x30 feet and the other 25x17 feet of floor space. The larger chamber extends to the roof and affords room for a great display of Australia's industrial products. On this floor are also a reception room, 30x40 feet, and a lecture hall with a seating capacity of 300, in which will be shown motion pictures. A semi-circular loggia for lounging, with a radius of 27 feet from its central point, fills the south end of the first floor, and the remaining space is reserved for offices for the commissioner-general and his aides.

A handsome staircase runs to the second floor, where each of the states will have its own administrative office. This floor will not be open to the general public.

Oakeshott devoted especial attention to the designing of the tower, which is quadrangular and gracefully massive in effect. From its base to the top of its flagpole there is a height of 120 feet, and two observation platforms at different elevations are approached by a winding stairway. Admittance to the tower, however, will be obtainable only by special permission of the commissioner, a restriction which will deprive many visitors to the fair of opportunity to enjoy a splendid view of the grounds and surrounding country. In the high ceiling of the entrance are set five electric-plated

GERMAN CUT TRENCHES WITH MOTOR PLOUGHS

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Germans do their trench-cutting with motor ploughs, says the automobile expert of the Daily Chronicle in an article describing types of motor vehicles now in use in the commission-general and his aides.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITS.

Commissioner-General Deakin is now in Australia, which he has served as prime minister, as also is Acting Commissioner Neil Nielsen, who was commissioner of lands for the commonwealth, and they can be depended on to secure the finest collection of exhibits obtainable.

These will be shown in the pavilion and in the main exhibition palaces and live stock department.

Australia holds world supremacy as a wool producer, and the exposition's director of live stock display, D. O. Lively, has assurance that the exhibit of fleeces from the Antipodes will be great in quantity, quality and educative value. Not only the wool itself, but the Australian mode of clipping and sorting it will be shown, for the instruction of wool-growers from other countries. Australia's wool is supreme in the world's markets because in the sorting it is not indiscriminately mixed. As the animal is shorn the tufts from abdomen, legs and neck are kept separate from the finer fleeces taken from the back, as many as four different grades being thus maintained in the shearing pen.

Next in importance to wool, and in the order of their naming, comes minerals, wheat, preserved meats, tallow, lard, cotton, tobacco, sugar and wine. Gold, silver, copper, tin, zinc, lead, antimony, mercury and plumbeous are exported from Australia and the country is rich in coal and iron. Precious stones are also found there—garnets, rubies, sapphires and pure white diamonds. While pastoral and agricultural pursuits and mining are the chief occupations of the Australian people, manufacturing and handicrafts employ large numbers in each of the half-dozen states. So the continent at the other side of the globe will experience no difficulty in contributing much to the attractiveness of the Panama-Pacific show.

When the Australian building is completed it will have involved an outlay of $3,000, exclusive of furnishing, and its botanical adjunct is expected to cost about $3,000 more. Most of the furniture will be made to order in this country.

THE LITTLE LANDERS OF OAKLAND AND EAST BAY CITIES

At the fourth meeting of THE MODERN HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION held at Maple Hall, Oakland, last Friday evening, it was announced by Mr. W. E. Smythe that as a result of the first thirty days' campaign by the association the number of members now warranted the selection of the first colony at an early date.

A meeting of members only will be held at the headquarters of the association, 363 Phelan building, San Francisco, on Monday, October 19th, at 8:15 p. m., at which time a committee will be chosen who will inspect the various tracts that have been offered to the association.

It is expected that the investigations of this committee will be completed within the next two weeks, and that at the end of that time the final decision will be made as to the location selected.

Members of the association will then commence the forming of the first colony, which from present indications, will take form as a Garden City of Little Lands within easy reach of the city.

Commissioner of New York Shows Three-Fourths of Prisoners Are Victims.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Dr. Katherine Davis, commissioner of correction, speaking before the conference of the American Social Hygiene Association and the Society of sanitary and moral proprieties, advocated the passage of a law which would "reinforce from society, for a time at least, those who spread moral and physical disease in the community."

From 35,000 to 40,000 men and women pass through New York's prisons each year, the commissioner said, "and to-day we have 60,000 prisoners to care for. Careful examination shows that on Blackwells Island over 90 per cent of the social diseases, from one or both of the social diseases, will be found among the inmates of the prison."

An ordinance had been passed to print demanding that the traction company lay concrete foundation for the Grove street tracks. This ordinance, by agreement of the council, was not to be enforced for one year. Before it was finally passed the city attorney was to report on the legality of such postponement. The city attorney and special counsel were to proceed to fight the Key Route's temporary injunction by which the city was estopped from proceeding with the traction company. The traction company was to proceed meanwhile with the laying of a temporary oiled macadam pavement on Grove street at an estimated expense of about $26,000.

Though the council, of which Mayor Heywood was a member, showed themselves this morning directly opposed to Mayor Heywood, was willing to pass the ordinance which clinched the city's demand upon the company, it was not willing to be led into the trap of making this immediately enforceable. So the city attorney was told to report on the possibility of the year's grace to the company, in the absence of which the commissioners declared they would vote against the final adoption of the ordinance after it is printed.

LEGAL PROBLEMS.

There was diversity of opinion on what the effect of the council's action today would be on the city's case in the Federal court Tuesday when the Key Route's restrainer is to be argued. George Clark, special counsel for the city in this case, urged that the groove street paving be suspended until the Shattuck avenue franchise question. The company in its plea had set forth that, although the city seemed disposed to stop the Shattuck avenue trains because of being run without a franchise, the city's real object was to force the paving of Grove street. He feared that, if the city did not show a disposition determinedly to seek that object, the court would see much merit in the Key Route's request for a permanent injunction.

After the meeting, however, City Attorney Frank V. Cornish stated that he believed the passage of the ordinance would add much to the strength of the city's case. He declared the ordinance showed the city's intent though it was not explained how, in the course of the meeting, which Mr. Cornish was present, it could show the city's primary intent. However, Cornish and Clark were tactfully directed by the council to proceed with the approval of the councilmen, and Mayor Heywood agreed to follow his suggestion.

COMPROMISE THEN.

Then it was that the suggestion was made for the passage of the ordinance and postponement of its enforcement for a year, within which time it was hoped the company would have escaped the financial disability which it has claimed prevents its proceeding now with the work as ordered. This suggestion met with the approval of the councilmen, and Mayor Heywood agreed to his conformance with this approval, on Grove street, again the council refused to follow his suggestion.

INSTITUTE TO GIVE KLONDIKE CARNIVAL

ALAMEDA, Oct. 17.—Miss Minnie B. Crowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sumner Crowe, became the bride of Harry J. G. Harper today at noon, the ceremony which united the couple being performed by Chaplain Scott U. S. Army. Only members of the family of the bride were present at the ceremony, with the exception of the two attendants who were Miss Edith Butler, who was maid of honor, and Herbert Crowe, who acted as best man for his brother. Little five-year-old Doris Strachan, a niece of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bride wore a handsome blue-cloth dress with black hat finished with black and silver, and a corsage bouquet of orange blossoms.

The maid of honor was in a green cloth gown, with corsage bouquet of Cecile Breuer roses, and the ring bearer was in a white lingerie dress.

The newlyweds left on the afternoon train for the south for a honeymoon trip of two or three weeks. On their return they will take up their residence in the home of the bride at 1315 Maynard street.

Mr. Harper is a native of this city and has resided here during the several years of her life. She has a large circle of friends among the young people of Alameda, who will be delighted to learn of the news of her marriage to the young Englishman, who has been in California for the past few years and is connected with the San Francisco office of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

Among the members of the family present at the wedding was a sister, Justin Barber of Humboldt county, who came down for the happy event. Mrs. Barber is Mrs. Ethel Crowe. Another sister is Mrs. H. F. Strachan, who was Miss Louie Crowe.

CLUB HOLDS MEETING.

MARTINEZ, Oct. 17.—Friends of Miss Genevieve Ramsden, a dramatic reader of this city, and anticipating the time when she will give Thanksgiving Day readings in San Francisco, at 239 Grant Avenue. She is to give a second rental at the "Happy Day" charity affair, which has been planned. Miss Ramsden will read selected poems by Rudimentary Tagore, recently awarded the Nobel prize for literature, as well as his play, "Madame Bovary." On November 2 Miss Ramsden is to give a reading from the poems of Alfred Noyes, including a cutting from "The Wine Press," and scenes from "Sherwood." Miss Ramsden has made her debut in Alameda for months. She is a graduate of the Minneapolis School of Oratory and was also a pupil of Land T. Fowles of Boston.

FRUIT HARVEST OVER.

ALAMEDA, Oct. 17.—The fruit season is practically over and the orchards are closing for the year. Fruits are still being shipped and wine and table grapes will be ready for picking in a day or two. On the whole the year 1914 has been a fair one, and the crops are very uniform in all lines of farm products; but markets were universally weak.

The phase of chief importance in the company's acceptance of the compromise is that, by resolution of its directors, it promises to tear up this temporary paving at the end of the twelve months' respite and lay permanent paving with bitulithic asphalt in its place and lay in addition, concrete foundation for its roadbed. According to Commissioner Wilson's statement this morning, the company would make this promise.

Special Counsel Clark was not impressed with the probability of its making such a promise. He did not believe that a business firm would do $26,000 worth of work at the present time knowing that this would have to be torn up to make way for $110,000 construction in twelve months.

"But if such a promise is made by the company, he added, 'I believe there should be no uncertainty as to its provisions. A corporation could make the telling argument in court against a demand that it do $110,000 worth of work, that it had already been put to an expense of $26,000 by the city and should not be held liable to this additional burden.'

The council accepted this view of the situation and, at the end of its session, delegated to Clark himself the task of securing from the company this properly worded promise.

LAWYER THEN SPEAKS.

The course in each language comprises a series of 15 lessons.

FIREWORKS TO PASTOR.

NILES, Oct. 17.—The farewell reception given to the Rev. Mr. Harbutt in the guild room of the Congregational church proved a pleasant gathering. Forty or more people were present to greet Harbutt and at the same time to say good-by.

Before the guests departed the Rev. Mr. Harbutt spoke a few words of farewell in which he spoke of his regret in leaving the enjoyment of new friendships formed and closed with a plea for more general work and interest for the church that it might exert a larger influence for good in the community.

NEW PLEASANTON TEAM.

PLEASANTON, Oct. 17.—A new baseball club has been organized in Pleasanton, and they will play on the local grounds tomorrow for the first time. The game will be with the California Optical Company of San Francisco. The line-up for the locals will be: Catcher, George; pitcher, Speake; first base, Lucas; second base, Callan; third base, Rogers; short stop, Shorty Silva; left field, Spoomer; center field, Boldt; right field, Turner; substitutes, Ross and Rabolla.

LIVERMORE COUPLE WED.

LIVERMORE, Oct. 17.—Edward F. Ayward and Miss Amelia Schaper, both of Livermore, were united in marriage Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. by Rev. Father Madigan, who officiated at the ceremony.

Miss Schaper is a widow, while Mr. Ayward is a prominent member of the leading female rule of Pleasanton.

This is the first in two years that the various students have produced any Shakespeare plays, and it is the first of the comedies that has been presented as one of the English Club's semi-annual outdoor productions since the "Twelfth Night."

CONTRA COSTA News of Two Big Counties ALAMEDA

FALLS FROM WHARF IS DROWNED

Cook for Federal Surveying Party Misses Footing and Is Swept Away.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 17.—James Holt, a cook for the Federal surveying party operating in the tules opposite to this place, was drowned here when, going to get some water to return to his place of employment on the government land, he missed his footing while endeavoring to board his craft and fell into the water. He was carried away by the current, but was not able to be extended to him.

Deputy Coronor George Higgins at once instituted a search for the body and had "scats out seeking its recovery but to no avail and the possibilities are that it has been carried in the currents and under the bridge will not be cast up for nine days at least."

The man was a cook by occupation and had previously served in such capacity on the San Joaquin dredgers in Federal service.

He was a native of England, aged 55 years, and so far as can be learned has no relatives on this side of the ocean.

LAND'S POPULARITY WINS THROUGH STATE

Papers Display Trend of Feeling
as Candidate for U. S. Senator

I BE ELECTED.
GO UNION.

KNOWLAND IS ALL RIGHT.
(Sather's Daily Index)
The Progressive led horse press, when they are not echoing the idle boasts of Hiram Johnson, are working the term "reactionary" overtime, in violation of all sense of decency, to say nothing about the eight-hour law. It is a curious coincidence that your chemical pure politician of the Bull Moose breed has two strings and two strings only, to his bow. Fullsome flattery for his personal non-partisan candidate and cowardly abuse for the other candidate.

Just now the Bull Moosers are concentrating their mud batteries on Representative Knowland, the Republican candidate for United States Senator. Henry, the Bull Moose, candidate, must be booted, and as there is no way to do it, they are doing it with an utter disregard for truth or decency.

Fortunately, Knowland has a record as Congressman that cannot be successfully assailed. He always stood up for California in the halls of legislation and fought the battles of the state when her rights were threatened and her industries menaced by the Democrats who were working for free trade as far as it could be obtained in behalf of all.

More than can be said for Henry's chief becker Congressman Kent, who stood idly by when the products of this state were ruthlessly sacrificed.

The Californians know Knowland; they know his record, which is that of a friend to the people, and they will stand by him to the last.

His entire course in Congress has been a career of faithful adherence to the party platform, on which he has been repeatedly elected, and to the moral and material interests of the people of California.

He has been selected by the Republicans of California as their candidate for the Senate as consistent and able to represent the Republican principles for which California stands in legislation, and upon the whole, the most distinguished among those who are available to represent the Republican principles for which California stands in the Senate of the United States.

JOSEPH R. KNOWLAND HAS SERVED HIS NOVITIATE.

(The Mail of Woodland.)

In Joseph R. Knowland California will have a representative in the upper house of Congress who knows intimately the needs of the state through having for 10 years, as a member of the House of Representatives, on which to base his support. He is from the primary and, in the negative. It is to be noted that Mr. Knowland is a Republican. He is, therefore, a protectionist. His entire course in Congress has been a career of faithful adherence to the party platform, on which he has been repeatedly elected, and to the moral and material interests of the people of California.

Progressive 214,000, has increased the vote by some thousands.

It is the hope of the supporters of both candidates. But will he be from the primary and, in the negative. It is to be noted that Mr. Knowland is a Republican. He is, therefore, a protectionist. His entire course in Congress has been a career of faithful adherence to the party platform, on which he has been repeatedly elected, and to the moral and material interests of the people of California.

He is making an effort to figure out his position on the hard facts of power, of even the most popular, California.

PAIGE CLIMBS TO BIG 'C' IN HILLS

Dangerous Ascent Made Over Slippery Slope of Hill by Webber.

A Paige car with W. L. Webber, Alden McElrath and George Vesper performed a remarkable stunt on Tuesday last. As the result of a wager with Arthur Dawson, manager of the San Francisco house, the Oakland branch of Don Lee drove the Paige car directly into the "C," above the grounds of the University of California.

Speaking of this performance Webber says:

"I did not know whether the feat could be accomplished, but I did know that if it were possible for a motor car to turn the trick the Paige was the car to do it. We have made many ascents to big 'C' known as there are no roads. The trails are boulevards, however, in comparison to the rough chattering we experienced."

"The grass was so slippery and the hills so steep, that we never got up more than about one-half as much sideways. At one spot we were compelled to cross (and recross on the return) a small stream bed. In making this crossing the car stood at such an angle that I thought it had done for. Only the speed at which we negotiated this crossing kept the car right side up."

"The big 'C' is 70 feet in length and 40 feet in width, built of logs. An illustration on the front of the letter informs those not familiar with college lore that the 'C' was built to commemorate the abolition of the class rush in 1896.

It is now kind of new again, although it has been visited many times by some enterprising Stanford students. I noticed by scratching through the present coat of paint that it has formerly been yellow and red and green and rust. The new result is a very brownish sandstone and we had the misfortune to notice it with the result that we nearly landed in the campus fire-truck time."

We managed, however, to proceed on over the hill and believe me there were three large, separate signs of relief when we again met with a road made for traffic.

"We had proved, however, in such proof that the Paige was built to withstand the most in rough hard going."

"I cannot, however, recommend the trip for an afternoon's diversion. To anyone though who does not believe the all-around value of the I have described, I can only say 'try it'."

AMERICANS DRIVE MOTOR AMBULANCE

Ambulance work has been added to the repertoire of roles assumed by automobiles operating under war conditions in and about Paris. Among distinguished Americans who have volunteered for ambulance service is Robert Bacon, former American Ambassador to France. He visited the headquarters of the Packard Motor Car Company of Paris to purchase a car for American ambulance service.

R. N. Goode, the manager, expressed his desire to provide a car for ambulance service without charge.

Had to drive it himself. He immediately had a car equipped for the work.

The first job was a dash for Colonials with Bacon and two doctors to get a wounded English General Bacon, in a small car furnished by the French Government, has since been accompanying Goode's ambulance on various trips to rescue wounded warriors.

One of Goode's assistants, named Clarke, had left for volunteer service with the Third Army Signal Corps, driving one of the cars formerly operated in connection with the European rental service. His bride mate is Baron Henri de Rothschild, who volunteered for service in the English army as chauffeur.

Upon the Packard branch of Paris fell the burden of the second big rush from the city, when the German advance upon Paris became dangerous. Parisians of the highest circles started an immediate exodus for Havre, Brittany, and the south, to get boats for England. Paris offices of other foreign-made cars were closed, while French automobile concerns had all their cars requisitioned by the Government.

Having the European rental cars at its disposal, and also by reason of its ability to obtain permits to leave the city and often to enter the military zone itself, the Packard organization has been overwhelmed with demands upon it.

LONDON IN DARKNESS LEST ZEPPELINS COME

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Not since the electric light supplanted gas has London been so somber at night as at present, when the German Zeppelin fleet is not an unlikely visitor.

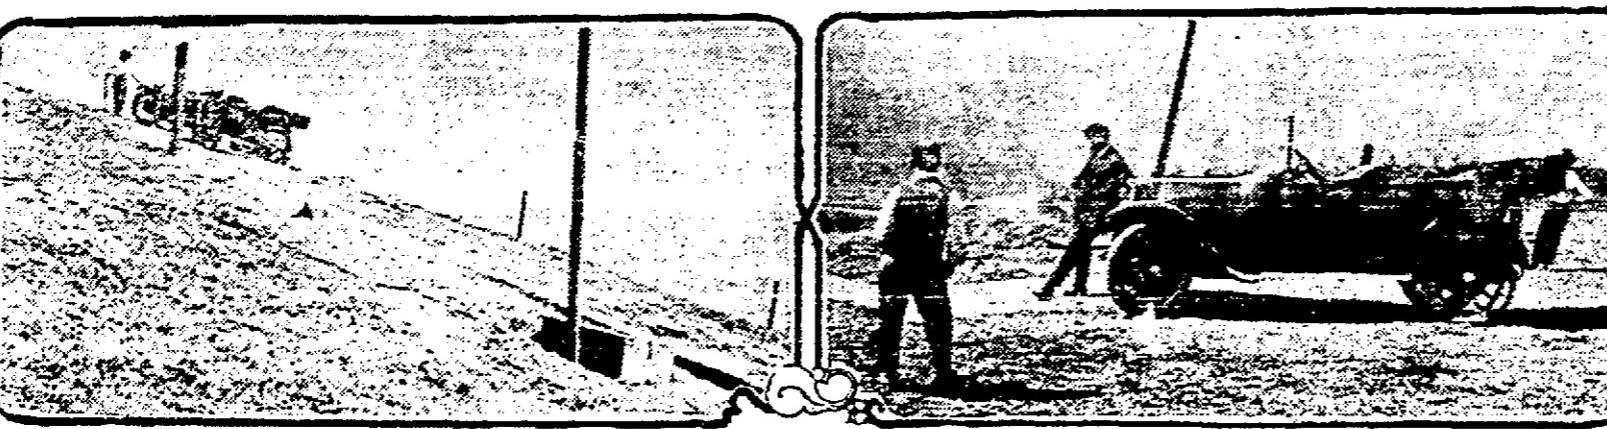

The illuminated signs of Piccadilly Circus, the lamp-studded cafe fronts of Leicester Square, have been extinguished. No more light is allowed than is necessary to traffic. Along the main ways of London, Threadneedle and Fleet streets, the Strand, Regent and Oxford streets comprising the principal financial and shopping districts, only every third lamp is lit, and the upper halves of these are masked with black paint, so as to throw down a beam of light on the roadway. It is on these lines that the Bank of England, St. Paul's Cathedral, Trafalgar monument, the National gallery and the British museum lie. The suburbs, where the restrictions are fewer, are now the brightest parts of London.

The war has put a dagger on London's safety in other respects. The "pubs" or saloons must shut doors at 11 at night instead of 2:30 as formerly. The liquor regulation has also practically ended the theater supper business of the hotels. The restaurant habit has declined in general. There are still 22 theaters running, whose business depends not on the state of the weather, but on how the war news reads. Good news means good business, while a bad reverse to the allies leaves stalls and gallery empty.

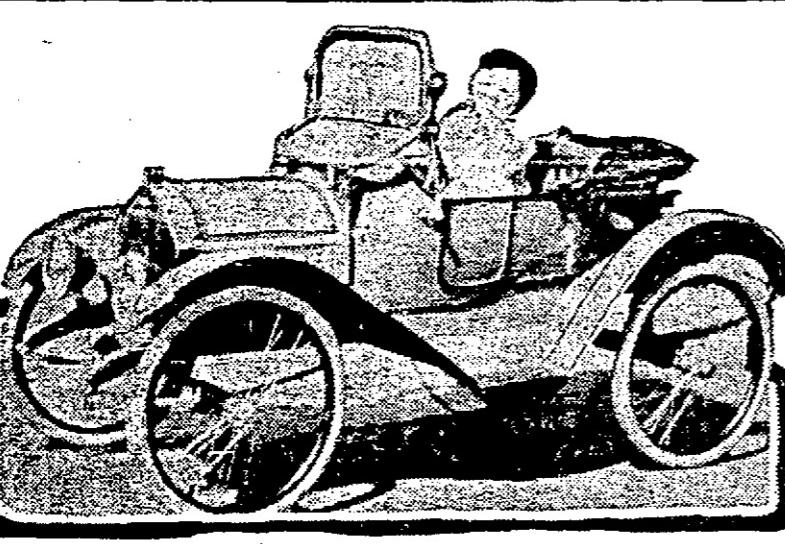

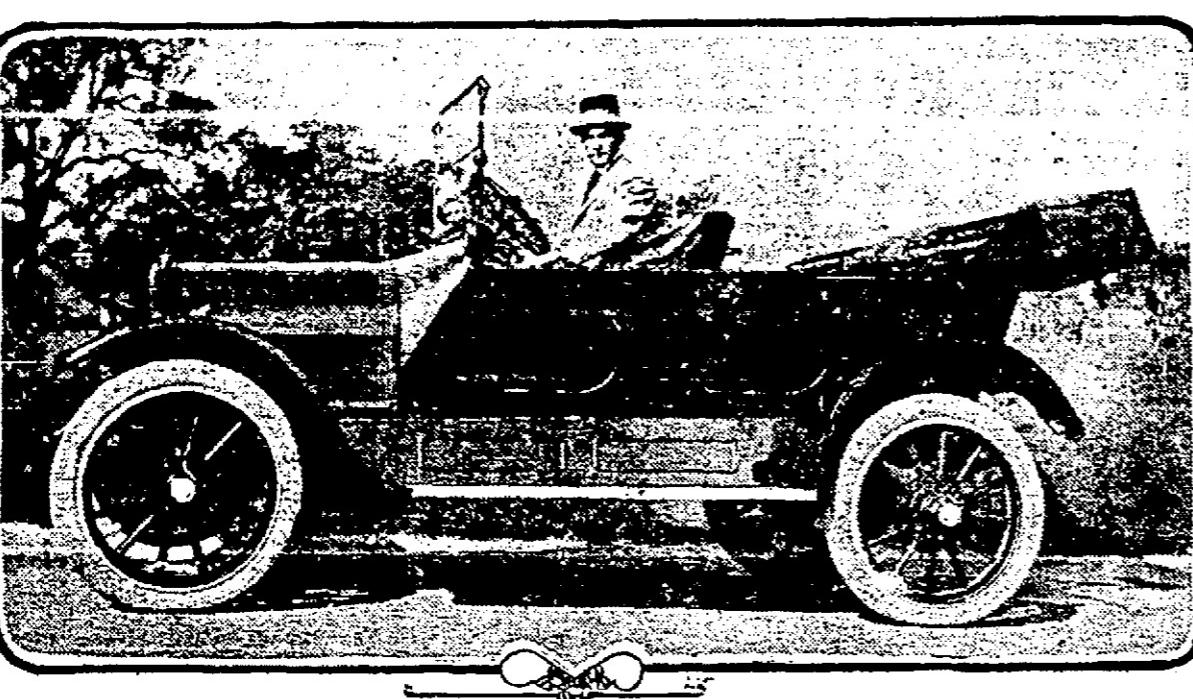

The people are not nervous and trust to the searchlights which play over London at night to save them from the Zeppelins.

IMPROVE CALIFORNIA RIVER PORTERVILLE, Oct. 17.—According to Mayor H. E. McQuown, the board of supervisors of Tulare county has practically given official assurance that a donation of $1000 will be made to the funds needed for doing protective work on the Tuolumne river to guard this district against high water in time of flood. It is stated by the mayor that the district attorney has filed an opinion in which he says that a donation of this amount will be wholly legal. Saturday the mayor and other officials and officers of the Poplar Irrigation companies will visit the site of the proposed work and try to agree upon a plan which will accomplish the desired purpose.

A THOUSAND FORD AUTOS EVERY DAY

A thousand cars a day for 306 days. Excluding Sundays and holidays, this constitutes the "working year."

This is the production schedule of the Ford Motor Company, according to Ben Hammond, Oakland manager of the Pacific Kressel Kar branch, licensed Ford car dealer. Hammond says:

"That is a production of 396,000 Ford cars for the year. That promises the minimum production of 300,000 cars upon which the Ford Motor Company insures each purchaser of a Ford car, between August 1, 1914, and August 1, 1915, a sum of 100 to $50 per car.

"The surprising and the unprecedented feature of the Ford schedule, to most people, is that any automobile company can calmly and confidently plan its daily production a year, or even three months, in advance—much as if it were bread or some other staple that is being made and sold.

The Ford is not subject to the condition and laws of the rest of the automobile industry. Unlike all other cars, the Ford can not be considered as just a luxury. It is considered an economic necessity. I suppose no more bread is sold and eaten in April than in October. The demand for bread is constant. So is the demand for Ford cars. In periods of business depression we economize in our luxuries. It is the market for higher—or higher-priced cars that falters then. The citizen moved to economizing, buys less expensive clothes, cigars, hats, gloves, candy and motor cars. But he goes right on buying bread and shoes and clothes and Ford cars—because these are necessities. These are staples.

"For such reasons the Ford Motor Company, the only one among the motor car manufacturers of the world which can safely plan a daily production a year in advance, simply because the demand for Ford cars and the market for Ford cars are unchanged.

"And, by the way, a continuous production of 1,000 cars a day and the fact that the Ford Motor Company is at this minute more than 20,000 cars behind its orders, offer pretty good evidence of the size of our crops and the confidence and prosperity of the American people. Don't they?"

"These United States of ours make a pretty good place to live in these days."

SALE OF 'FRISCO ROAD INVESTIGATED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Some details concerning the acquisition and subsequent sale of the Frisco Road at a loss of millions were developed today when the investigation into the financial operations of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad was resumed before the Interstate Commission.

George C. McMurtry of New York, a director of the Rock Island operating company and of the New Jersey holding company of the Rock Island, gave testimony tending to show that the board of directors practically was dominated by Daniel G. Reid. The witness said he knew personally very little concerning the financial operations of the several companies.

Upon cross-examination McMurtry said that as usual in such company operations he relied on the reports of the executive committee which had direct charge of them.

GOSSIP TOLD FROM CHALMERS CAR FOR NEW TIRE FACTORY A DAY THE REWARD

Hercules Plant Is Rushed With Orders for the New Non-Skid Tires.

Nothing succeeds like success, is the rule, and they are all running at the new Oakland tire factory of the Davis Tire Manufacturing Company, makers of the already famous Hercules tire.

Orders for the new tires are coming in faster than the factory is able to make the tires, and President George L. Davis of the company expects to leave today for the East to order more special machinery with which to advance the factory output and also to arrange for the delivery of materials in immense quantities. Davis expects to be gone 30 days.

I wish to express the great satisfaction of myself and family for the use of the Chalmers car on Sunday, October 11, which was our privilege on account of answer to inquiry to the Oakland Tribune as to what I would do if I had this car for a day.

"I wish to express, in the first place, the very satisfactory service rendered by the chauffeur, Mr. Netherland, if he be ever and for his care in handling the car and very agreeable manner in carrying out my wishes, as well as assistance rendered in taking care of the various parties that were taken out in the car during the day. The blind and lame, the poor, the crippled, the aged children, the wives with their young ones, all appreciated bound measure the pleasure of the day, as well as the fine service of the car and driver.

"For myself, I can say that I found the car one of the most pleasant and easy riding that I have yet used, and in every respect the service could not have been improved upon.

"Many thanks to your company for the delightful outing that it has afforded myself and family.

"Yours truly,

"WM. H. GROAT."

GASOLINE RECORDS.

Miss May Malcolm, who purchased one of the first Premier-Welday roadster models from the A. B. Cosby Company, wired from Stockton yesterday that she had driven the car from San Francisco to Stockton on five gallons of gasoline, which is considered a remarkable showing for a six-cylinder car by motorists.

"After using the four tires in the Pleasanton race, without a change, I drove over the surrounding country with them, and then made the trip from San Jose to Fresno with them, and they were subject to some pretty bad roads. Upon reaching Fresno I did not change tires, but entered the fifty miles race, winning second money.

"Hereafter, I shall always use Hercules tires on any car that I may be driving, and you may always refer anyone to me for a good word concerning the lubricants that won't splash, won't do 'Quality of the tires.'

MOTOR MYSTERIES REVEALED TO ALL

Opportunity to see the real "inside working" of a motor car while in motion doesn't fall to the average motorist every day. Few motorists, indeed, know what is going on inside the steel covered crank case and gear housings as he spins serenely along. That's why everyone who owns or operates a car should visit the display at the Standard Oil company booth at the Alameda county exhibition at Idora park.

This display is unique as well as instructive. It consists of a White and a Ford chassis with parts of the engines removed. It shows the motorist things about his car he didn't know before. It shows how the oil in the crank case is made to reach all parts of the cylinder and the bearings while the engine is running. It shows how different kinds of transmission lubricants do their work in short, it shows him what is really going on while the "wheels turn round."

One of the Standard Oil men at the exhibition said that these exhibits were a graphic explanation of why his company recommended fluid or semi-fluid lubricants for transmissions and rear axles.

The only way these can be lubricated is by splash from the reservoir tanks. The splash lubrication for war.

"In the future, I shall always use Hercules tires on any car that I may be driving, and you may always refer anyone to me for a good word concerning the lubricants that won't splash, won't do 'Quality of the tires.'

BUICK DRIVERS CLIMB OUT OF TROUBLE

STUDEBAKER AUTO ON SOLANO ROADS

San Francisco Motorists Are Delighted With Road Conditions.

Motorists in their eagerness to explore some of the almost inaccessible scenic wonders of the state, travel long distances to get to them, but, in doing so, they leave behind beautiful hills and valleys where many miles of exhilarating driving could be indulged in.

A varied motor-tour in point of scenic and topographical characteristics, as well as interesting from a touring standpoint, is that drive which takes the auto-tourist through the foothill country of Solano county—the early fruit raising section of California—and back by the river delta to the coast. It is safe to say that had Fred Gross and Claude McGee of the Howard Automobile Co. been following this advice, they would not have arrived at the very edge of Echo Lake with their little truck touring car one day last week. In speaking of their experience, McGee says: "Both Gross and myself have made so many trips to Tahoe over both the Emigrant Gap and Placerville roads that there is no longer any novelty in it. Last Monday we were on our way home from Nevada and when we came across a big sign a short distance west of the Placerville summit stating that Echo Lake was only one mile off the road, we decided to visit it, and as the day was rather warm, we preferred driving the Buick as far as possible before starting to walk. Much to our surprise we found a fairly good road which took us up over a high ridge and down on the other side. The first view we had of the lake was when we came out onto a heavily wooded flat some half an acre in extent, located at quite an elevation above the water. The road we were following seemed to end here, and had we been content to walk the remaining distance we would be one pair of tires ahead. We did not walk, however, and that is the story. Gross, who was driving, followed around the edge of the flat and finally found what looked to be a road leading down the side of the mountain. This we followed and the farther we went the steeper and narrower it got. When about half way down a hairpin turn was encountered which was so steep that the car fairly seemed to stand on end, and upon rounding this the road was found to be soft and boggy from a spring which drained into it. Upon reaching the water's edge we found two men working on a small building, and the first thing they greeted us with was, "Well, now you are here, how are you going to get out?" They also told us that only one other car had been down there and that it had taken 16 men 3 hours with a block and tackle to get out.

DISCOURAGING NEWS.

"All this information was not very cheering to us as we knew there was no help available and that it was to be a little Buick to pull itself out of the hole we had dug for it. For the life of us we could not see how it was to get traction. After making a couple of pictures of the car at the water's edge, and enjoying the view of the unusually fine scenery, we started out. Everything went fine until we came to the wet part of the road, and then the rear wheels spun around like they were in so much grease. We backed down the grade to a dry place and put on big heavy chains and went at it again. The wheels continued to spin, but once in a while the chains would take hold of a rock or something, and the car would move forward a few inches, when it would again dig its way down to traction. We finally got past the wet part of the road and although the grade was very steep, no further trouble was encountered until the hairpin turn was reached. Here the road had been filled in with rough granite boulders and a little sand and dirt thrown on top. The grade was so steep that the top dressing offered no traction at all, and the next 175 feet was made with the rear wheels plowing through 6 to 10 inches of soft earth to the rough granite boulders which formed the road bed. When the chains came in contact with the granite, the mud and sparks would fly, and the heel of breaking rubber from the tires was very noticeable. About 15 minutes after leaving the edge of the lake, the little Buick reached the flat where it should have been left in the first place, and after removing the chain from the rear wheels, we were again on our way. In spite of the fact that the treads of our GoodYear No-Rim-Cut Tires were literally torn to shreds, we came on to San Francisco without the least bit of trouble, and to see and ride in the car one would not think that it had been through such an experience. Once we were on top we did not drive back to see what the two natives thought of our getting out, but it is a safe bet that they were very much surprised."

ANSWERS EMERGENCY CALLS.

The value of the motorcycle in emergency cases recently demonstrated in Kansas City, Mo., when a heavy rain-storm seriously damaged the telephone system throughout the city. The telephone company had 3000 trouble calls during one hour.

It is, of course, out of the question for the two trouble wagons to attend to all of these calls. Therefore, the eighteen repair men employed by the company were dispatched on cycles. Delays were incurred to ascertain the extent of the damage, and in many instances were able to make repairs without calling for the trouble wagons.

WHEAT SEES "BULL" MOVE FOR FIRST TIME IN WEEKS

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Wheat had the first steady bull movement in several weeks during the last week and the close today found December 4c and May 4½c above last week's closing figure.

Improved demand was the feature that inspired buying all week. The Liverpool market was bullish nearly every day, the local market reflecting sentiment at Liverpool.

Corn rallied late in the week from early bear raids, and the close today found prices 5-6c to 7-8c higher than last Saturday. Wet weather and the strong wheat market were the particular bull factors.

Demand for oats for export was extremely heavy this week, but so were receipts. The demand, however, so far outweighed the supply that prices gained 1 1/4c.

Provisions moved in irregular fashion all week, without recording important changes. Pork lost 30c during the week, and lard and short ribs closed steady to a shade higher than last week's closing figures.

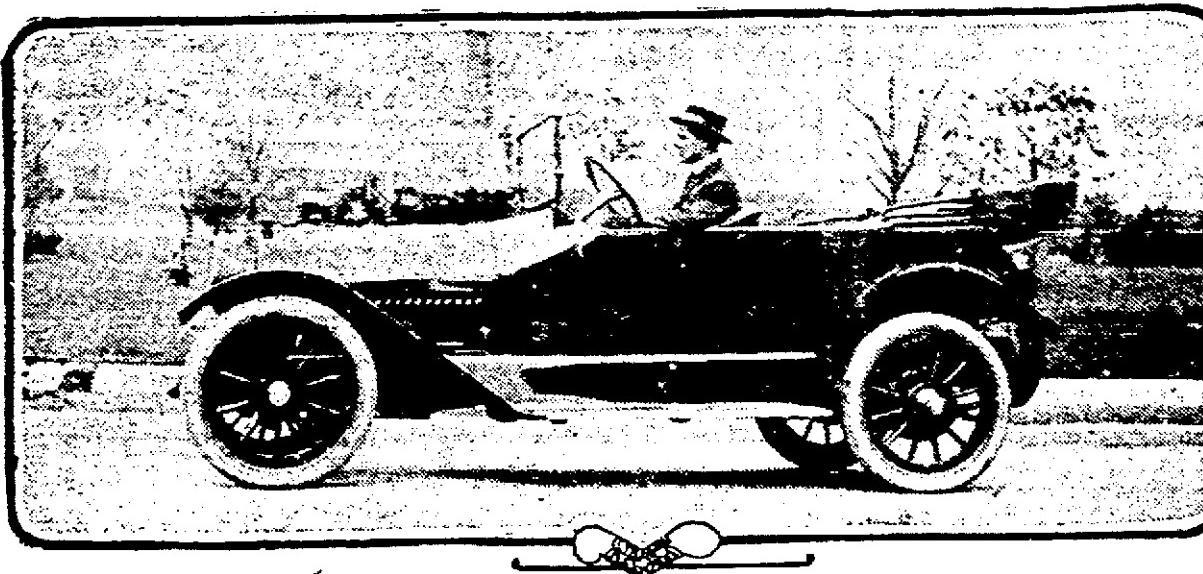

INVESTIGATE BLINDPIG.

VISALIA, Oct. 17.—Judge W. R. Wallace, by an order entered in the case of Earl Brown, a Badger charged with bootlegging, instructed that in all cases coming to his notice under the Wyllie law he would investigate a thorough investigation into the morals of the alleged offender before pronouncing sentence. He ordered a report concerning Brown's past record by the probation officer. Brown admitted his guilt and desired sentence at once. The court, however, desired further information. The Judge's decision is taken as indicative of the end of set sentences in the case of blind pigs. Heretofore all pigs have received a set sentence of 90 days.

A. C. Hull, who for years has been identified with the automobile business in Oakland, has joined the selling organization of the Osen and Hunter Auto Company handling the Humpmobile line of cars.

These hints for repairmen are taken from "No-Rim-Cut News," the publication for dealers issued by The Goodyear Tire Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio.

"When dark-curing cement is used in repairing white treads, dark lines and marks are left that will spoil the appearance of the most workmanlike job.

Realizing this fact, we have for some time past been using a white vulcanizing cement in our own repair department, and with such excellent results that we are adding to our regular line of repair material.

EASY TO REPAIR.

"Repairmen often turn away trade in motorcycle tire repairs because they suppose they can't repair a motorcycle tire without a complete equipment of sectional molds. This is not necessary.

Cement two or three piles of light fabric on the inside, flatten the casing out and cure it in the tube plates.

SAND BAGS USED.

"Sand bags may be used instead of air bags in curing tread cuts. Internal pressure only is needed against the tread in such repairs. For each sectional mold size one sand bag and one steel bar will be needed. The bag should be of heavy canvas, shaped like a common salt bag and filled loosely (not packed) with fine sand. The steel bar should be of one inch section about a foot long and curved so it will fit within the mold.

"The sand bag is placed within the casing the casing dropped within the sectional mold, and the steel bar laid along the sand bag, concave side up. Screw down the clamp, screw on the mold against the center of the bar. This spreads out the sand bag and supplies the necessary pressure against the tread.

It is a good plan to drill a hole or slot in the bar, so that the clamp screw can get a grip."

WAR TIMES HELP MOTOR INDUSTRY

Hupmobile Representative Is Jubilant Over Demand for Cars.

Reports from motor car centers in America and from district sales offices all over the land indicate that the present war in Europe, instead of depressing the automobile business, has had a tendency to stimulate the sales of both commercial and pleasure cars. In fact, according to the press reports several large companies have had in addition to their local business several handsome orders from foreign governments for cars. The indications are that in spite of the unusual world trade conditions, the American market is in splendid shape and has entered upon an era of great development.

A point in instance of this new revival in automobile buying is brought forcibly to the attention of the public by the statement of A. B. Barkman, western manager for the Hupmobile, who has been unusually busy for the past two months in trying to keep up with the orders for this popular car from the Pacific Coast district. In discussing the situation with C. L. Hebrant of the Olsen and Hunter Co. of Oakland, Barkman says:

"I could dispose of twice as many cars as the factory can supply me with, and I am confronted with a situation which shows beyond a doubt that the American public is paying but little attention to the war scares and rumors of financial stringency. In Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, Portland, Oakland, Los Angeles and San Francisco, and in fact all the cities in my territory, the same insistent call for 1915 Hupmobiles reaches me, so that my telegrams to the factory for more cars have reached a proportion greater than ever before."

"In speaking with Mr. Linn of the Linz-Sanborn Company, the San Francisco Hupmobile distributor, I was informed that he could dispose of two hundred cars in the next thirty days, if he could get them, which demonstrates the fact that people of this section have learned to appreciate the sterling qualities in motor car construction which go to make up the Hupmobile. Our 1915 models are now arriving weekly, and are a revelation to the automobile industry. The power, consistent running qualities and uniform ability to meet the requirements of every day city and country driving, which these cars possess, has made the demand for them unprecedented here as well as throughout the rest of the country."

Barkman is very sanguine over the way the automobile market is maintaining itself in spite of adverse foreign trade conditions, and stated that 1914 would go down in the annals of the industry as one of the brightest years.

ENGLAND RUSHING MAIL TO SOLDIERS AT FRONT

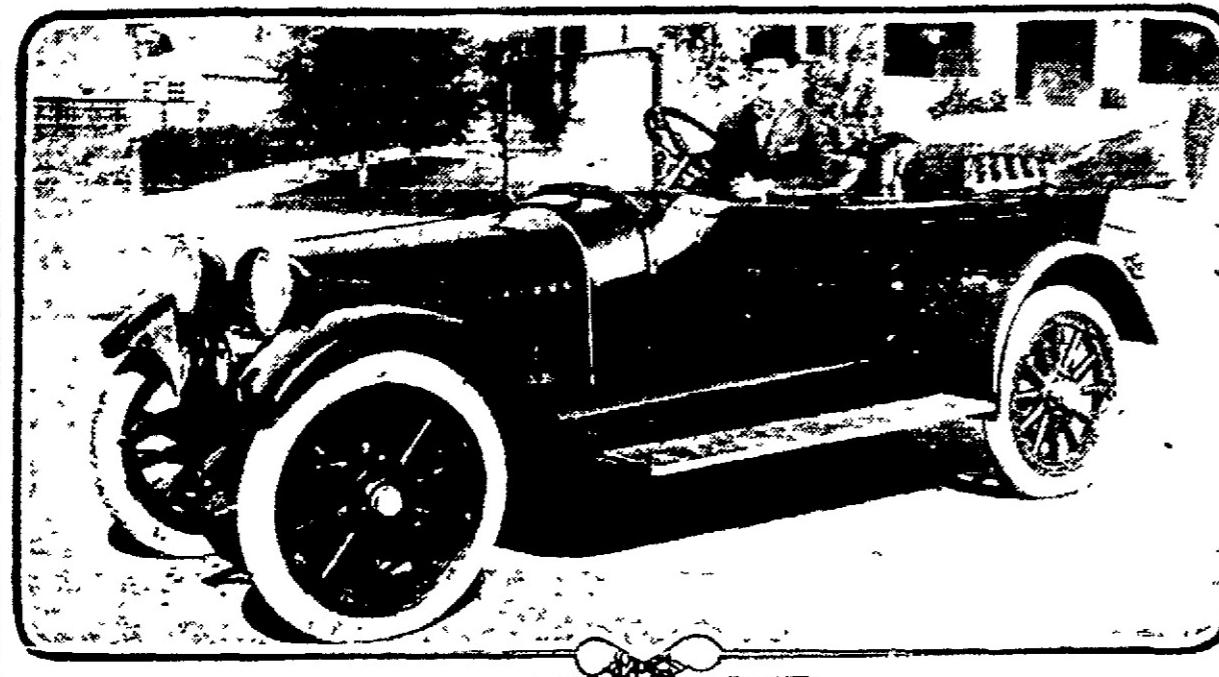

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Thousands of letters and cards postmarked "Army Base Postoffice" and bearing a circular mark in red, which means approved by censor, are now being received daily. The promptness of the delivery is in striking contrast to the slow moving of commercial mail and a tribute to the completeness and efficiency of the British army equipment.

Every command in the battle line has its field post office tent containing collapsible sorting racks, folding table, letter box, mail bags and other necessary paraphernalia, with an attachment to the army post office corps in charge.

The army post office corps is made up of London post office employees enrolled in the territorial or militia. In the Egyptian campaign of 1882 the corps first saw service, consisting then of 100 men and two officers. During the South African war the force was increased to 640 officers and men, of whom several were killed in action while fifty died of disease. Its record week at that time was the distributing of 312,416 letters and 19,012 parcels and the dispatching of 108,150 letters and

HUDSON SUPPORTS OVERLAND FACTORY BUY-A-BALE MOVE GETS HIGH HONORS

Awarded First Place at Auto Shows; Is the Largest Manufacturer.

For the second consecutive year, the Willys-Overland Company has been awarded the first choice of exhibition space at the New York and Chicago Automobile Shows. The awards are based entirely on the volume of business done by the companies affiliated with the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which includes practically all of the prominent automobile manufacturers in the United States.

The space allotments were made at a meeting held October 8th for that purpose by the chamber which promotes the two biggest show events on the automobile calendar. The action officially shows that the Willys-Overland Company has the largest manufacturer connected with the organization for the past two years.

The honor of having your exhibit occupy first position in the national shows is one of the highest which the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has in its power to bestow. It is an honor for which there is keen competition on the part of the prominent motor car manufacturers. Each company is anxious to secure that particular location in the show, which by virtue of its advantages, shows the public the company's position in the industry.

It is claimed of enormous factory productions have been made frequently by some manufacturers who believe that such exaggeration gains for them a little false prestige. The industry in general is not benefited by inflated figures.

But the Automobile Chamber of Commerce is in possession of sworn statements on the production of each member, and, consequently, its announcement of positions in the automobile shows is positive proof of the relative size of the companies affiliated with the organization.

Using present conditions as a criterion, the Willys-Overland Company fully expects that the season just started will be bigger than the one on which the allotment was based. Since the start of the fiscal year on July 1 the number of Overland sales is 50 per cent greater than those received during the same period of last year. All of the 75,000 cars the company contemplates building this year have been contracted for by Overland dealers.

FIRE ALARM CALLS MEETING.

TAFT, Oct. 17.—Tutitans living along North and Kern streets are preparing to make things hot for an alleged peeping Tom who has been caught a number of times looking into windows, but who in each instance has made a good getaway. Two weeks ago he was seen looking into the window at the home of a Kern street resident, and in the excitement an alarm of fire was turned in. Tuesday night he was seen peeping into the home of Assistant Postmaster Verling Balaam. Mrs. Hummel, a next door neighbor, discovered the peeper and in letting Balaam know of it she made some noise, alarming the intruder.

TAFT YOUTH RUN AWAY.

TAFT, Oct. 17.—Clarence Brownfield, the 14-year-old son of Mrs. B. M. Brownfield of San Emidio street, is missing, having left home several days ago without saying goodbye, and no word has since been heard from him. Probation Officer Badger called on the boy and gave him a strong warning a week ago, which it was thought he would heed. Apparently he was afraid of being taken away by Badger and ran away from home to avoid being sent to the reformatory or the detention home.

Most Beautifully Built
Enclosed Car To-Day!

Closed car owners are even more particular than the average.

An enclosed car must be your drawing room, luxurious, beautifully upholstered and mounted on an absolutely silent chassis.

The Chalmers Limousine has a solid aluminum body—is appointed with the most expensive imported upholstery—and seats five inside, all facing forward.

Note the body work on the Chalmers Limousine and compare it with that of cars costing twice as much.

GOODYEAR WINDOW DISPLAY SUCCESS

Public Attracted by the Clever Arrangement of Tire Dealers.

JIMMIE TORMEY BACK IN SOLID TIRE GAME

J. S. "JIMMIE" TORMEY.

"Jimmie" Tormey, formerly Oakland manager for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, and who for the past year was coast representative for the Henderson motorcycle factory, is again in the tire business handling the sold interests of the Waterhouse and Lester Company, which firm is representing the solid tire retail interests for Goodyear.

WIVES LASH MONTEREY.

PACIFIC GROVE, Oct. 17.—The 48 hours ending with daylight of Wednesday morning saw the arrival of the Pacific Coast Monterey peninsula with unwept fervor. Gustic billows lifting and falling over the rocky coast in a manner to cause early residents to gaze in wonder at the force and power of the briny deep. The bay shoreline, from Monterey to the lighthouse, and on to Moss Beach has been thickly dotted with humanity, gazing with unabated interest on the seeming fury of the waves. Lover's Point, with its bulb gardens, was kept moist with salt spray, an occasional breaker throwing its full across the high neck of ground.

ATTACKED BY COW.

LOS MOLINOS, Tehama County Oct. 17.—George P. Engle, an aged farmer, living near Los Molinos, sustained serious injuries yesterday. He was attending to his cows when one of the animals attacked him and knocked him down. The infuriated animal then jumped on Engle and broke his right thigh bone. Engle, suffering may lay in the corral for about an hour after his injuries before his wife discovered him and ascertained that he was very badly hurt.

Owing to his advanced age, Engle's recovery is apt to be quite slow, as his injuries are serious.

KINGS FARMERS WIN SUIT.

HANFORD, Oct. 17.—In the case of Sumner Raney et al. vs. San Joaquin Lumber and Power Company, which was heard before the state railroad commission on June 1 in this city, the defendants will have to furnish light and power to the ranchers and other consumers in the territory between Lemoore and Hardwick. The decision is long and complicated, but it is a decided victory for the plaintiffs and for the people whom they represent.

POULTRY MEN PAY FOR EGGS.

TULARE, Oct. 17.—The report of the Tulare Co-Operative Poultry Association today for September business shows $2000 paid out for eggs received here during the month, there being a slight fall off in production and an increase in prices. However, the poultry business for the month was unusually large and the total business for the month was brought up to $4000.

FIRE ALARM CALLS MEETING.

DELANO, Oct. 17.—Barclay McCowen, candidate for Kern county district attorney, spoke here at 10 o'clock last night to one of the largest crowds that has ever greeted a speaker in Delano. The people assembled here early in the evening to hear him, but his automobile became lost on the desert. The town hall was not where he finally arrived, and many people who had gone to hear him were reassured to hear him.

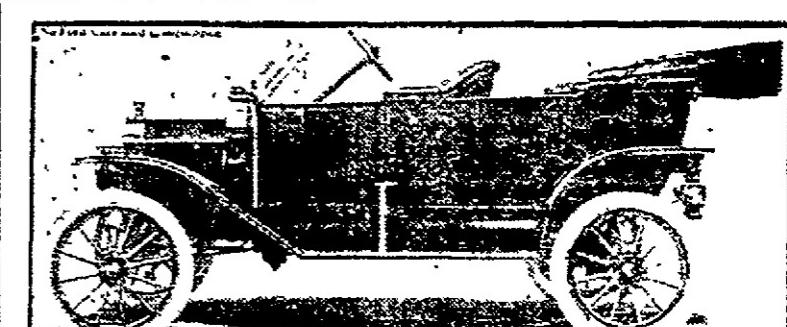

HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

STOCKTON, Oct. 17.—Andrew Ubaldi, an employee of the Stockton Ice and Fuel Company, had a narrow escape from death when he was struck by a switch engine at the corner of Monroe and Taylor streets. The injured man was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in the auto patrol by Officer McLachlan. Examination proved that he was suffering from nothing more serious than severe lacerations and bruises about the back.

INVENTS FREAK 'PLANE WITH WINGS ON SIDE

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 17.—A flying machine that will fly and not glide is claimed to have been perfected by Henry J. Casanova of Los Angeles.

The inventor arrived here to demonstrate to Glenn Curtiss the adaptability of his plane, which is one of the freakiest of construction seen at North Island.

It is the intention of Casanova that planes are not only dangerous, but never will become of commercial availibility. He declares that if the flying machine of the future is not a machine of wings exclusively it will be one of a combination of wings and gas. The body of the machine is constructed of bamboo, strongly braced and reinforced with steel wire and aluminum, and in form and shape resembles very much the body of a swallow.

It is equipped with three wings on each side. The wings are constructed of palm leaf fans, overlapped on light cased frames, each fan with valves that open on upward motion and close on downward. The ship is also equipped with two propellers, one at each end with reversed motion.

COUNTY NOT LIABLE.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 17.—As an employer, the county is not responsible under the workers' compensation act for accidents resulting in the loss of pay or wages employed in the road camps. Such is the verdict of the legal department of the industrial accident commission.

"The Charm of the Forehead Should Not Be Neglected—Watch Hair Line and Prevent Ugly Habits of Frowning," says

Madame Ise'bell

As a rule how little we think of a pretty forehead! We take its shape, its texture, its character as a matter of course and concern ourselves little as to whether we can improve these or not.

The fashion of wearing bangs, introduced into America in the eighties when the young middle-aged women were young, may be responsible for some of this indifference, for when the hair is cut to fall over the forehead the hair line naturally becomes neglected. With the exception of a few years when the pompadour was in vogue, hair has been worn more or less over the forehead and with little children the "bobbing" of the hair has long been a popular fashion. Aside from the neglect of the hair line a bad habit of frowning may be acquired and not perceived.

The natural growth of the hair is from the crown of the scalp; that is, towards the ears and nape of the neck, but hair always grows in a direction in this way rarely shows a distinct, attractive hair line. The hair line grows ragged and indistinct, and hair allowed always to fall in the same direction seems to lose life and energy. Attractive hair seems to stand upright, the points pointing of falling flat and lifelike against the scalp. This effect it must be admitted is more commonly found in coarse hair than in fine, but much may be done to cultivate it when it is not natural.

No matter how the hair is worn, it should be dressed down in a contrived direction. The usual fashion of wearing it about the face is to drop it over the forehead and then throw it back, and if the hair is arranged over curlers at night, it follows the same direction. This is bad, for the hair is bad.

An eyebrow brush is as useful in training the hair as it is in training the eyebrows. Use this daily to bring the hair up from the face, no matter how you wear your locks. A parting will also be improved.

Take a wet, clean cloth, hair line with vaseline and then use the tiny brush; this will keep the hair line white and the hair firm and distinct. Moreover, if the hair has any inclination to curl, this treatment will encourage it.

A smooth, unlined, straight brow is a great beauty in a woman and one that does not depend so much on nature as on the individual. Watch the faces about you and note the perfect brows. They are so few.

During this series of lessons Madame Ise'bell will discuss all subjects pertaining to physical health, beauty and the art of dress. She will also answer personal questions by mail if such is accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope.

CANINES CELEBRATE DAY.
SAN DIEGO, Oct. 17.—"Every dog has his day. Tomorrow is 'dog day' in San Diego, after sunrise Pido Rover, Prince or Jeff may roam all around the city without having to be disgraced by wearing a muzzle. No more will the poundmaster drive his dog patrol wagon over the city looking for canines who are minus the official protection against rabies, and no more will said poundmaster cast his butterfly net over the head of some poor unmuzzled "pup" and haul him off to the place where many dogs enter and leave hope behind.

The Humane Society says the public will not suffer by the removal of muzzles, as practically every trace of rabies in the county has disappeared.

HARTSOOK PHOTO

MISS THALIA WEED NEWCOMB AND JOHN JOY ROBINSON OF CASTLE HOUSE, NEW YORK.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—With all the available space taken at the big Coliseum for the show given under the auspices of the Retailers Protective Association, known as the Industrial Fair, and the hall elaborately decorated, the second exhibition held by this association bids fair to be the most successful one ever held in San Francisco.

The management has engaged many stars of the vaudeville world and many novelties will be introduced during the nine days that the fair will be held, and which opened last night.

Professor Robinson, the famous New York dance artist, and his capable company have been secured to give a "400 dansant" each afternoon and evening. There will be all sorts of new dances introduced, including the fox trot, Castle Garden one-step, and three-step, and other popular dances.

FRUIT SHIPMENTS EXCEED RECORDS

Two Weeks of Season, Remaining Mark, Already Is High.

BANK STATEMENT SHOWS INCREASE

Cash Reserve Deficit Decreases $6,857,200; $934,050 Below Requirement.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 17.—With only two weeks remaining before the close of the season, the 1914 shipments of fruit, both citrus and deciduous, from the state of California to the markets throughout the country have already broken all existing records.

The movement of the citrus fruits for the season from the state, particularly from Southern California, has been the heaviest ever known.

Figures announced today show that to date 17,432 cars of oranges and lemons have been shipped from this state to the eastern markets. Orange shipments alone totaled nearly 44,000 cars. When the season closes on November 1 the aggregate shipments of the citrus fruit will total more than 50,000 cars.

CITRUS FRUITS.

The shipments of the citrus fruits to date constitute a new record. On November 1, 1912, the big fruit year, 30,001 cars were announced as the total aggregate shipments of citrus fruits for the season, and it was looked upon as a remarkable achievement.

Last year the shipments of citrus fruits from the state to the eastern markets amounted to 18,503 cars.

It is estimated that this year's citrus crop will bring to the California growers approximately $40,000,000.

Deciduous fruit shipments from California for the 1914 season to date totals 15,049 cars. This sets a new record for the state, as the 1913 shipments amounted to 13,332 cars and was the former record.

The heavy increase in the production and shipments of grapes, pears, plums and peaches is directly responsible for the great gain over recent years. More grapes and plums were shipped from this state than ever before.

POLICEMAN RESCUES BOY NOMAD IN NIGHT

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 17.—Tired of school life and led on by the siren calls of the Santa Fe engines which pass near his home, Frank Pogenken, aged 8 years, yesterday decided to become a globetrotter. Leaving his home early in the morning, he traveled to the depot and spent the greater part of the day in looking over the coaches and attempting to decide which best suited his tastes.

Last night he was found by Patrolman Harold Scholes, walking up and down between rows of cars, unaware of the dark and whistling with cheerful mirthlessness. Scholes found that he intended to leave on the Owl this morning, but had not decided which car to take.

Scholes decided that the best place for him was at the police station. He was claimed by his father.

GERMAN BATTERY FIRES UNTIL ALL ARE DEAD

ROME, Oct. 17.—An incident of the battle between the French and Germans near Fiersterny and Scenava is thus described in a Paris dispatch to the Corriere della Sera.

A German battery which had been caught in a swamp, and which for this reason had been cut off from the main force, managed finally to free itself from the mud. Instead of surrendering it continued single-handed the fight against the advancing French. The German artillerymen beat their assailants off with a hellish fire, which the French artillery tried in vain to silence. Until late in the evening the battery continued its deadly work until its ammunition became exhausted and the men were either dead or wounded. When I arrived the brave crew had already been buried, and the guns still rested on trees which the men had placed under the wheels in order that the pieces might not disappear in the mud.

The morning after the engagement

Common garden Sage and Sulphur makes streaked, faded or gray hair dark and glossy at once.

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair.

Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does not naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application of tea, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

CARRILLO TAKES ACTION.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—Charging that between 100 and 200 white girls have been taken from Southern California cities to Mexico, as white slaves, Adolfo Carrillo, Mexican consul, has telegraphed to his government asking that some action be taken to "clean up" the Lower California city. A warrant has been sworn out for the arrest of a woman, the alleged leader of the gang, and an effort is being made by agents of the Mexican consul and federal authorities to force her across the line into the United States, where she will be arrested.

SOCIETY GIRL IS ARTIST.

An exhibition of pastel drawings by Miss Isabel Percy of Oakland is being held at Schüssler's gallery in San Francisco. The pictures represent Miss Percy's work during the summer months with Madame Betti Delo Joing, the distinguished French painter. There are drawings of San Juan Bautista and of scenes at Monterey. Miss Percy is the daughter of Mrs. George Percy and is prominent in Oakland society, where there is much interest in the exhibition of her work.

'COBBLER!' SNEERS DUKE AT HANAN

"Household Pet" Sneers Back Millionaire Shoe Dealer at Durazzo.

NEW YORK. Oct. 17.—The Duke Arture de Majo Durazzo, having filed his answer to the annulment suit of the success, formerly, Elizabeth Francis Hanan, filed suit against today.

"But presently—presently," says the duke omniously.

"Household pet," was the comment of his brother-in-law, John Henry Hanan.

"Clever," retorted the duke with a ducal smile.

"They threw me out—shoo—like that," complained Durazzo. "I guess they could not understand. Maybe I could not. But at least I am well bred."

"Of course, I am nothing. But Monsieur Hanan, he abhors publicity and notoriety. So much does he hate it that he rushes to the reporters lest I speak first. Some things he says are based on fact, but he exaggerates greatly. And sometimes he tells the untruth without qualification."

"Oh, yes, they would settle money upon me. Each week I was to receive the princely sum of $25 in the first place, and then we take a percentage in the second place; let me ask, what use would $25 a week be to me? It is more exciting to have nothing."

"Never did I threaten to kill myself. Why should I? I am not that kind of man. The duke bowed his shoulders and smote himself upon the chest. 'I can take care of myself—yes?'

"Nor did I demand of you $50,000. I am no blackmailer. But you shall see."

"In short, shall tell all about it. I am silent. But presently—presently."

While Durazzo was alluding to his brother-in-law as a "cobbler," John Henry Hanan, the millionaire shoe dealer, described the duke as a "household pet."

"After my sister had consented to marry Durazzo," declared Hanan, "I was still a bit suspicious. When it came to a question of a marriage settlement, instead of the Duke, I wrote all about it right, and he did so willingly, apparently."

Mrs. Hanan's wife opposed the match. She advised against it. Three times my sister refused to marry Durazzo."

COURT RECORD SMASHED.

FRESNO. Oct. 17.—The wheel of justice turned swiftly yesterday afternoon when Mary Romana hit Amelia Gabel on the nose, was arrested, pleaded guilty and was fined $5, all in the course of thirty minutes.

The women, who work in a fruit packing house, engaged in a fist fight following a discussion. They were separated, by men and a call sent to the police that one woman had murdered another. A charge of battery was placed against Mary Romano and she pleaded guilty.

'IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE' LATEST NEW YORK HIT

LOUISE DREW AND JOHN W. COPE
'IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE'

SCENE FROM "IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE" AND PICTURE OF LILY CAHILL.

(ROSWELL DAGUE.)

NEW YORK. Oct. 17.—When an author writes a book or play dealing for the first time with some especially timely subject, everyone says "Why didn't someone think of that before?" It's so obvious. With Roswell Daguerre Megrue and Walter Hackett writing "It Pays to Advertise," they crystallized in play form what everyone has known for a long time—that faith in one's self and no shyness about making that faith known is one of the surest creators of success in the eyes of the world. "Say a thing often enough and people will believe it" is only one of the many catch-phrases we use to express that sentiment.

"Timeliness"—that is the secret. Give the theater-going public what it is thinking about in its workaday world, and give it in an interesting fashion and a play can scarcely help but succeed. It was interest in the captains of industry which made Charles Klein's "The Lion and the Mouse" so absorbing and full of the power of man which illustrated Augustus Thomas' "The Witching Hour."

In "It Pays to Advertise," the effects of publicity, of "blowing one's own horn" long and loudly, are dramatized, and dramatized so entertainingly that the "farical fact," as it is called, is one of the biggest successes of the early season. Even Megrue's melodrama of society smugglers, "Under Cover," which ran for months last spring in Boston and is now at the Cort theater, must yield precedence to this collaboration with Hackett.

As a groundwork for their theme, the authors have taken a tale already told often in the past. It is of the rich man's son who goes into business and makes a success of it. Bronson Howard's "The Henrietta," which the late Stuart Robson and William H. Crane made famous, was such a story. It is the new "trimmings" which make the new play one of the cleverest since the winter has ever seen. It has "brain" in it—and brains is as much needed on the stage as in the business world.

SON BUCKS FATHER.

Old Cyrus Martin is the soap King. Rodney is his college-educated son, who won't work. The old capitalist has a clever private secretary—one of the new "business women" with common sense as well as good looks.

The two schemes to give Rodney an incentive to work are letting him think he is in love with the secretary, Mary. Father is supposed to be fond of the threatened mésalliance, and so drives the son from his house. The son has some good spirit, and so announces he will go to work, with Mary as his helper.

So far the scheme works beautifully. But Rodney decides to buck his father in the soap business. In this he is aided by one, Ambrose Peale, late "advance man" for a stranded theatrical troupe, and firmly convinced of the efficacy of touting the merits of what you have to sell. That is a new soap, calculated to appeal to the people who buy only the most expensive things because they are expensive.

Lucky 13 Soap, Unlucky for Dirt" and retailing at $1 a cake is the result. The new concern enters upon a great campaign of advertising. Billboards, sandwich men, folders, all are put into service. Money is spent liberally, profitably.

But there comes the difficulty. The three young promoters run short of funds. Their creditors begin to press them. Old Mr. Martin becomes greatly estranged from his son as a result of what he considers the "sensational" and cheap advertising methods of the youngsters.

Just as everything seems lost, it is those very advertising methods, though, which save the day. The public's eye has been attracted by the catchy trade-mark. Orders begin to come in. A new difficulty arises because in their campaign of publicity, the promoters have made no provision for manufacturing their soap.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

But finally its prospects look good so that father is only too anxious to share in the returns, and as the final curtain falls, this former opponent of "sensational advertising" is seen laying down its advantages to a skeptical business associate. He, too,

Trade in Your Old Stove And Get a New, Modern, Up-to-the-Minute Breuner Gas Range

—the range with the sanitary White Enamelled Paris that can be washed like a chum cup—the range with the patent Auto-Lighter that gives you instant heat by the simple pressure of a button—the range that is made right here in California

—Telephone us ("Oakland 400") and our stove expert will call at your home and give you an estimate on your old stove.

"Hoover" Gets the Dirt Others Leave Behind

—Nearly any cleaner will get the surface dirt. It takes the "Hoover" Suction Sweeper to pick up adhering thread lint, cotton and sewing room litter.

—The "Hoover" cleans automatically by raising the carpet a quarter of an inch from the floor, thus allowing the air to circulate through the carpet. It combines sweeping, shaking and suction.

—The motor does all the work; you simply guide.

—$1.25 a week buys it.

—A phone will bring our free demonstrator to your home.

TIRAILLEURS ARE NOT IN DEMAND

"Self-Supporting" Legion
Banded From Pillar to Post, Charity Objects.

LONDON, Oct. 17 (by mail to New York)—Of all the "legions" of the world which have been raised for service with the allied armies, the Tirailleurs are the most numerous, picquettes and port companies included. Considered by a real soldier and commander, the Tirailleurs are probably the best troops in the world.

But there comes the difficulty.

The three young promoters run short of funds.

Their creditors begin to press them.

Old Mr. Martin becomes greatly estranged from his son as a result of what he considers the "sensational" and cheap advertising methods of the youngsters.

Just as everything seems lost, it is those very advertising methods, though, which save the day.

The public's eye has been attracted by the catchy trade-mark.

But finally its prospects look good so that father is only too anxious to share in the returns, and as the final curtain falls, this former oppo-

is seen laying down its advantages to a skeptical business associate.

He, too, which has persistently refused to recognize the independence of the region beyond French Guiana, over which De Beaufort claims president.

YOU CAN BUY THIS BRAND NEW HOME FOR $5000.

It's one of the best buys we've offered this month.

It would be better to be more conveniently located in such a desirable district.

It's a corner lot, one block from College ave. cars, 10 minutes to the shopping center—a short walk to school and close to several schools.

The neighborhood is most desirable—all built up with splendid homes.

It's an attractive, well-built dwelling of lovely rooms and lighted by large picture windows. Kitchen's room and breakfast room.

This type of dwelling sells for $7000 and more in locations far less desirable.

It's a positive snap at $8000 on terms.

PEED E REED CO., Inc., 729 Syndicate Building, Branch Office Piedmont 943.

YOU can't beat it: Two 5-room bungalows, sleep porch, storeroom, only $2450; easy terms; school, S. P. station, street cars, stores 1 blk.; no agents. J. R. Freeman, owner, 1105 Oak st.; Lake 1296.

SEE YOU SEEN IT?

THE MASTER BUILDER'S BUNGALOW.

This charming home has 5 large, sunny rooms and glass enclosed sleeping porch, a wall bed. It is of cement exterior plaster on wire.

The living room, dining room and hall have hardwood floors and the mantelpiece is artistic to a degree.

Built in the living room are bookcases and writing desk. In the hall a large and airy entrance.

The dining room has a spacious buffet and is artistically papered and paneled.

The kitchen will be the pride of any woman. It is white enameled with many cabinets. Germantown sink top and incorporated. In this kitchen is a famous "Germantown Sink Top". The laundry is of good proportion with two cement zinc wash tubs.

The front and rear bedrooms, together with the bath, open onto a private hall which is connected with the front hall. In the rear there is a large sunroom, a wall bed, etc.

This is the lot 10-40x100, entirely surrounded by trees and lawns. Nothing has been left out of this ideal home to make it one of the most attractive in all the bay regions. Words fail in describing this home. It must be seen to be appreciated. As for the price, it is $2500. We are loaning it to you about it, so be sure and come to our office tomorrow or call by phone, Oakland 259, or call Berkeley 8255 evenings or Sunday.

BANKER DENIES BRIDE'S CHARGES

Her Answer to Wife's Divorce Suit in San Francisco Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—The marital difficulties of Milton J. Levy, nephew of Herman Levy, local banker, who lived fifteen days with his wife, were once more aired today when two aviators filed with County Clerk McCreary in connection with a suit pending in the Superior Court. Mrs. Pauline Lubahn Levy, the bride who is temporarily enjoying a $50 income of the $500 she had asked for as separate maintenance, filed an action for alienating the affections of her husband. This is directed against his uncle, Herman Levy, and his mother, Mrs. Fanny Levy. Today the two last-named filed their answers denying the charges that they had influenced the wife to leave his young wife. At the same time the husband makes a denial to the charge of bride in connection with the suit for maintenance, which is still pending.

The couple were married in Inverness last May. At that time, Levy was employed in his uncle's bank. It is understood that the family were opposed to the match.

CATARRH TROUBLE

No Apparatus, Inhalers, Salves, Lotions, Harmful Drugs, Smoke or Electricity.

Heals Day and Night

It is a new way. It is something absolutely different. No lotions, sprays or sticky smelling salves or creams. No atomizer or any apparatus or any kind nothing to smoke or inhale. No steaming nothing to do except to sit down and relax. No vibration or massage. No powders, no blisters; no keeping in the house. Nothing of that kind at all. Something new and different, something delightful and healthful, something instantly successful you do not have to wait, and linger and pay out a lot of money. You can stop it over night—and I will gladly tell you how to do it. I am a doctor and this is not a so-called doctor's practice, but I am cured and my friends are cured and you can be cured. Your suffering will stop at once like magic.

Am Free—You Can Be Free

My catarrh was fully developed. It made me ill. It dulled my mind. It undermined my health and was weakening my ill. The hawking, coughing, spitting made me obnoxious to all my foul breath and bad dining habits made me a loved one avoid me secretly. My delight in life was dulled and my faculties impaired. I knew that in time it would bring me to an untimely grave, because every moment of the day, and night, I was tormented by the disease.

But I found a cure, and I am ready to tell you about it free. Write me promptly.

MSK JUST ONE CENT

Send no money. Just your name and address on a post card. "Dear Doctor Katz, Please tell me how you cured my catarrh and how I can cure mine."

"It's all you need to say, I will understand, and I will write to you with complete information, FREE, at once. Do not be too timid. Don't think of turning us away until you have asked for this wonderful treatment that can do for you what it has done for me."
